FLIERS MAY CROSS CONTINENT BOTH WAYS BY TONIGHT

Maynard Leading at Salduro, Utah, One Hop from Coast—2,183 Miles in Three Days.

EASTBOUND FLIERS IN OHIO

Smith, Kiel, and Spatz All Hope to Reach Hazelhurst Field, at Mineola, During Day.

FALL KILLS LIEUT. McCLURE

Death of Lieut. Wales Confirmed—Snow, Rain, and Wind Hamper Contestants.

Only 132 miles ahead of three Western contestants, who landed late yesterday afternoon at Bryan, Ohio, to remain until this morning, Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, the preacher-aviator, reached Saiduro, Utah, at 6:03 o'clock (Pacific time) last night.

Tired, but cheerful, when he alighted from his De Havilland-4, in which he had covered 2,183 miles since Wednesday morning, he announced that he would be on his way to San Francisco, the last lap of the trip across the continent, by sunrise today.

Captain Lowell H. Smith, who has been leading the fliers headed east, reached Bryan at 4:50 o'clock in the afternoon. He was closely followed by Lieutenant E. C. Kiel and Major Carl Spatz, who now loom up as possible winners in the race, as the result of remarkable time they made during the day. Spurred by the slim lead of Lieutenant Maynard, their Eastern opponent, they said they expected to reach Mineola today. All four leaders are piloting De Haviland-4's. These fliers now have covered 2,051 miles of their eastward trip.

Lieutenant Maynard might have made good his promise to reach San Francisco last night if he had not developed radiator trouble when he landed at Cheyenne. His nearest Eastern competitor is Captain H. C. Drayton, who stopped for the night at Rawlins, Wyo.

Lieutenant Maynard flew from Cheyenne to Salt Lake City, 387 miles, in just five hours, arriving at 5:32 P. M. He said that he encountered the roughest flying on the whole trip between Rawlins, Wyo., and Salt Lake City. Just before starting for the next control station, Trixie, his pet Belgian police dog, which has been accompanying him on the trip, jumped out of the fuselage and ran around the field. The dog was put on board before Lieutenant Maynard took off again.

The accident to Lieut. Maynard's machine held him back considerably. His mileage for the day was 487. Capt. Drayton covered 673 miles, as he started in the morning from Des Moines.

The eastbound fliers gained on both Lieutenant Maynard and Captain Drayton, helped by more favorable weather. Captain Smith started from Omaha and traveled 591 miles, while Lieutenant Kiel and Major Spatz, starting from St. Paul, Neb., both covered 723 miles before overtaken by sunset.

Lieutenant Maynard has still to fly 518 miles to reach the Pacific coast. The eastward fliers will have completed their first one-way journey across the continent when they have flown 650 miles more.

Lieut. McClure Killed at Buffalo.

There was one fatality yesterday, making five killed since the start of the race Wednesday. Lieutenant Worth McClure, passenger in a plane piloted by Lieutenant A. L. Snead, was fatally injured when the machine crashed at Buffalo while making a landing. He was thrown on his head when the plane dived to the ground and died on the way to a hospital. Lieutenant Snead was not seriously hurt.

Officials of the race at the control station at Rawlins, Wyo., received confirmation during the day of the death of Lieutenant E. V. Wales, who crashed into the side of Elk Mountain, forty miles from there, on Thursday during a snowstorm. Despatches from Rawlins say that when the accident occurred Lieutenant Goldsborough, who was a passenger in the plane, although injured himself, walked three miles to a farmhouse for help. When a rescue party reached Lieutenant Wales he was dead.

Unfavorable weather prevailed along the greater part of the route yesterday. Between New York and Chicago there were high winds, which aviators flying the course reported as reaching a velocity at times of forty-five miles an hour. Contestants who were flying in both directions between Chicago and Cheyenne found fairly good weather in spots.

Under authority from Washington, entries were re-opened yesterday and there were two new starters from Roosevelt Field. Lieutenant Ross Kirkpatrick, who met with a mishap on Wednesday, made a fresh getaway at 11:56 o'clock. Lieutenant C. W. McDonald was the second man to leave, taking off at 1:23:15. Colonel Gerald C. Brant, who met with an accident on the first day of the race at Deposit, N. Y., in which Sergeant Nevitt, his passenger, was killed, arrived at Mineola yesterday and expects to re-enter today.

Hampered by Bad Weather.

Telegrams giving an idea of the different kinds of weather encountered along the 2,701-mile course were received during the day by the Contest Committee, which is keeping the records sent in from the twenty-one control stations. Cadet A. J. Nassamer and Lieutenant S.

King Completes for England Ratification of the Treaty

LONDON, Oct. 10.—King George today completed Great Britain's ratification of the German Peace Treaty. The document ratified by him has been dispatched to Paris.

A special messenger took the document, which comprised also the agreement concerning the Rhine Provinces and the treaty respecting Poland. This will be the first complete copy of the treaty ratified and deposited in Paris.

SEEKS TO EXCLUDE SWANN IN I.R.T. CASE

Grand Jury Says Reckless Agitation of Public Unrest Is Inimical to People.

ASK FOR SPECIAL COUNSEL

District Attorney and Court Reject Proposal—Swann Says Jurors Are Not Disinterested.

The Extraordinary Grand Jury sought to have District Attorney Swann excluded yesterday from any further activity in their investigation of the conspiracy charge made by Mayor Hylan, who alleged that the recent car strike appeared to have been brought about by collusion between officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Brotherhood of employes for the purpose of forcing the city authorities to agree to increased fares.

In place of the county prosecutor and his assistants the jurymen requested Justice Weeks in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court to appoint a special counsel to assist them in the continuation of the inquiry.

Mr. Swann declined peremptorily to agree to the appointment of special counsel, declaring he had experts engaged for four months studying every phase of the traction and transit situations and that the members of his staff were better qualified for the work than any outside attorneys. The court sustained him in this, ruling that the presentation of the evidence to the jury concerning the traction matter was one within the exclusive jurisdiction of the District Attorney.

Mr. Swann told the Court that he considered that at least two of the jurymen were unqualified to act in the Interborough investigation. He followed the jurymen from the court to their room in the Criminal Courts Building and served notice upon them that he desired to relieve them of any further consideration of traction matters and the milk investigation.

The jurymen, who were convened especially to inquire into charges of criminal anarchy, declined to permit the withdrawal of the traction and milk charges and announced they would continue the investigations of both these matters. Then the prosecutor further notified them that he would assist and comply with their wishes, but that he and his assistants would take no further initiative in the investigations.

The Grand Jurymen condemned the recent attacks on Judge Mayer and told Justice Weeks that they desired to go into all phases of the transit situation and requested that George Gordon Battle be appointed special counsel. Part of a statement that Raymond F. Almiral, foreman of the jury, submitted to Justice Weeks when all of the jurymen had reached the courtroom, read:

"Because of the evidence adduced during the John Doe investigation by the Extraordinary Grand Jury of the crime of conspiracy charged against the Brotherhood of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company employes and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company by the Hon. John F. Hylan, Mayor of New York, involving a serious attainder against labor and capital jointly, the Extraordinary Grand Jury has voted unanimously to inaugurate immediately an investigation of the entire and complete transit situation, and matters related or pertaining thereto, in addition to if not in connection with its special work of criminal anarchy.

"The Extraordinary Grand Jury is of the opinion that such further public discussion as has been characterized by insinuations affecting a distinguished Federal Judge now sitting in New York, and reflecting on the judiciary in general and separately, is incompatible with the constructive purposes of government, conducive to public disorder and the misinformation, if not deception, of the public at large at a time particularly when all legitimate influences should be limited in the processes of conservation—is useless and obscurant of the facts.

"Because of the various postponements, interruptions in the presentation of testimony resulting from the congestion in the office of the District Attorney, and otherwise, the Extraordinary Grand Jury has voted unanimously that your Honor cause to be appointed or designated immediately a special Assistant District Attorney, in the person of George Gordon Battle, or, he declining, such other like officer not connected with the staff of the District Attorney, who may be acceptable to the foreman or committee of the jury, representing and hereby authorized by the Extraordinary Grand Jury to act, and who shall attend on and carry forward any and all such investigations with which the jury has been or may be charged by your Honor, or may of itself initiate, during the entire period of its incumbency.

"That there be similarly designated, when required by the jury, such assistants, clerks, stenographers, accountants, and the like, legally authorized to act as may be necessary to the prompt

REPORT RIGA TAKEN IN GERMAN DRIVE WITH RUSSIAN AID

LETTISH ARMY GAVE WAY

PROTEST TO PEACE COUNCIL

New Threat of Blockade to Force von der Goltz's Withdrawal Is Framed.

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 11.—The advance guard of Colonel Avaloff-Bermondt entered and occupied Riga Wednesday evening or Thursday morning, according to The Daily Mail's Helsingfors correspondent.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 10.—German troops under General Von der Goltz, together with Russians under Colonel Avaloff-Bermondt, attacked the Letts thirty kilometers from Riga and occupied Shlotak, which is outside the demarcation line, according to a report issued by the Lettish Bureau at Riga.

The report adds that the attack was repulsed with sanguinary losses.

The forces of General Von der Goltz include Imperial German troops, with tanks and airplanes, says the report, which adds that the Germans attempted to bomb Riga, but were repulsed.

The Letts say that their losses were small.

A state of siege has been proclaimed at Riga as a precautionary measure. Reserves are being formed among those who are unable to go to the front. Soldiers who were starting toward the front were pelted with flowers.

The Lettish Bureau says that the Germans and Russians attacked on the front of St. Olai, thirty kilometers from Riga, and the shore of the Gulf of Riga, occupied the coastal town of Shlotsk, and also attacked the coastal town of Dubbelm.

The Letts, in addition to saying that they inflicted sanguinary losses on the enemy and destroyed an armored train at the St. Olai station, declare that they cut up two companies of Germans with their machine-gun fire.

The fighting continues on the whole of the front.

Germans Attack at Night.

Another dispatch from Riga says that the Germans attacked repeatedly during the night in overwhelming numbers and with all modern weapons, but that the Letts successfully counterattacked. The dispatch adds that both soldiers and civilians are filled with enthusiasm, and that volunteers are joining the ranks day and night. These include students of all classes.

Lettish soldiers who have been fighting with the British and French at Archangel have just arrived at Riga by steamship and have been rushed to the front.

British and French warships in the harbor of Riga have cleared for action, according to a dispatch from Riga, on account of the attack by German troops upon the Lettish Army.

Colonel Avaloff-Bermondt has proclaimed Courland and Mitau as belonging to the Russian General Government and has assumed the title of Governor General, according to the Lettish Bureau. He has curtly demanded permission from the Lettish Government for the passage of his troops to the Russian frontiers.

Berlin advices from Mitau, twenty-seven miles south of Riga, say that the Russian and German forces in that vicinity have reached an agreement in regard to the gradual evacuation of the country. Notice of this has been given to the representatives of the Entente at Mitau.

Pledges von der Goltz Withdrawal.

A Berlin telegram from Mitau states that Colonel Avaloff-Bermondt on Oct. 8 handed to the Entente representative a note addressed "to the representatives of the Allied Power in Russia," reading:

"In order to combat Bolshevism, restore order and secure the safety of my base of action, I have, as head of the Russian army in the western provinces, concluded an agreement with the commanders of the German army corps occupying the country, under which I guarantee the gradual withdrawal of their troops and the safety of their transportation to Germany.

"In order to help remedy the chaotic state of the administration of the provinces occupied by my troops, I appointed a central committee charged to draft and organize a temporary administration and also to prepare foundations for liberal administrative measures on a democratic basis in accordance with the wishes of the population.

"The present Lettish Government began to send a number of Lettish troops against the boundaries of my military base, which violated the neutral zone. This evoked a number of minor collisions while my troops were replacing German posts.

"I had given my posts orders, despite the continued provocation, not to let themselves become involved with the Letts and Esthonians. The latter interpreted my action as weakness and attacked my positions.

"I was compelled to take measures for my military safety and occupy a new line, making it possible to march against and effectively combat the enemies of my country and Bolshevism. I hope that the powers allied with my country will support my endeavors in

Germany to Issue 5% Loan for 5,000,000,000 Marks

BERLIN, Oct. 10, (via London.)—Germany will issue a 5 per cent. premium loan to the amount of 5,000,000,000 marks, the interest on which will be payable only with the principal on the redemption of the loan, it is announced.

Inducements will be offered to purchasers of the issue in the form of bonuses and drawings, with a number of prizes of 1,000,000 marks.

CENTRE ON SHIELDS IN TREATY FIGHT

HITCHCOCK CLAIMS LEAD

Norris Assails Wilson's Position on Shantung—Lodge to Speak Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The fate of the Johnson amendment to the League of Nations covenant, which is intended to give the United States the same vote as the British Empire in the League assembly, may hinge on the vote of Senator Shields of Tennessee.

It was stated by some at the Capitol this afternoon that Senator Shields had definitely decided to vote for the amendment and that only four Republicans—McCumber of North Dakota, Nelson of Minnesota, McNary of Oregon and Colt of Rhode Island—would be found voting with the treaty supporters when the ayes and nays were counted. That the Republican leaders were more confident than they had been for some time was clearly apparent in the Senate corridors this afternoon, although none of the leaders would be quoted as authority for the positive statement that the passage of the Johnson amendment was now assured.

When Senator Hitchcock, the Democratic leader in charge of the treaty, was asked regarding reports that Senator Shields had decided to line up with the Johnson amendment supporters, he said that he had every reason to believe that Senator Shields, when the time came, would vote with the Democrats, as would also, he added, a sufficient number of Republicans to defeat the amendment by a majority of five votes.

Senator Hitchcock declined to name the Republicans, besides the four mentioned, who would vote against the amendment. He said that he had decided to stop mentioning names in connection with the treaty fight, as to do so, he explained, would subject the Senators concerned to unnecessary pressure on the part of those in charge of the fight to amend the treaty.

Count Party Losses Equal.

"We believe," said one of the Republican leaders to THE TIMES correspondent, "that the Johnson amendment will be adopted. I have reason for saying that Shields will be with us when the votes are counted and that his vote along with those of Senators Reed, Walsh, and Gore, will turn the tide in our favor. We do not expect to lose more than four Republican votes, namely, those of McCumber, Nelson, McNary, and Colt, and we may land one or more additional Democratic votes."

While it is a matter of common knowledge that Senator Thomas of Colorado, and Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, are opposed to many features of the treaty and covenant as now written, the general impression is that both of them will vote with their party when the time comes.

Senator Shields, when seen, would throw no additional light on the question of how he will cast his admittedly "all important" vote. It is understood that he will probably issue a formal statement, perhaps in the open Senate, within the next few days which will clear up the situation so far as his stand in the controversy is concerned.

All sorts of speculation was indulged in regarding the identity of the Republicans who, Senator Hitchcock says, will vote with the Democratic minority in sufficient numbers to defeat Senator Johnson's amendment by five votes. The guesses as a rule named the Senators who voted with the Democrats in defeating the Fall amendments. These Senators were Kellogg and Nelson, of Min-

EMPLOYERS' GROUP PRESENTS DEMAND FOR THE OPEN SHOP

Reports Platform to Industrial Conference, Also Opposing Collective Bargaining.

NOT HOSTILE TO UNIONS

HOLD POSITION LIKE GARY'S

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Insisting on the open shop and the right of the employer to deal only with his own employes without reference to outsiders, the representatives of the employers' group presented their recommendations to the industrial conference today, which at the end of the day's proceedings adjourned until Tuesday. In the meantime the general committee of fifteen will consider the proposals of the three groups—labor, capital, and public.

The statement of the employers on the subject of the open shop says:

"There should be no denial of the right of an employer and his workers voluntarily to agree that their relation shall be that of the 'closed union shop' or of the 'closed nonunion shop.' But the right of the employer and his men to continue their relations on the principle of the 'open shop' should not be denied or questioned. No employer should be required to deal with men or groups of men who are not his employes or chosen by and from among them."

The employers thus seem to have in effect lined themselves up behind E. H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation.

Two propositions were submitted by the employers' group. One being a statement of twelve principles "which should govern the employment relation in industry." The other was a resolution by Loren F. Loree, providing that the next census should contain facts and figures which would aid in investigating the industrial situation.

The Central Committee, or Committee of Fifteen, was asked by Chairman Lane to ascertain whether it could not make a report. After an hour's consultation the committee, through its Chairman, Thomas L. Chadbourne of New York, stated that the task before it was so difficult that it desired to adjourn until Monday at 10:30 o'clock. Thereupon the conference decided to recess until Tuesday.

A severe struggle in the committee is predicted when it comes to the ballot on the employers' plan and the steel strike resolution. Members of all three groups are included in the Central Committee.

Clash Over Communications.

While the declaration of the twelve principles of the employers was sanctioned by the entire group, it has been made plain that the assent of a group in ordinary circumstances does not mean that every member of the group, or even the majority, is in entire sympathy with a resolution. The group must give its "assent," or "refusal" to the presentation of a plan, but this does not commit the entire group to the fundamentals of that plan, as Secretary Lane, chairmen of the conference, put it.

"The group does not approve or disapprove of the substance of the proposition by presenting it to the conference, but its decision or its assent is to be construed as meaning that, in the opinion of the group, the matter presented by the member of the conference is germane to the subject matter as to which the conference is called."

There was a clash today between Gavin McNab of San Francisco and Samuel Gompers when Mr. Gompers thought Mr. McNab accused the labor leader of trying to shut off suggestions from outside the conference. Mr. McNab suggested that the communications coming to the conference from outside be referred to a committee of the chairmen of the three groups. Both Mr. Baruch and Mr. Gompers objected, the latter agreeing with Matthew Woll, one of the labor

Italy Is Willing Now to Let Fiume Become Part of Buffer State to End Crisis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Information has reached Washington that the Italian Government has agreed to the creation of a buffer state comprising Fiume and the adjacent coastal territory southward to Breccia as a solution of the Adriatic problem.

The approval of the plan is conditional on the protection of Italian interests in the proposed state by the adoption of Italian methods of legal procedure and the confirmation of Italy's title to the former district of Fiume in the interior and along the coast to the westward. This is regarded by the Italians as absolutely necessary, as a strategic military measure to insure the safety of Pola and other Italian Adriatic cities.

For the same military reasons the sanction of the plan is made conditional on the acceptance of the proposal that the Island of Cherso should be Italian, though the Island of Veglia may be turned over to the new State. Some portions of Istria, too, are regarded as essential to the Italian scheme of defense.

The Italian Government, information here says, has decided to go thus far to meet the demands of President Wilson, on whom the British and French governments placed the responsibility for the disposition of the first plan for an Italian administration of Fiume. The idea of a buffer State is said to have been broached by the President, so that if America now is willing to accept the conditions which Italy has tacked on to that plan it is believed a final satisfactory settlement of the issue, which endangers the existence of the Italian Government, can be obtained.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Press Association says that it learns "authoritatively" that a rumor that Gabriele d'Annunsio had been assassinated is untrue, but that the situation in Fiume is serious, as the Italian Army and Navy refuse to obey the orders given them to expel d'Annunsio's forces from the city.

"It is reliably reported that the King of Italy has threatened to abdicate if the army and navy persist in this attitude," the Press Association adds.

PORT STRIKE SPREADS ALONG THE COAST; FERRYBOATS ARE TIED UP AT MIDNIGHT; MEDIATION BOARD TO HEAR STRIKERS

Secretary Wilson Says the Policy of the Strikers Is Certain to Subject Them to Charges of Bad Faith

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The strike of the longshoremen in New York Harbor subjects them to charges of bad faith, Secretary of Labor Wilson declared in a telegram he sent today to Benjamin H. Squires, the Commissioner of Conciliation in New York. In his telegram Secretary Wilson says:

It is far more important to the workers that they should lay the foundation for the continued promotion of their welfare than it is that they should secure any temporary advantage that may result from a successful strike. No one knows, of course, when a strike is entered into, whether it will terminate successfully or otherwise.

Two important points are, therefore, involved in the present situation. Taking no chances of loss by holding fast to that which has been gained by accepting the award of the commission and establishing the reputation for living up to a contract, even though it may not give all they are entitled to.

Even weaklings can accept an award that gives them all they demand, but no reputation for the future is established by them. It is the strong, conscientious man who can cheerfully accept an award, even though it may not give him all he had expected and believed he deserved. When he does that, his reputation for manliness and fair play is established, which creates a valuable asset for future negotiations. Believing that the longshoremen in New York Harbor are of this type, I ask you to convey this message to them.

Secretary Wilson then summarized the agreement for a partial concession of the longshoremen's demands, saying that the record was clear that all parties agreed to accept the decision of the National Adjustment Commission. The Secretary's telegram continued:

"As workingmen, the members of the International Longshoremen's Association should realize that their action subjects them to charges of bad faith, and questions their willingness faithfully to perform agreements into which they have entered. They should realize that their most valuable asset is a record for honesty carrying out contracts to which they are a party, even if deep disappointment be felt in that failure to realize in full upon demands, the justice of which they are fully convinced."

Emperor of Japan Expresses Deepest Grief at News of Mr. Wilson's Illness.

Physicians' Bulletins Tell of President's Improvement

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The following bulletin on the President's condition was issued tonight:

White House,
Friday, Oct. 10, 10 P. M.

The President has again had a good day. GRAYSON.

The morning bulletin read:

White House,
Friday, Oct. 10, 11:30 A. M.

The President had another restful night. His appetite has continued to improve, and he is now taking as much food and of as great variety as we desire.

GRAYSON,
RUFFIN,
STITT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—President Wilson had another good day today, following a restful night, and was permitted to sit up several times. But he is still being held to the rest cure which is the cardinal feature of the treatment his attending physicians insist upon.

The morning bulletin announced that the patient's appetite continued to improve and that he was now taking as much food and of as great a variety as his physicians desired.

Dr. Grayson is still unwilling to set a time when the President will be able to return to his work, and is doing everything possible to discourage ideas of that kind, and yielding only when it is thought better to permit the patient to do a little work than to increase his anxiety and restlessness by opposing his desires in this respect too strongly. While the President was able to attend to some matters today, they were small compared with the duties of his office. He still receives no visitors and spends most of his time in bed.

A phonograph has been installed in the sickroom to provide music. This has had a soothing effect. Mrs. Wilson also continues to read to the President daily. She reads mainly from fiction and poetry.

Dr. Francis X. Dercum, the Philadelphia neurologist, will again come to Washington tomorrow, it was stated tonight, to check up on the President's condition as compared with a week ago. Dr. Grayson stated that no special significance was to be attached to the expert's visit.

After tomorrow it is probable that the practice of issuing two bulletins daily will be discontinued and not resumed unless there is a change for the worse.

The President today received this cablegram from the Emperor of Japan:

Tokio, Oct. 10, 1919.

The President of the United States, Washington:

FERRYBOATS STOP AS CREWS STRIKE

Pennsylvania, Erie, and Jersey Central Lines Tied Up at Midnight.

NO WARNING GIVEN BY MEN

Automobilists Put to Inconvenience and Hudson Tubes Carry Big Crowds.

Without any warning, the crews on the ferryboats on the North River owned by the Pennsylvania, Erie and Jersey Central railroads, deserted their posts at 11:30 o'clock last night, causing inconvenience to thousands of persons, especially those in automobiles and other vehicles. There was a rush for the Hudson tubes, which were crowded with passengers who had been caught on one side of the river or the other.

One of the strikers, who was seen at the Pennsylvania ferry slip in Jersey City, said the men were demanding one day off a week, but no increase in wages. The opinion among railroad officials was that the strike had been called in sympathy with the striking longshoremen.

The striker went on to say that the men were dissatisfied with the award of the Railroad Administratnon last Winter and that the men have been talking strike ever since. He admitted that the men had held a meeting last night and decided to strike immediately.

Pickets were sent to the various ferry boats in Manhattan and New Jersey, and as fast as the boats reached the various slips the men were informed that the trike was on and the boats were tied up and deserted by the crews.

Superintendent Carroll of the Pennsylvania Ferry Service said early this morning that the men made no demands on him and so far as he was able to ascertain the officials of the company were unaware of any determination of the men to strike.

Mr. Carroll and the superintendents of the other lines operating between New Jersey and Manhattan admitted that it would be impossible to operate the boats without the crews and were not prepared early this morning to say just what their plans are for today.

The boatmen are members of the Harbor, Port and Terminal Union, which has, it is said, about 1,600 members. Some of them operate on the boats plying between Brooklyn and Manhattan, but the police of Brooklyn said early this morning that none of the boats operating out of that borough will be affected by the strike, so far as they could learn. They said that the ferry between Sixty-ninth Street and Tompkinsville, Staten Island, which normally operates until 12:30 o'clock at night, was running at that hour.

The Fort Lee Ferry, running between 130th Street, Manhattan, and Fort Lee, N. J., is not affected. The line is under the management of the New Jersey Public Service Corporation. The Lackawanna Railroad Line at the foot of Barclay Street reported early this morning that all boats were running and said they had heard of no strike yet.

Two hundred persons were at the West Shore Ferry, at the foot of West Forty-second Street, awaiting passage to Weehawken at midnight. West Shore officials arranged for them to go by Hudson tube to the Erie Station and then by street car to Weehawken.

BIG CITIES THREATENED

Baltimore, Boston and Norfolk Will Suffer When 8,000 Go Out.

THIS PORT TIED UP TIGHT

GOODS SPOILING ON PIERS

Perishable Food May Be Moved —Authorities Looking for I. W. W. Agitators.

With foreign and coastwise shipping in the port of New York paralyzed as a result of the strike of longshoremen, which has no promise of an early settlement, more than 1,000 boatmen employed on the ferryboats, tugs, and lighters of the Pennsylvania, Erie and Jersey Central Railroads on the North River walked out at 11:30 o'clock last night, causing a suspension of all ferry service of these roads. They gave no warning of their purpose to quit and offered no explanation afterward, according to railroad officials, who think probably the men went on strike in sympathy with the longshoremen.

The strike of longshoremen spread last night to Boston, Baltimore, Norfolk, Va., and other ports on the Atlantic Coast, on orders from John Riley, new Chairman of the Strike Committee, following a decision of the National Adjustment Commission in refusing to grant the coastwise longshoremen an increase in wages. The strike call affects approximately 8,000 longshoremen at other ports.

The National Adjustment Commission of the United States Shipping Board, against whose decision for a 5 and 10 cent increase in wages the strike was called, has agreed to hold a public hearing on the question at the Produce Exchange at 10 o'clock this morning, but it announced in advance that the body could not recede from its original award. The strikers' committee may offer a compromise of 85 cents an hour and $1.25 overtime. Originally they asked $1 an hour and $2 for overtime. The commission awarded 70 cents an hour and $1.10 for overtime, an increase of 5 and 10 cents, respectively.

At the hearing this morning Professor Ripley will preside. Oakley Wood and Frederick Toppin, Vice President of the International Mercantile Marine Company, represent the shipping interest on the commission, while for the longshoremen are Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Ryan. Mr. Toppin said last night that he regarded the hearing today as a waste of time, as the award could not be changed. The leaders, he said, had shown their inability to manage the men in their organization, therefore he considered any further discussion of the subject to give promise of no results.

Coastwise Demands Refused.

The National Adjustment Commission, of which Professor William Z. Ripley of Harvard is Chairman, yesterday ruled against the coastwise longshoremen in their demand for an increase of from 85 cents to $1 an hour, thus creating a differential between deep sea and coastwise longshore work. The commission took the position that the coastwise business cannot stand an increase in terminal expense owing to rail competition, and asserted that "coastwise shipping is not only greatly depressed," but "it is threatened with extinction as more and more traffic goes by land." The commission, however, agreed to reconsider the question if the present costs of living continue, and should coastwise freight rates be increased.

There are 8,000 coastwise longshoremen in New York, most of whom went out with the deep sea longshoremen, and approximately as many more are engaged in the ports of Boston, Baltimore, Newport News, and Norfolk.

Secretary of Labor W. B. Wilson took a hand in the strike last night, when he sent a telegram from Washington to Benjamin M. Squires, United States Commissioner of Conciliation in New York, containing a message for the strikers. In his message Secretary Wilson justifies the decision of the National Adjustment Commission and declares that the strike subjects the longshoremen to charges of bad faith.

Strikers Appoint Chairman.

The newly appointed committee of the strikers yesterday appointed John J. Ley, Business Agent of Local 891, as Chairman of the entire situation. He is not participating in the situation as a union official, but as a member. Mr. Riley held a long conference yesterday afternoon with T. V. O'Connor, President, and Joseph Ryan, Vice President, of the International Longshoremen's Association, at 11 Broadway, at which the situation was gone into thoroughly, but nothing was made public. It is understood that Mr. O'Connor and other officials of the longshoremen's association are continuing their efforts to bring the striking members of the organization to an acceptance of the award to which they, as members of the Adjustment Board, agreed.

Agents for the Department of Justice,

It was learned, are paying particular attention at this time to persons known, or believed to be members, or in sympathy with the I. W. W. They are visiting the haunts of the Reds along the waterfront in Manhattan and in Brooklyn. Members of the Longshoremen's Association, both in Manhattan and Brooklyn, vigorously denied yesterday that they had been influenced in any way by the I. W. W. They asserted that they didn't want anything to do with the "one big union."

"We our out for ourselves," said one. "We do not desire to affiliate with the I. W. W. We are Americans, and only want a square deal." The I. W. W. had distributed pamphlets at many points along the waterfront, one being in Italian and another in English. These were in evidence everywhere, having been blown about by the wind.

William Rooney, who was ejected from the Tammany Hall meeting Thursday night for attempting to make a radical speech, is in the New York Hospital suffering from a fractured collar bone and badly bruised. He was struck by an automobile while fleeing from the mob that chased him from the hall, it is said.

To Move Perishable Food.

Food Administrator Arthur Williams held a conference with T. V. O'Connor, Joseph Ryan, and John Riley, following which it was announced by Mr. Williams that the striking longshoremen would move all perishable goods from the piers in order to save them from destruction. Mr. Williams said his interest in the strike went only as far as the food situation was affected. He has been invited to make an address at the meeting in the Produce Exchange this morning.

According to Mr. O'Connor, all of the 40,000 longshoremen in New York have gone out on strike. To the number of idle men as a result of the strike should be added several thousand other waterfront workers who automatically were thrown out of work when the longshoremen quit.

About 500 men, mostly non-union, who were unloading a cargo of 44,000 stems of bananas from the steamship Zacapa, of the United Fruit Line, on the Manhattan side of East River, went on strike yesterday afternoon. The strike was called by delegates from Local 856, International Longshoremen's Association, who visited the pier two hours after the crew began unloading the bananas.

Tons of freight, some of it perishable and rapidly ruining, are lying on the docks. All shipping is tied up, many incoming steamers remaining down the bay. The strikers were more orderly yesterday and walked about quietly and calmly discussed their case. The change is accounted for by their action in ignoring Mr. Riley as their leader. Nineteen steamers cleared yesterday, but it is considered doubtful if all of them will sail today.

Railroad officials yesterday characterized the situation as serious, and one of them said that if the strike continued three days longer the food supply of New York would be seriously menaced.

Caricatures were posted conspicuously on buildings along the North River waterfront yesterday expressing the men's views of the strike situation. One sketch depicted T. V. O'Connor exclaiming "Five and Ten Cents." Another sketch close by read, "You Can't Make a Five and Ten Cent Store Out of the I. L. A."

British Workers Will Not Aid.

Benjamin Tillett, Secretary of the British Dock Workers International Union of London, an organization which has 200,000 members, said yesterday that the British dock workers would not support the striking longshoremen in this port, because their strike is unauthorized and without sanction of the union.

The entire waterfront of Brooklyn, Jersey City, and Hoboken, like Manhattan, is affected by the strike, and the men who failed to go out Thursday with their companions did not show up for work yesterday. The strikers were joined by the checkers at the various docks. Fifteen ships, most of them freighters that were to dock in Brooklyn, arrived in port yesterday morning and anchored down the bay. Passengers on the Canada of the Fabre Line were placed on tugboats and barges and landed, and the crew also sent their baggage ashore on the barges. The Caracas of the Red D Line, from Vensuela via Porto Rico, docked at Pier 18, Brooklyn, yesterday morning with fifty-eight passengers. The passengers were landed, but the cargo of sugar and coffee cannot be removed.

A number of large business concerns in Brooklyn have cancelled their foreign and seaport shipments. Among these firms is the E. W. Bliss Company, machinery manufacturers, located at the foot of Adams Street.

One hundred and fifty Italian members of Local 327 of the International Longshoremen's Association, at their quarters, 40 Union Street, Brooklyn, last night voted unanimously to back up the longshoremen's strike. Whenever the name of T. V. O'Connor was mentioned it was hissed. The meeting was conducted in the Italian language.

The decision of the National Adjustment Commission on the case of the coastwise longshoremen follows:

"As to coastwise rates per hour, the men have presented as effective an appeal for an advance in wages to meet the present unprecedented high cost of living as in deep sea business, but the conditions surrounding this traffic are entirely different. It is subject to direct competition with all rail lines, and a large share of the tonnage is already moving by such lines. The evidence is utterly convincing, coastwise shipping is not only greatly depressed, it is threatened with extinction as more and more traffic goes by land.

"The coastwise lines, whether operated by private interests or by the United States Government are already running at a heavy loss. But this alone would not convince us that the men ought to bear the high burden of relief at this time. Wages are rightfully a first charge on industry. The men must live. But this case is peculiar. Terminal expenses are already prohibitive. Any further increase in the cost of loading and unloading coastwise ships would inevitably put them quite out of business. If all the tonnage goes by rail, the boats will simply be tied up. The men will have no work at all. There is but one remedy, namely, a general increase of freight rates. Such an increase must be granted by the proper authorities, or the water lines will be forced into bankruptcy.

"Under these circumstances it is beyond our power to grant relief at this time to these men, however deserving their claim may be. The men must choose between some employment at present rates and greatly reduced employment, if any remained at all, if an increase of pay were to be awarded. We cannot vote to deprive the men of work, but we agree to reconsider the case without prejudice if present high prices persist and if a general increase of freight rates should in course of time occur.

"This action until amended restores a differential between deep sea and coastwise longshore work. Deep sea loading requires more skill, but coastwise work may be more arduous. It is not clear that a permanent differential such as prevailed for many years should continue to exist, but the possibility of imperative conditions restoring the differentials was contemplated in the award of Oct. 4, 1919, by this commission. It reserved the right to restore such differentials if its purpose to further the welfare of the longshoremen and of the industry appeared otherwise to be frustrated. Subsequent investigation after increase of general freight rates by rail will establish what the proper relation between deep sea and coastwise rates should be."

Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Ryan, representing the longshoremen, demurred to the award, but agreed to abide by the decision of the commission.

BARNES TO SAIL NEXT WEEK.

British Labor Delegate and Colleagues Will Come on Mauretania.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The British delegation to the International Labor Conference at Washington, headed by George N. Barnes, Minister without portfolio and labor representative in the British Cabinet, will sail for New York on the steamer Mauretania Oct. 15. Arthur Henderson, one of the labor representatives, will not accompany the delegation on that steamer, but will sail Oct. 25, after taking his seat in Parliament, to which he was elected at a recent by-election.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Japan is sending the largest delegation of any of the nations which will be represented in the International Labor Conference to be held here Oct. 29, the party including more than sixty persons. Professor Kamada, who directly represents the Government, is President of Keo University and a member of the Japanese Upper House. Other principals will be Mr. Muta, representing Japanese capitalists; Mr. Misumoto, representing labor, and probably Mr. Oka, for the public.

The delegation was to sail today from Japan and is expected to arrive here two days before the conference meets. Its dispatch is regarded as a certain indication of the purpose of the Japanese Government to ratify the Peace Treaty almost immediately.

BISHOPS FOR A COVENANT.

Compromise Resolution on League Adopted by Episcopalian Prelates.

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—The Protestant Episcopal Church in America, in triennial general convention here, will record a united opinion on adoption of the Peace Treaty and the covenant of the League of Nations, in the opinion of leading churchmen attending the meeting.

Following adoption by the House of Bishops of a resolution presented by Bishop Brewster of Connecticut today, requesting the Senate to "secure participation of our country in a covenant of nations," the opinion was expressed in the House of Deputies that the same resolution would be passed there. A fight on the question is anticipated. Leading Bishops hold that the Brewster resolution would leave open the matter of reservations to the covenant.

Thomas Nelson Page of the Virginia delegation, former United States Ambassador to Rome, commenting on the action of the House of Bishops, quoted Bryce: "Even saints sometimes forget themselves in council."

Bishop Anderson characterized the Brewster resolution as "evasive and timid," but withdrew his own favoring adoption of the treaty in its present form, to enable the house to take unanimous action.

DROPS FIGHT ON ALIMONY.

Matrimonial Troubles of Aged Retired Jeweler Ended.

James Hervey Hart, an aged and wealthy retired jeweler, will withdraw his appeals from decisions handed down in two cases in the Brooklyn Supreme Court last April in two cases involving him and his young bride, Mrs. Katie Wolff Hart, a former manicure. Hart sued for an annulment of the marriage, basing his action upon his physical condition. The annulment was denied. Mrs. Hart asked a separation, charging desertion. The separation was granted.

Hart filed notice of appeal in both cases to the Appellate Division. Mrs. Hart's attorney made an application to Justice Benedict in the Supreme Court yesterday for alimony and counsel fee, pending the outcome of the appeals.

Charles C. Miller, attorney for Hart, stated that there was no need for granting Mrs. Hart's application, as Hart had instructed him to withdraw the appeals and not to test the case further.

Mrs. Hart is now occupying, under the terms of the decision in her case, a house at 837 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, owned by Hart.

RATIFY OUR ARMY SALES.

French Deputies Favor Agreement —Deny Rumors of Waste.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The bill ratifying the agreement recently reached between France and the United States for the purchase of the surplus stocks of the American Army in France, was adopted by the Chamber of Deputies today.

Louis Morel, Under-Secretary of State for Liquidation of Stocks, in presenting the bill, explained to the Chamber that the negotiations for the purchase of the stocks were delicate; since it was essential for France not to appear to take advantage of the impossibility of the American Army to transport home stocks scattered throughout French territory.

The Under-Secretary denied rumors in circulation that army supplies of great value were being burned or pillaged.

BUTLER FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Suggestion Pleases Some Midwest Republicans.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—There is some discussion, largely favorable, of the desirability of nominating Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, for Vice President on the Republican ticket next year.

The suggestion of Dr. Butler's candidacy, which comes from the East, seems pleasing to those mid-West Republicans pledged to the candidacy of Governor Lowden for the Presidential nomination.

It was announced that, beginning with the first train this morning, passenger trains will leave from the Erie Station instead of Weehawken. The members of the crew made no statement to the agent of the West Shore as to the cause of their action in quitting the boats.

The drivers of scores of milk trucks, who lined up to the ferry slips in Jersey City and Weehawken, expecting to take the boats for Manhattan about midnight, were told by the police that no boats were operating, and they were advised to go to Hoboken and take the Lackawanna boats to Manhattan, which were still operating at that hour. It was said at the Lackawanna ferry in Hoboken that they expected to continue operating today on normal schedule.

The boats operating from Staten Island were not expected early this morning to be affected, but, having in mind the sudden action of the crews on other ferries late last night, no one would predict early this morning that the boats would be running today. There are four of these lines—one from Tompkinsville to Brooklyn and others from Port Richmond to Elizabethport, from Mariners Harbor to Bergen Point, N. J., and from Tottenville to Perth Amboy. None of these boats operates at night, but the police had not learned that there was to be any change in the schedule today.

Permission to hold a meeting in White Eagle Hall, Newark Avenue and Seventh Street, Jersey City, today was sought late last night from the Jersey City Chief of Police, who was at his home. He told the two delegates, who made the request, that he would see them this morning about 10 o'clock and take up the matter at that time. The hall they want to use is the same one used by the strikers when they were out last Winter. The delegates explained to the police that they wanted to keep the men off the streets and the best way they knew was to get a meeting place.

Early this morning it was reported that the Jersey Central had placed new crews on some of the ferry boats and were running every half hour. Only trucks, it was said, were being transported.

SENATORS VISIT STRIKE DISTRICT

QUESTION MANY WORKERS

Hear Numerous Complaints on Hours and Pay and Find Few Foreigners Naturalized.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Oct. 10.—The Senate Committee on Education and Labor, which is investigating the steel strike, put in a long day visiting the largest steel plants in the Monongahela Valley, where they met mill officials, employes, strikers, strike organizers, and members of the Pennsylvania State Constabulary, and heard every side of the strike.

They found little visible evidence that the strike was still on at Homestead, Duquesne, Clairton, and McKeesport, where they inspected the plants and visited the homes of strikers in the neighborhood. These big mills, which are the backbone of the steel industry in the Pittsburgh district, after being threatened with shutdown on the opening of the strike, were running today with from 75 to 95 per cent. of those employed before the strike.

By a singular coincidence a shooting affray connected with the strike occurred on a street car in front of the Homestead plant, within 100 yards of the party of Senators, without their knowing it. Paul Stodlits, a workman, who was being heckled by two strikers on a street car, drew his revolver and fired two shots at a distance of about five feet from the men, but missed them. Stodlits was arrested, but later discharged when he said that he had fired wildly to scare the men.

It was apparent from conversations with the Senators that they were impressed with the fact that the strike, if not broken, was waning in the Pittsburgh district. They were also impressed by the earnestness and unanimity with which the strikers argued that 42 cents an hour would not support their families decently in these times. Another point which was remarked by the Senators was that only a very small proportion of the strikers were naturalized, though most of them could speak some English and many could express themselves without difficulty.

The investigation is being made by Senators Kenyon, Phipps, McKellar, and Sterling.

They talked freely about what they had observed, but were unwilling to be quoted lest their offhand statements might be unfair to the steel companies or the strikers.

Interviewed Many Strikers.

Each talked individually with about fifty or sixty strikers to get an idea of their reasons for striking. The chief reason given in practically every instance was that they could hardly live on 42 cents an hour and that they believed the strike was a means of getting more money. The second was that they had to work long hours, either ten or twelve hours a day.

Although Judge Gary testified that the men were paid time and a half for overtime, every man interviewed by the Senators said that he had never heard of extra pay for overtime in the steel mills. Before they were through with their rounds the Senators were convinced that the strikers were sincere in believing that they had a grievance on the wages and hours, whether they were misled in other respects by agitators or not.

One striker at Homestead included among the reasons for the strike that of having "the Government run the steel mills," which, he said, had been promised by organizers. But generally the strikers talked only of wages and hours, mainly of wages. They usually mentioned that they wanted a union, but mentioned it as an afterthought. When asked what they thought they ought to get for their work the strikers suggested figures ranging from 75 to 90 cents an hour, which they said were the rates mentioned by organizers at their meetings.

When asked how many men were on strike at Homestead the strikers gave the standard reply of 9,000, but the company officials at Homestead gave their employment records to the Senators, which indicate that the number of jobs vacant is less than 3,000.

The employment chart submitted to the Senate Committee gives an interesting history of the strike at the Homestead plant. The chart shows that 97 per cent. of the employes walked out on September 22, the first day of the strike. The mill lost more men in the next two days of the strike until only 62 per cent. of their employes appeared at work. On the fourth day this went up to 63 per cent. It has gained steadily ever since until the record showed that today slightly more than 75 per cent. of the normal force was at work.

After going through the mill, which appeared to be operating near normal, Senators drove to the Second Ward of Homestead, one of the poorest sections, where they interviewed strikers whom they picked haphazard standing on the sidewalk or sitting in front of their own homes.

Question Young Worker.

Senator Kenyon questioned a young man in his shirt sleeves, who said he was supporting his mother, his wife, two children and himself on his pay of 42 cents an hour or $5.04 for a twelve-hour day, and that with prices what they are today he could put nothing by for an emergency.

As Senator Kenyon continued his questions throngs began to gather. Soon there were hundreds on the sidewalk, including many mothers with babies in their arms and scores of children, generally neat and well-looking. The men and women questioned each other in various languages to find out what it meant, and a little boy ran up shouting, "What the hell is it?"

Senators McKellar, Phipps, and Stanley also questioned strikers and their families.

The crowd grew until it brought several policeman to the spot. They had nothing to say, however, when they learned what was going on.

A photographer, shouting and waving his arms, drew the children after him, and lined up about 200 for a group picture, while their mothers clucked and gesticulated, showing a great deal of anxiety to get prominent places for their children.

Senator McKellar did not rest until, after shaking hands heartily with the men and doffing his campaign hat chivalrously to the women of one large, complex family, he got himself invited into their crowded two-story dwelling and made some first-hand notes of the manner in which they lived.

The party then went to the big plant of the Carnegie Steel Company at Duquesne, where they had luncheon and interviewed officials of the company. After that they went through the mill, which is now running normally.

This mill was practically unaffected by the strike, but its escape is laid by Secretary Foster to the suppression of meetings and the activity of the State Police. There were no strikers to interview here and the Senators moved on to Clairton, where they went through the large mill of the Carnegie Steel Company, which was hit hard at the beginning of the strike, but has recovered considerable ground in the last two weeks.

P. H. Grogan, the strike organizer in the district, attached himself to the party and went through the mill with the man, somewhat to the displeasure of the mill officials. The news spread in a few minutes through Clairton that the Senators were visiting the mill, and a large crowd gathered when the Senators finished their inspection, and who stopped and questioned some of the strikers.

Senator Sterling became the centre of a group of five, and he found that his companions were an Italian, a Turk, a Croat, and a Lithuanian.

Senators Kenyon and McKellar questioned an intelligent young Serb, who called himself George Miller, and explained the hardships of trying to keep a family on 42 cents an hour.

Their next witness was a Slovene, calling himself Frank Smith. He was a neatly dressed young man, who seemed to be less than thirty years old, but he said that he had a wife and five children, and others in the crowd bore him out in this. He said he worked ten hours a day and got $4.67 for it, but that it was far from being enough for him and his family.

"You manage to dress very neatly," said Senator McKellar. "Yes, but that is because I saved money before I was married," he said. "I have to spend the money I had saved."

Some of the men complained of conditions, saying that they were mistreated and discharged for trifles, but Smith said that he could not honestly make any complaint about conditions, as his bosses had always treated him well. He said that he had lived in this country for seven years and that he was not naturalized, his reason being that mills closed down so often and he had to move so often that he couldn't settle long enough in one place for naturalization.

One man after another gave some excuse for not being naturalized, and Senator McKellar called for a show of hands to indicate how many had been naturalized. Few hands went up in a crowd of more than 100.

The Senators were very much struck by this.

A young Greek, who was questioned, said that he could live very well on his 42 cents an hour and save money, but that he was striking to help married men who could not "feed their children" on the money they were receiving.

One Austrian who said that 42 cents an hour was not enough to live on was asked how much he earned a day in the old country.

"Three kronen," he replied, "but that was ten years ago."

All Had Liberty Bonds.

One of the Senators asked the crowd at Clairton how many of them had bought Liberty bonds. Most of them answered the question in English, and three or four interpreters relayed the question to the others. Every man put up his hand, and began eagerly to tell how much they had given for the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., and other war funds. They said they had given a day's pay in each of the three Red Cross drives. The crowd was made up mainly of men from countries of the Allies or oppressed Austrian States, who were eager to support the war.

The curious contrast between the response to this question and the poor showing on the naturalization was commented on by members of the committee.

At McKeesport, the Senators talked with members of the State Constabulary. The conduct of the mounted police was vigorously defended by Sergeant Peter Murphy, who had been in charge of McKeesport, which has been kept free from disorder. The mill officials told the Senators that they lost 2,261 men out of a total of 7,500 on the first day of the strike, but that all except about 500 had returned.

The Senate Committee will hear witnesses representing the strikers, the steel companies, the State Constabulary, and the public at its hearing in the Federal Building today.

John Andrew, 35 years old, was arrested in New Kensington today and lodged in the county jail here, on the charge of having offered his services to strike leaders as a setter of bombs.

He took a shot wound in the right leg and three others were hurt at Clairton early in the morning in a row which started when several foreigners announced that they were going back to work.

The Central Labor Union of Pittsburgh, which met last night at the call of W. B. Rubin, counsel for the strikers, adopted a resolution calling for a meeting of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor on or before Oct. 26, for the purpose of taking drastic action in protest against the alleged suppression of the right of free speech and arrest of strikers and pickets in connection with the steel strike. Speakers urged that a general strike of organized labor in the State of Pennsylvania should be called for the purpose of compelling fair treatment of labor.

WOOD TO PUT REDS IN STOCKADE AT GARY

All Convicted to be Deported—Raiding and Arrest of Radicals Continues.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—That the investigations into the activities of the Bolshevist element in the steel strike in the Calumet area are to be thorough and of long duration was shown today when the military authorities in Gary began the construction of a stockade in which Federal prisoners will be held pending disposition of their cases. Immigration agents arrived in Gary during the day and prepared to arrange for the deportation of all radicals against whom sufficient evidence is found to warrant such action.

The situation was briefly outlined in the following official statement, issued tonight by Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood:

"The gravity of the situation at Gary is found in the presence of a dangerous and extremely active group of I. W. W. and anarchistic elements which are striving to bring about extensive disturbances against law and order. These elements are working against everything which this country stands for."

Raids on the Reds continued during the day and several new arrests were made. Col. W. S. Mapes, Capt. J. B. Campbell of the Army Intelligence Section and agents of the Department of Justice put in a busy day examining prisoners and going over seized papers and propaganda. District Attorney Charles F. Clyne hurried off to Washington to report the progress thus far made and to urge special legislation by Congress further to curb Red activities. It was said he would ask the passage of a bill that practically would keep the Espionage act in force after peace is declared or of a substitute of equally drastic effect.

Colonel Mapes suggested that the prisoners who are held in the stockade may be put to good service in cleaning up Gary's alleys and streets. This announcement may have a deterrent effect on some of the foreign radicals, who, it is said, have been unable to obtain passage to their native lands and are openly making seditious utterances in the hope that they will be deported.

Five of the nine pickets assigned to duty at the plant of the American Steel Foundry Company in East Chicago removed their badges, handed them over to the Corporal commanding a military detail, and walked inside to report for duty.

Later in the day 300 militiamen and a number of policemen went to the Indiana Harbor Auditorium, where 3,000 strikers were holding a meeting, when it was learned that a number of women there were planning a street procession after the meeting. One hundred and thirty-six women were stopped as they left the meeting and compelled to remove their pickets' badges. They were warned of immediate arrest if a demonstration was indulged in.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10, (Associated Press.)—Steel strikers continued to return to work in small numbers today, and company officials said that production was being gradually increased. Company officials announced that approximately half of the 12,000 employes of the Indiana Steel Company were at work, while smaller plants reported improved conditions.

POLICE QUIT FEDERATION.

Washington Union Severs Affiliation with Organized Labor.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Members of the Washington policemen's union have decided by an almost unanimous vote to sever their affiliation with the American Federation of Labor.

Meeting last night, ten days after they had voted to retain their federation charter a decided reversal of opinion as to the desirability of insisting upon this course was manifested and their previous action was reversed.

ALL SHOPMEN JOIN ALTOONA WALKOUT

10,000 Pennsylvania Railroad Workers Strike to Enforce Seniority Rule.

THREATENS TRAIN SERVICE

Company Brings In 200 Outside Men to Run Shops on Temporary Basis.

ALTOONA, Penn., Oct. 10.—Following a meeting of the Advisory Committee, representing all the big railroad crafts, a call for a general strike of railroad shopmen of Altoona and Hollidaysburg to take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon was issued. This came after all efforts to reach an agreement between the engine house workers and the railroad officials over the appointment of an assistant foreman at No. 3 engine round house in this city had failed.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the shop whistles gave the signal and 10,000 men walked out of the Altoona machine shops, the Altoona car shops, the Juniata locomotive and East Altoona shops, and the Hollidaysburg shops, practically the entire force.

Employes of the South Altoona foundries quit later in the afternoon after pouring their iron. The clerical force was not called out. Some maintenance of way crafts, car inspectors, and others may join the strikers tomorrow.

The men went quietly to their homes or to halls where meetings were being held and there was an entire absence of excitement or disorder. Pickets have been placed at all shop gates to warn off any strangers who might be brought here by the railroad company.

Railroad policemen have been brought to the city but they have not yet made any public appearance. The Mayor has accepted the offer of the union men to assist in preserving public order and several shopmen were acting as traffic officers this afternoon and evening.

The men walked out at one of the Altoona engine houses on Wednesday night because they objected to the appointment of an assistant foreman from the Hollidaysburg roundhouse, asserting that one of their men should have the position. They were joined yesterday by the mechanics of the other two engine houses.

The situation was placed before President Jewell of the Shop Crafts, in Washington, who promised to take up the men's grievances with the Federal Railroad Administration.

While there had been no serious interruption in train service, railroad officials today said that it would be difficult to keep sufficient engines in service to meet traffic requirements.

The company has brought about 200 men, chiefly foremen, gang bosses, and inspectors, from its shops east and west of here, but it was stated that this force would not be able to keep the service on a normal basis very long.

NEGROES SHOOT TWO PICKETS.

Youngstown Mills Expect Settlements with Amalgamated Union.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 10.—Steve Gatusock was probably fatally wounded and another foreigner less seriously injured when five negroes, who were leaving the Hubbard furnace of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, opened fire on them, according to Hubbard authorities. The two men were picketing the furnace. Galusock was shot in the head, the bullet penetrating his brain.

Mechanics, who yesterday began preparing the Trumbull Steel Company's plant at Warren for operation, following the decision of employes to return to work, today continued their task of getting the mills in shape for capacity production on Monday morning.

Following the action of Warren members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers in arranging a settlement, mill officials are now expecting moves from Amalgamated men of other companies, which have agreements with the union. At strike headquarters, however, it was said that the Trumbull settlement was regarded as purely a local affair and would not affect the strike generally.

OPPOSE BANK CLERK UNIONS

Members of Banking Institute Against Employes Organizing.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 10.—The Executive Council of the American Institute of Banking, following the adjournment of the seventeenth annual convention today, announced the adoption of a resolution voicing the opposition of the members to the unionization of bank employes.

The resolution opposed "any attempt to limit individual initiative or curtail production," and declared that "in so far as our profession is concerned, we are unalterably opposed to any plan purporting to promote the material welfare of our members individually or collectively on any other basis than that of efficiency, loyalty, and unadulterated Americanism."

ASSAILS ORGANIZED LABOR.

Senator Myers Says It Has a Strangle Hold on the American People.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. — Organized labor's course in calling strikes in American industry was denounced today in the Senate by Senator Myers, Democrat, Montana.

"Organized labor," he said, "appears to have a stronghold on the throats of the American people and believes in strangling them while the strangling is good.

Denouncing as "outrageous" the wage and other demands of the bituminous coal miners, Senator Myers said their plan to strike Nov. 1, unless their demands are met, was "a most monstrous and brutal threat to freeze and starve the people into submission."

BULGARS GET 10 DAYS MORE

Their Answer to Treaty Terms Is Now Due on Oct. 24.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The Supreme Council has decided to grant to the Bulgarian plenipotentiaries an extension of ten days to the time in which they are required to return their observations on the draft of the Bulgarian treaty submitted to them Sept. 19. The additional period will end Oct. 24.

The Supreme Council further approved the plan proposed for the Reparations Commission providing for the dispatch to Budapest of an interallied commission, including one Rumanian delegate, to take an inventory of the objects and materials which have been seized by the Rumanian military authorities in Hungary.

The Council had listened to the report of Sir George Clark, who was sent to Hungary and Rumania to study the situation for the Council and who returned last week from Rumania.

Hears Reds Have Retaken Kiev.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 10.—The newspaper Folkets Dagblad learns that the Bolsheviki have retaken the city of Kiev.

nesota, Capper of Kansas, Colt of Rhode Island, Cummins and Kenyon of Iowa, Edge of New Jersey, Hale of Maine, Jones of Washington, Lenroot of Wisconsin, McCumber of North Dakota, McNary of Oregon, Smoot of Utah, Spencer of Missouri, Sterling of South Dakota, and Townsend of Michigan.

One of these, Senator Lenroot, it became known today, will probably offer a substitute amendment for the Johnson amendment which, if anything, will be even more drastic than that proposed by the Californian. Senator Lenroot's amendment would provide that the United States would not be bound by any decision reached by the League of Nations, in the reaching of which "any other nation casts more than one vote." The Lenroot amendment faces defeat by a majority of from ten to thirteen votes, it was authoritatively stated.

Senator Curtis of Kansas announced today that he would offer a reservation to sub-division "C" of Article XXIII. of the League of Nations covenant, which sub-division entrusts the League with "general supervision over the execution of agreements with regard to the traffic in women and children, &c."

The Curtis reservation reads:

"The United States construes Subdivision 'C' of Article XXIII. to mean that the League shall refuse to recognize agreements with regard to the traffic in women and children and that the League shall use every means possible to abolish and do away with such practice."

Conservative forces continue trying to find a compromise solution of the treaty tangle that will meet the approval of both sides. Ex-President Taft is still one of the leaders in the effort at mediation leading to compromise of some sort. Neither side seems to be of the opinion that these efforts will be successful.

Norris Attacks Shantung Agreement.

The only speech delivered in the Senate today on the treaty was by Senator Norris of Nebraska. Mr. Norris devoted much of his speech, which subsequently admitted the error in a telegram to Senator Norris, said that the secret treaties entered into between Japan on the one side and Great Britain and France on the other, were necessary in order to induce Japan to enter the war on the side of the Allies. Mr. Norris said that this statement by the President was entirely inaccurate, for the reason that Japan declared war on Germany on Aug. 23, 1914, while the first of the secret treaties was entered into Sept. 17, 1917.

"The President," Mr. Norris said, "has never publicly admitted that his statement was untrue. It seems to me if the President wanted to be fair with the American people, with the Senate, and with the world, he would at least have the manliness to give as great publicity to the correction as he did to the original misstatement."

Senator Norris read the note sent by the British Ambassador at Tokio on Feb. 26, 1917, to Viscount Ishii, Japan's Minister for Foreign Affairs, transmitting a message from the British Government. In this it was stated that Britain "acceded with pleasure to Japan's request that they will support Japan's claim for the German possessions in Shantung and the German islands north of the equator, it being understood that in return the Japanese Government will support in the same spirit the British Government's claim to the German islands south of the equator.

"Now remember," Senator Norris continued, "this was just before we went into the war. Following the agreement with Great Britain the same kind of agreement was made with France, Italy, and Russia, Russia being still in the war on the side of the Allies. The President says he knew nothing about the secret treaties until they gathered around the peace table. I am assuming for the purpose of the argument that that is the truth.

Says Japan Sealed China's Fate.

"Those agreements were made at a time when it was known that the United States was going to enter the war and it was also pretty generally known that after we entered the war China would follow us in. It was also known that China had desired for a long time to enter the war, but had been prevented from doing so by Japan. Japan made these agreements to seal China's fate before she entered the war.

"It is said, in extenuation of this provision in the treaty, that Japan will go ahead and keep Shantung and we will keep it from China by refusing to sign. Suppose that were true, what does it amount to? Regardless of what may happen, let us keep our hands free from being stained with the innocent blood of one of our allies. If Japan will rob China anyway, we can at least say we don't approve it.

"The President has said that this amendment would make it necessary for us to go to war to help China get Shantung. Nothing could be further from the truth than that statement. So far as I know nobody has suggested such a thing nor advocated it. But even if we don't go to war there is no reason why we should give our consent to such a robbery."

Senator Lodge will speak on the Shantung amendment tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Lodge was in conference late this afternoon with Senator Hitchcock. It was reported that the subject of the conference was the speeding up of the treaty.

SPENCER PLEDGES OPPOSITION

Declares Treaty Ought Not to be Ratified as Written.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—In a telegram to the Republican State Committee of Missouri, Senator Spencer of that State today said that the Peace Treaty in its present form should not be ratified.

The telegram was in response to a resolution passed by the committee calling upon Senator Spencer to support the program of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations as to both amendments and reservations.

"The treaty of peace," Senator Spencer telegraphed, "including the League of Nations as it is now drawn, is dangerous to our American rights, which are dear to every one of us, and it never ought to be ratified by the Senate as it is written. In my judgment it never can be ratified by the Senate, and certainly not by my vote unless our own American rights are absolutely protected and our independence of action as a nation is entirely safeguarded.

"The United States is the great independent stabilizing factor in the world, and it would be unfortunate both for us and for the world if in the uncertainty of the present, when no man can tell what the next year may bring forth, we should so bind ourselves as to make us unable to act in the future as our judgment and conscience at the time incline us to act.

"We can never approve the infamous provisions with regard to Shantung, nor can we recognize the right of England together with all her colonies to have six times as much representation in the council as the United States has.

"When the Senate has finally given its 'advice and consent' to the Treaty of Peace, the document will be found to be entirely safe for this country and with every American right fully protected.

"I hope, as I expect, that this action will be taken by the Senate in the spirit of construction and not with the determination to kill, and that it will be accomplished in the spirit of Americanism and without partisanship.

"There is much of good in the treaty and in the League of Nations. There is much that is vital and necessary and for every reason of humanity and international good feeling it would be most unfortunate to reject the treaty or to so unnecessarily complicate its ratification as to postpone formal peace, but none of the many advantages is as important as the entire protection of American rights—constitutional, domestic, and traditional. In any event we ought to act quickly and be free to take up the many pressing problems that now involve our national welfare."

TEST VOTES INDORSE LEAGUE.

Editor of San Francisco Bulletin Tells of Wave of Sentiment.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Washington Bureau of the League to Enforce Peace has received from R. A. Crothers, editor of The San Francisco Bulletin the following telegram as to the sentiment in California in favor of ratification of the Peace Treaty:

"A cloud of witnesses has arisen for the covenant in California. The din of oratory against the League has practically ceased, and California's answer to it all is 'Ratify the treaty immediately.' Test votes taken in various parts of the State include Chambers of Commerce, universities, and other organizations, and show that the people are at least 5 to 1 for the treaty.

"Mothers all over the State are working for the League and sending protests to opponents in the Senate. The California Congress of Mothers, representing 26,000 women, many of whom sent sons to the war, has indorsed the President's efforts to secure permanent peace. Associations of mothers of seven northern counties, representing the Second Division of the California Congress of Mothers, have unanimously indorsed the treaty. Of forty-eight Presidents of the Federation of Parent Teachers' Associations, forty-four signed for the covenant.

"The recent propagand telegram to Washington stating a 'trick of the Democratic Committee in bombarding Johnston with telegrams' is untrue, for the reason that most of the telegrams had come from Republicans, many of them former Johnson campaigners. Twenty Republican members of Johnson's Los Angeles Reception Committee, men and women, publicly withdrew their names from the committee on the ground that they were not in agreement with the Senator on the League. Among those were the Speaker of the California Legislature, State Senators, Assemblyman, Superior Court Judges, County Supervisors, and others prominent in commercial and political life in that city.

"Many editorial expressions from Republican newspapers in various sections of the State favor immediate ratification, challenge Johnson's claim that support of the treaty is un-American, and voice the opinion that the people unmistakably want the Peace Treaty and covenant ratified without hampering amendments. One of the strongest of such expressions comes from Chester H. Rowell, editor of The Fresno Republican, an intimate friend and former political supporter of Johnson.

"The sentiment is not sporadic, but general, though particularly strong in Southern California. For example, thirty-two officials and business men of Riverside, all Republicans, just wired Johnson: 'We do not approve your stand on covenant; we are strong for the League.' The Church Federation of Bay Cities and the Los Angeles Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Churches of California, representing a membership of 85,000, in two meetings adopted strong resolutions indorsing the League. The Labor Councils of San Francisco and Los Angeles have adopted resolutions strongly approving it. Hundreds of former soldiers in the war signed for its unqualified support, and called upon the Senate to ratify the treaty immediately without amendments.

"The League propagandists of San Francisco are sending misleading telegrams to Washington representing California as opposed to the League. Do not believe them. This State is overwhelmingly in favor of the covenant."

PHELAN OFFERS A BILL TO BAR JAPANESE LABOR

California Senator Declares That the "Gentleman's Agreement" Is Being Violated.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Senator Phelan of California today introduced a bill in the Senate providing for the exclusion of Japanese laborers.

Senator Phelan asserted that the so-called "gentleman's agreement" was being violated both in letter and in spirit, and that the Japanese population had grown to an alarming extent. He estimated that there were 100,000 Japanese in California today, with 150,000 in the United States, and 110,000 in the Hawaiian Islands. The plea had come from California, he said, for protection and relief.

The bill is in the form of an amendment to the existing immigration law by enlarging the barred zone by longitudinal and latitudinal lines, so as to include the Empire of Japan.

Senator Phelan said, in answer to the suggestion as to the propriety of introducing a measure of this kind now:

"The same considerations regarding the sensibilities of Japan, so called, have led us into all our troubles by permitting the Japanese immigration in the first place, and in the second place by providing an inadequate remedy. Japanese papers published in California are now urging Japanese in California to import brides and to acquire land in view of the pending restrictive legislation. The Japanese are spreading rapidly into Oregon and Washington, so the whole Pacific Coast is involved.

"The peace of the world will be threatened if the remedy is not speedily applied in California much sooner than by a policy of procrastination and delay, which will only make harder the settlement when the day of atonement arrives. A straightforward and frank treatment of the problem will do more to maintain good relations than a policy of vacillation and indulgence. Japan is now excluding Chinese from Japanese territory on the same economic grounds which actuate the United States."

HOUSTON REPLIES TO BORAH.

'BIG SIX' IS ASKED TO MAKE PROPOSAL

Employing Printers Suggest That Union Submit Its Idea of Arbitration Agreement.

SCOTT MAKING NO MOVE

Major Berry Declares Trouble Here Originated with Bolshevist Leaders.

Negotiations were resumed yesterday afternoon between "Big Six" Typographical Union and the Association of Employing Printers, in an effort to adjust the differences and bring to an end the strike and lockout which have almost completely tied up the book and commercial printing industry in the city. The Scale Committee of "Big Six," headed by President Leon H. Rouse, met with the employers' special committee, Col. William Green, chairman, at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

The net result of the conference was that President Rouse agreed to present to his union Sunday afternoon the suggestion of the employers that "Big Six," having rejected the proposal of the employers, now draft and submit to the employers a new counter-proposal, carrying with it the union's idea of an arbitration agreement. In the discussion Mr. Rouse would not commit his organization to an arbitration agreement of any kind, merely agreeing to let the union pass on the question. He was quoted as saying to the meeting that the men would never go back to work until they got the forty-four hour week.

This was the first conference between the two committees since the meeting of "Big Six" last Sunday and Mr. Rouse reported to the meeting the action of his union in rejecting, for the second time, the proposal of the employers. The employers also proposed to arbitrate any or all the matters at issue.

Owing to the fact that practically all the shops are at a standstill anyway, the employing printers at a meeting of the Printers' League Section at the Hotel Astor yesterday morning, decided to close down their plants entirely last night, not to re-open until Tuesday morning. The meeting was held for the purpose of hearing reports from the committees on the strike situation.

A Mimeograph Publication.

It developed at the meeting that The Dry Goods Economist, which has been published for the last seventy-three years and never missed an issue, maintained that record in spite of the situation in the printing industry, having come out yesterday in mimeograph form.

The typesetters in the Daily Bond News, published by Charles D. Steurer, at 149th Street and Bergen Avenue, the Bronx, quit work yesterday. Mr. Steurer, who is the dean of the Bronx County Press Club, managed to get the publication out with the aid of his sons, Charles D. Steurer, Jr., and Ralph Steurer.

Major George L. Berry, President of the International Pressmen's Union, asserted yesterday that members of the "outlawed" pressmen and feeders' union have resorted to assault and battery. One or two instances were cited by him.

"The question now is," said Major Berry, "how much longer will the police and the public tolerate this conduct? We propose to prosecute unmercifully any of the I. W. W. crowd who go out of their way to meddle in this situation."

Marsden G. Scott, President of the International Union, who is at the Hotel Imperial, said yesterday afternoon: "I am simply marking time and looking on for the present."

Sees Mechanical Compositor.

John Adams Thayer, Executive Secretary of the Periodical Publishers' Association, 200 Fifth Avenue, announced yesterday afternoon that due to the "vacations" taken by the compositors a new means of typesetting was being developed, which would eliminate the necessity of the compositors. What kind of type it is or what contrivance was necessary to replace typesetters, Mr. Thayer did not reveal. He said that advertisers had written to the various publications in which their advertisements were running, reassuring them of their support.

In a formal statement Major Geo. L. Berry declared that the trouble here originated with "Bolshevist leaders."

"The Bolshevist leaders," he said, "have announced the following principles: First, that they favor revolution; second, that they will not enter into contracts with the employers; third, that the chairman of the workshops shall be the mechanical director and the distributor of the profits of the industry. And these so-called principles are Bolshevist policies, and constitute an endeavor to establish the Lenin and Trotzky policy in America."

At a meeting of the Central Federated Union, held last night at the Labor Temple, Eighty-fourth Street, near Third Avenue, representatives of all organized labor in New York City voted unanimously to support the striking pressmen in the quarrel with their international officers, and ordered the appointment of a committee to bring about a reconciliation between the warring union factions. Despite the fact that the delegates present represented unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, which is backing the international unions, there was not a dissenting voice when the vote for the resolution was put.

The resolutions refer to the fact that President Leon H. Rouse of Typographical Union No. 6, has offered his services to bring about an agreement, and that the pressmen have evinced a desire to meet their international officers, but that the latter have refused to have any intercourse with the men or their representatives.

FRENCH TROOPS CRUSH SARRE MINERS' RIOT

German Spartacides Took Part in Looting and Arson at Saarbruecken.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—A French major and three soldiers were wounded in a riot at Saarbrücken, in occupied Germany, on Tuesday, according to a dispatch to the Petit Parisien. The riot is described as having grown out of labor demonstrations against the high cost of living, in which Spartacides joined.

In the course of the disturbances the Central Telegraph office was fired upon and stores were looted. Order was finally restored by the French forces.

Several Spartacides were arrested, upon which workmen espoused their cause and demanded their release, promising in this case to help to maintain order. The French authorities released the prisoners; but in the evening mobs, in which there were a number of men in German uniform, broke into clothing stores and other shops and pillaged them. At the same time shots were fired into the air according to Le diers.

A state of siege was proclaimed and machine guns were brought out. Shots were fired into the air according to the Petit Parisien.

Pillaging was resumed Wednesday, but quiet was restored in the evening. The strikers, it is reported, are showing a disposition to resume work.

Saarbrücken is one of the principal towns of the Sarre district, turned over to France for fifteen years by the peace treaty in order to help make good for the destruction of coal mines at Lens and elsewhere and the corresponding loss of French coal production. The miners of this region have been in a state of unrest ever since the French occupation, owing to the fact that they have not been able to share in the heavy wage increases enjoyed by miners in the non-occupied regions of Germany adjacent to the Sarre district.

Early this Summer a strike was declared by the miners, which was adjusted after some wage concession and after the French military authorities had threatened to expel the leaders.

A dispatch from Berlin on Sept. 24 reported an earlier conflict at Saarbrücken between civilians and French soldiers, in which many persons on both sides were wounded, and the situation has continued tense since that time.

FLIERS MAY CROSS CONTINENT BY NIGHT

E. Rice, who have been flying close together, ran into a heavy snowstorm in the country near Battle Mountain, Nev. The former was within twelve miles of a control station when he was forced to descend because of a high wind which added to his difficulties. His plane was wrecked, but neither he not his passenger was injured. Lieutenant Rice crashed fifty miles west of Battle Mountain and smashed his S E-5.

Eleven planes were held up yesterday morning by heavy rain at Buffalo, but all left by noon for Cleveland. Captain Roy Francis, who is carrying four passengers in his Martin bomber, reported that he made good time between Buffalo and Cleveland, considering the wind he had to buffet with the large ship.

Maynard Not Disqualified.

Rumors that Lieutenant Maynard and other contestants were to be disqualified for breaking such rules of the race as flying after sunset or failing to encircle the control stations before continuing on their journey, were set at rest by an official comunicué of the War Department at Washington, issued last night. This read in part:

"While no flying is to be done between sunset and sunrise, this is also having to be qualified. No pilots are to leave one stop unless there remains plenty of time to reach the next stop before sunset. But if for any good reason a pilot cannot reach his next field within the time remaining he will not probably be debarred, providing he has a good excuse and lands at an available field."

Ninety per cent. of the crashes which have occurred in the race could have been prevented if radio beacons, sending out warning signals in either direction, had been placed in the landing fields, said Colonel C. C. Culver, radio expert of the Air Service, at the American Flying Club last night.

"In the next few years," he said, "the route which army fliers are marking across the continent will be followed by commercial planes. Municipalities, in co-operation with the Government, should establish major landing fields at distances of from 100 to 150 miles apart. Among other things these fields should be equipped with radio stations to which should be sent weather reports. These messages could be received by airplanes equipped with the proper apparatus at distances up to 200 miles."

Captain Lowell Smith, who has been leading the Western contestants according to a bulletin issued by the American Flying Club, first became identified with flying while fighting under Francisco Villa in Mexico when Villa was warring against Huerta. He learned to pilot a plane by himself, and his first flight was made in a plane which he "borrowed" from one of Villa's pilots, the bulletin says.

During the war Captain Smith, who is 29 years old, was stationed at Kelly Field, and for a time was officer in charge of the flying field.

AIR RACER KILLED IN LANDING AT BUFFALO

W. D. McClure Thrown Out When Plane Hits Ground—Lieut. Wales Dies from Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Worth D. McClure, flying as passenger with Lieut. A. L. Snead, one of the contestants in the cross-continental race, was fatally injured late this afternoon when Snead's plane crashed in the attempt to make a landing at Curtiss Field. McClure was taken to a hospital, but was dead when the ambulance arrived.

Snead, according to observers, was trying to make a hurried landing, diving direct to the field without easing his plane down. The machine hit the ground and in spite of the condition of the field, bounded fifty feet into the air. The pilot could not control the plane at the top of the bound, and it took a nose dive to the ground. McClure was thrown clear of the machine, landing several feet away on his head. Surgeons said his skull was fractured. Snead was severely bruised, but not seriously hurt.

Five aviators arrived today from Rochester. They were Major Henry Abbey, Lieut. L. V. Beau, Jr., L. C. Osborne, Lieut. R. L. Maughan and Lieut. D. B. Gish. Abbey and Osborne continued the flight to Cleveland, the others remaining in Buffalo over night. Lieut. Gish was delayed near Ithaca by the breaking of his oil lead, but made repairs at Rochester.

Thirteen other aviators, who had been held in Buffalo by the storm yesterday, also proceeded to Cleveland today. These included Capt. Roy N. Francis, who took four passengers in his Martin Bomber.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—Lieutenant E. V. Wales, one of the transcontinental fliers who crashed into a mountain in a snowstorm yesterday, died at a farmhouse twenty-five miles from Saratoga, Wyoming, yesterday afternoon, the Army Air Service announced today.

SCRANTON, Penn., Oct. 10.—Lieutenants Haynes and McDermott, in a de Havilland 4, who started from Hazelhurst this afternoon, came to grief at Elmhurst, seven miles east of this city. They were forced down by engine trouble, and in landing broke their propeller. Both had started in the race Wednesday, but had accidents. They then teamed up and obtained another machine.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 10.—Plane No. 14, piloted by Lieut. Col. John M. Reynolds, was forced to land in a wheat field near Buchanan, Mich., according to a report tonight. The pilot and his observer were not injured, but the plane is said to be sunk in mud.

RAWLINS, Wyo., Oct. 10.—An official report has been received that Bluebird plane No. 55, piloted by Lieutenant Hall, went down close to Bitter Creek, seventy-five miles west of here, late yesterday. Lieutenant Hall reported he was out of the race.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 10.—Three eastbound airplanes which left yesterday for Chicago are reported out of the contest west of Green River, Wyo. One is at Carter, another at Elk Mountain, and the third at Bitter Creek.

MAYNARD AT SALDURO.

"Flying Parson" Nears San Francisco—Drayton on His Heels.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 10.—Over the Wasatch Mountains, following the trail taken by Brigham Young and his pioneer band seventy-two years ago, Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, the "flying parson," flew into Salt Lake City today at a speed approximating 120 miles an hour.

Delayed five and a half hours by a broken radiator at Cheyenne, Wyo., Lieutenant Maynard made the trip from the Wyoming capital to Buena Vista Field in just five hours. Arriving at 5:32½ Mountain time, he left, after the compulsory half-hour rest, for Salduro, the next westward control point, 100 miles away. He was reported arriving at Salduro at 6:03 o'clock, Pacific time.

Close upon his heels was Captain H. C. Drayton, No. 47, who left Cheyenne at 2:35 o'clock this afternoon, arriving at Rawlings at 4:13:10. Word was sent from here to instruct Drayton to remain there or at Green River for the night. He remained at Rawlings.

"I encountered the roughest going of the entire trip between Rawlings and Salt Lake," Lieutenant Maynard said. "I had to battle with a severe north wind, and my speed was slowed considerably for that reason."

Lieutenant Maynard said, just before resuming his flight, that he expected to arrive in San Francisco in time for luncheon tomorrow.

Just before his "hopoff" the police dog "Trixie," which has made the trip from Mineola with him, jumped from the airplane and ran across the field with the Lieutenant after him. The dog was caught just in time to resume the flight within the prescribed time limit.

"Parson, the sinners are with you," yelled a man in the crowd as the propeller began to turn.

Captain Drayton, Lieutenant L. S. Webster, and Captain J. O. Donaldson are expected to arrive tomorrow.

THREE LEADERS AT BRYAN, O.

Western Fliers Expect to Reach Mineola Today.

BRYAN, Ohio, Oct. 10.—Leading the San Francisco entrants in the transcontinental air derby, Captain L. H. Smith in a De Haviland-4 (bluebird) arrived from Chicago at 4:50 o'clock this afternoon.

Two other Pacific Coast entrants also made this station tonight. They are Lieutenant E. C. Kiel, in a De Haviland-4, who arrived at 5:27½, and Major C. Spatz in a De Haviland-4 (bluebird) at 5:47. All three expect to reach Mineola tomorrow evening, completing the journey eastward.

Major Spatz lost his bearings in a rain storm and had to descend at Hammond, Ind., twenty miles from here, and inquire his way to the control station. The stop delayed him thirty minutes.

Fourteen airplanes are at this station tonight, eleven going west and three east. Those westbound are:

Lieutenant J. P. Roulett, De Haviland-4; Lieut. Col. H. E. Hartney, Fokker; Lieutenant W. C. F. Brown, De Havilan-4; Lieutenant T. Hynes, De Haviland-4; Lieutenant S. W. Torney, De Haviland-4; Lieutenant H. H. George, De Haviland-4; Lieutenant H. W. Sheridan, De Haviland-4; Lieutenant Fred C. Nelson, De Haviland-4; Lieutenant J. B. Wright, De Haviland-4, and Lieutenant F. Kirby, De Haviland-4.

Lieut. Col. T. S. Bowen, who left in a de Havilland-4 at 1:50 o'clock today, was forced to land at Stillwell, Ind., because of bad weather, it is reported.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Capt. Smith arrived from Rock Island at Grant Park, Chicago, at 3:03 P. M. He was followed by Major Spatz at 3:10, and Lieutenant Kiel at 3:23 P. M. Captain Smith left for Bryan, Ohio, at 3:50.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Oct. 10.—Captain L. H. Smith arrived at Franing Field at 10:43 o'clock from Des Moines, having made the trip of 158 miles in one hour and twenty-one minutes. He was closely followed by Lieutenant Kiel and Major Spatz. The three leaders in the eastward race took the air at one time for Chicago, 155 miles from here, at 1:45 o'clock.

Captain J. O. Donaldson arrived here at 9:33 from Chicago, and left for Des Moines at 10:33 A. M.

Three planes from the East arrived this afternoon within sixteen minutes, Lieutenant Alexander Pearson, Jr., at 1:07 P. M., Lieutenant Earl Manzelman at 1:11 P. M., and Major Harry Smither at 1:23 P. M. Lieutenant Pearson continued to Des Moines at 1:37 P. M.

WASHINGTON REPORTS ON PROGRESS OF FLIERS

Storms and Engine Trouble Hold Back Racers—Several Out of the Contest.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The War Department at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon received the following report on the progress of the transcontinental airplane race from the Air Service at Hazelhurst Field:

"No. 33 DH-4 plane, Lieutenant Langley, is at Quaker Valley, Carbon County, Penn.; no injuries—out of race.

"No. 48, DH-4, Lieutenant H. G. Smith, is at Rockfort, N. Y.; no injuries—out of race.

"No. 107, Nieuport, Lieutenant V. Haynes, wrecked on landing at this field, Hazelhurst; no injuries. Had to change the plane to DH-4. D. W. McDermott as observer—weather unfit to start.

"No. 41, Lieutenant Kirkpatrick, returned to re-enter, but weather will not permit.

"No. 103, SE-5, Lieutenant McDermott, out of race because of engine trouble. Is going as observer with Lieutenant Haynes in 107. Weather unfit here and at Binghamton, N. Y., Hazelhurst report."

The Department issued this communiqué at 4:55 o'clock:

"Latest reports from field stations of the Air Service show the three leaders of the flight eastward held at Rock Island, awaiting the drying out of the landing field at Chicago, which is too wet for a safe landing. Lieutenant E. C. Kiel and Major C. Spatz arrived at Rock Island shortly after noon, overtaking Captain L. H. Smith, who was leading the Western group this morning.

"Following Lieutenant Maynard of the Eastern group is Captain H. C. Drayton in a DH-4, who left St. Paul for North Platte this morning at 10:57 o'clock. Lieutenant L. S. Webster holds third in the race westward. He is reported as having left Des Moines for Omaha at 10:18 this morning.

"Control stopped Commander Voss at Salt Lake City, has been relieved by First Lieutenant J. G. Hall, whose plane was wrecked Oct. 8, and will accompany the remains of Major Crissy to San Francisco today. Sergeant Virgil Thomas, who accompanied Major Crissy and was killed in the same accident, was a native of Coraopolis, Penn. He enlisted at Essington, Penn., June 1, 1917, being assigned to the Second Reserve Aero Squadron. He was transferred to the Forty-fifth Aero Squadron Aug. 28, 1917. He was lately assigned to the 87ist Aero Squadron at St. Paul, Minn. He was appointed Sergeant, first class, Jan. 15.

"Lieutenant B. W. Maynard is now reported as being held up at Cheyenne by radiator trouble.

"Report from Binghamton, N. Y., indicates that Captain J. J. Marquette, Plane No. 20 DH-4, went down at Waverly, N. Y., with a broken lower wing, a leak in the radiator and other damages. It is feared he is out of the race.

"Report from Buffalo, N. Y., indicates that Colonel C. C. Culver left Rochester at 8:30 in Plane No. 2, but came down at 9:23 on account of a bad storm, uninjured, but with a damaged plane.

"Plane No. 48, piloted by Lieutenant H. D. Smith, left Rochester this morning, but was forced to land in a field at Lockport, N. Y., in doing so, it crashed into a tree, and was badly damaged. The pilot was not hurt.

"Report from Rawlins, Wyo., indicates the arrival of ship No. 63, polited by Lieutenant J. P. Richter from the West Coast. He landed at 1:56 yesterday. In so doing he damaged his landing gear, but is proceeding East with temporary repairs. He has wired ahead to have the necessary spare parts fitted at Omaha or Chicago.

"Report from Rock Island indicates that ship No. 27, piloted by Major H. J. F. Miller, arrived at 3:57 yesterday. Major Miller is out of the race because his machine is disabled.

"Report from San Francisco, ship No. 54, Lieutenant S. E. Rice, in an SE-5, made a forced landing at Winnemucca, Nev., breaking his propeller and upper wings. He is out of the race.

"Report from Coalville, Utah, plane No. 59, piloted by Lieutenant R. Kauch, is down because of a frozen motor, but no further damage.

"Report from Des Moines indicates that machine No. 15, piloted by Lieutenant L. S. Webster, landed six miles northeast of Des Moines at 7:10 yesterday. It was reported to control stop commander and at first it was thought he would be disqualified, but probably not, as he came down on first good landing place.

"A report from Cleveland indicates the planes that are being piloted by Colonel Hartrey (SE-5) and Colonel Culver (Fokker) have small gas capacity. They arranged to add tanks to avoid danger in crossing the mountain, having received official permission to do so.

"Report from Chicago indicates that No. 39, Pilot Lieutenant E. H. Manzelman, landed in Washington Park, failing to get to the official landing place, but was not injured.

"The ruling of the air service is that all twenty-two stops must be made, and that the pilots must remain thirty minutes at each control stop. Reservations will be made for pilots who skip fields in bad condition. Green River is being skipped for this reason, with the penalty of a deduction of thirty minutes which would have been taken out if stop was made.

"While no flying is to be done between sunset and sunrise, this also is being qualified. No pilots are allowed to leave a stop unless there remains plenty of time to reach the next stop before sunset, but if a pilot cannot reach his next field within the time remaining, he probably will not be debarred, provided he has a good excuse and lands at the first available field.

"Lieutenant B. W. Maynard annihilated time and space yesterday between North Platte and Sidney, Neb., a distance of 112 miles. He is reported as having left North Platte at 5:03 P. M., and arriving at Sidney at 5:01 P. M., making 112 miles in minus two minutes. Actually, his flying time was 58 minutes. The standard time changes between North Platte and Sidney.

"Although first reports indicated the serious injury of Lieutenant E. V. Wales and Lieutenant William Goldsborough, flying east in a DH-4, No. 63, who crashed at Deer Mountain, near Saratoga, Wyo., it is now reported from Rawlins, Wyo., that Lieutenant Wales died of injuries. Blinded by a snowstorm, these aviators crashed in landing.

"Goldborough reached Palson Ranch in search of aid for Wales, but found on his return that Lieutenant Wales had died. Goldsborough is reported as having taken the body to Palson Ranch and gone by automobile to Saratoga. Mr. Palson is to take Wales's body to the Quartermaster at Saratoga today. Lieutenant Wales was born at Spokane, Wash., but his recent address was San Diego, Cal."

FIND MISSING BALLOON A WRECK IN LAKE HURON

No Trace of Capt. Dammann and Lieut. Verheyden, Who Were Racing It.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—The wreckage of the balloon Wichita, in which Captain Carl W. Dammann and Lieutenant Edward J. Verheyden, Jr., St. Louisans, left here in the national championship balloon race Oct. 1, was picked up Oct. 4 in Lake Huron, according to a telegram received by officials of the race here today.

No trace of the two balloonists was found, the message said.

The telegram sent from Tobermory, Ont., said the wreckage was found near Cove Island. It is approximately 650 miles from St. Louis. The finding of this craft appears to give the race to Ralph H. Upson, pilot of the Akron Aeor Club's entry, who landed at Dunham, Quebec, about 1,050 miles from here.

Following receipt of the message, Major A. B. Lambert, an official of the race, telegraphed that $500 reward would be paid for information of the aeronauts and Captain E. S. Cole left for Tobermory to direct a search for them.

NINE HELD IN CLEVELAND.

Bad Weather Stops Fliers in Ohio City for the Night.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10.—Fifteen westbound airplanes in the Transcontinental Derby arrived today and there were fourteen departures. Nine are in the Glenn Martin hangar, ready to take off for Bryan, Ohio, tomorrow at daybreak, weather permitting. All machines leaving Buffalo during the day reached here. Those who were held here for the night by bad weather were:

Major Edwin B. Lyon, No. 28; Lieutenant J. B. Machle, No. 17; Lieutenant J. P. Johnson, No. 106; Captain Roy N. Francis, No. 18; Captain Felix Steinle, No. 22; Major Henry Abbey, No. 7; Major A. H. Gilkeson, No. 102; Lieutenant Charles L. Osbourne, No. 60, and Major J. W. Simons, No. 10.

Handley-Page Plane to Chicago.

The Handley-Page biplane Atlantic, which landed at Greenport, L. I., Thursday night after a flight of more than 900 miles from Parrsboro, N. S., will attempt a nonstop flight to Chicago some day next week. The biplane will carry crew and passengers to the total number of twelve, as it did on its flight from Canada to the United States.

BELGIAN PRIEST GAVE AID TO NURSE CAVELL

Also Warned London of Air Raids After Getting Into Ostend.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—There appears in the current issue of "Universe" a remarkable story told at the Catholic Social Guild Conference by Père Meeus, a heroic Belgian priest, who was one of the editors of the clandestine Belgian paper La Libre Belgique. He also rendered considerable service to the intelligence departments of the Allies.

He was in constant communication with Edith Cavell and assisted her in her heroic work. Prisoners who were escaping, he said, were taken into Brussels in disguise and there met by the Grande Espionne. The Grande Espionne was a little girl of 11, who used to carry a big doll, run about and play and look into shop windows. Soldiers would follow her without any sign of recognition on her part. Then she would stop outside the house in which Miss Cavell met them.

The soldiers were then bandaged up and transformed into "hospital" patients and were introduced to Père Meeus, who would then get them across the border.

Some of this daring priest's adventures and disguises are equally interesting. Once, as a cattle driver, he got to Ostend and found the real lurking place of the German submarines. It was known that previous to an air raid into England it was the custom of the officers of the Zeppelins and Gothas to meet at dinner. Père Meeus disguised himself as a pastry cook and thus was able to find out when such dinners were to be given, and by means of carrier pigeons sent into Holland to inform the British Admiralty by 6 P. M. of an impending raid.

It was only by chance that the priest was not taken with Miss Cavell. He was to have attended a conference with her, but Cardinal Mercier had sent for him to get an important message into Holland, and thus he was forced to be absent on the night the nurse was arrested.

TO OPERATE ON HAASE.

Assailant's Bullet Lodged Near His Knee Must Be Removed.

BERLIN, Oct. 9, (Associated Press.)—Hugo Haase, the Independent Socialist leader, who was wounded when fired upon yesterday by an Austrian, will not be able to leave his bed for at least four weeks, according to surgeons in charge of the case.

An X-ray examination of Herr Haase's wounds shows that one of the bullets took a downward course and lodged near his knee. It must be removed by an operation.

Send Christmas Boxes to Siberia.

The National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. announced yesterday that a shipment of 70,000 Christmas boxes had been sent to Siberia at a cost of $75,000, for distribution among the American and Czech forces still on duty there. There are more than 120 "Y" secretaries serving the 8,000 American doughboys and the 50,000 Czechs in Siberia at the present time.

accordance with treaties and grant me all facilities to take requisite measures."

Allies Again Threaten Blockade.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—General Von der Goltz, the German Commander in the Baltic Provinces, is persisting in his refusal to evacuate the region, the Supreme Council has been informed. The Council this afternoon received a telegram to this effect from the French mission in the Baltic States.

The reply of Marshal Foch, who was instructed by the Supreme Council to draw up the Entente answer to the latest German note concerning the evacuation of German troops from the Baltic Provinces, will inform the German Government that the coercive measures contemplated in the Entente's earlier reply—the suspension of the supply of foodstuffs and raw materials and the refusal of all financial facilities—will be carried into effect if Germany does not comply with the orders of the Peace Conference.

The German reply had attempted to plead lack of power to force the German soldiers to comply with its orders and protested against a reimposition of the blockade.

The note of Marshal Foch will state that an Inter-Allied Commission will be sent to the Baltic Provinces to watch the execution of the orders. It has been examined by the Supreme Council, and will be sent shortly, probably tomorrow. In the text mention is made of the latest incidents in the Baltic Provinces brought to the attention of the Council and particularly the German attack against the Lettish forces, of which the Lettish Government made complaint to the Peace Conference.

The Lettish protest says that German troops atacked Lettish forces on Oct. 8. The Allies are asked to take decisive action against this "violation of the Peace Treaty" and to compel Germany to comply with the terms of the treaty. It is asserted that German troops in Letvia are "threatening the world and uniting with pro-German Russians." The Lettish Government declares that it will obstinately defend its independence.

Says Germans Have Joined Russians.

BERLIN, Oct. 10, (Associated Press)—Colonel Avaloff-Bermondt has addressed a note to the German Government expressing Russia's thanks for the "unforgettable services of the German troops in saving the Russian border provinces from Bolshevism."

A Hamburg newspaper quotes an interview which General von der Goltz had with the correspondent of the Soldat Zeitung (Soldiers' Newspaper) in which the General said that the evacuation of the Baltic Provinces was proceeding and that only the German Soldiers who had joined the West Russian Army of Colonel Avaloff-Bermondt were remaining in Courland.

"These troops," said General von der Goltz, "are foreigners whom no government could recall at the Entente's orders."

The Independents failed to score their expected sensation in the National Assembly yesterday by their revelation of the presence of a "West Russian Government in Berlin." The Assembly showed little interest or surprise in the charge that a group of anti-Bolshevist Russians had organised a government here to take possession of Russian territories between the frontiers of Poland and Russia whenever the opportunity presented itself.

Hermann Müller, Minister of Foreign Affairs, disposed of the charge that the Government tolerated the presence of the Russians by merely declaring that he was unofficially aware of their existence and that he had not recognized such a Government. The Foreign Minister added that he was quite ignorant of the doings at the residence of Dr. E. S. Solf, Secretary for the Colonies, where, it is asserted, Colonel Durnovo, son of a former Russian Cabinet Minister, occupies quarters in the Colonial Department and where he is daily conferring with Russian officers.

Dr. Cohn, Socialist, who spoke in the absence of Hugo Haase, found the Deputies evidently prepared for the revelations. He concluded his speech by earnestly warning the Government not to estrange Russia, as then, he said, Germany would be wholly without an outlet in any direction.

Independent Socialists were accused by Gustav Noske, Minister of Defense, yesterday of "complicating Germany's position abroad by malicious and unjust criticism of the military administration." He told them that they "were licking the boots of the British and French commissions in Berlin."

Dr. Müller, admitted at the session that many soldiers from South German garrisons were going to the Baltic provinces on false passports, adding that they were the victims of "adventurers who expect a free and easy life there and expect eventually to settle down." Discussing the prevailing lack of discipline, the Minister said that it made it easy for German troops to go over into the Russian service, and that people were "daily approaching the Foreign Office in a secret manner with information to the effect that the Entente would be pleased to see German troops fighting in Russian units."

"If the Entente is desirous of having us withdraw the last German trooper from Rarely in publishing history has a book received such unanimously warm, almost tender, appreciation as THE OLD CARD, by ROLAND PERTWEE. Not even one lukewarm review has appeared. All the critics advise their readers to buy THE OLD CARD for, to quote The New York Times, "its quiet humor, refreshing naturalness and simplicity, its farce, its high comedy, its thrilling drama, and its touch of pathos." Comparisons are difficult—but if you enjoy the flavor of W. J. Locke, you are likely to read THE OLD CARD more than once.

AMERICAN SOLDIER KILLED BY RUSSIAN

Shot by Officer He Struck When Ordered to Desist from Agitation, It Is Said.

ALLIED GENERALS ROUSED

Demand That Russian Forces Quit Vladivostok, but Kolchak's Protests Prevail.

OMSK, Sept. 30, (Associated Press.)—An American soldier in Vladivostok was shot and killed recently by a Russian officer, it has been learned here. This and other incidents led to a demand from the Allied commanders at Vladivostok for the removal of the Russian troops from that city. A vigorous protest by the Omsk Government, however, led to the withdrawal of the demand.

Admiral Kolchak's protest was addressed to the Allied Governments, voicing his objection to what he considered a violation of Russian sovereignty. It was dispatched after General Rozanoff, the Russian military commander in the Far East, had reported to Omsk that the Allied commanders had ordered him to take his troops out of Vladivostok, but that he had refused to comply with the demand.

The Omsk Government upheld him in his stand, and according to information here several of the superior military and diplomatic representatives of the Allies at Omsk cabled representations to their governments supporting Admiral Kolchak's position.

In one of the incidents of the series at Vladivostok, which gave rise to the commanders' demand, according to the accounts received in Omsk, a Czech soldier was killed by a Russian officer. The version of the killing of an American contained in the reports coming here had it that the American, while engaged in anti-Government propaganda, was ordered by the Russian officer to desist. The American struck the officer, who drew a pistol and shot his assailant, the account added.

The Omsk Foreign Office based its protest to the Allies on the ground that the allied commanders has exceeded the rights accorded them by the railroad agreement, which limits their sphere of action; also that their action in this case violated the sovereignty of Russia, which the powers had promised to respect. The demand, it was indicated, was regarded as offensive to the dignity of Russia, and as astonishing, in view of the cordial relations existing between Russia and the Allies and the assurances of the latter's sympathy and support, recently given. Russia, it was pointed out, does not recognize any surrender of her military or civil jurisdiction in Vladivostok by reason of the presence there of the allied troops, and is determined to oppose any effort to subvert her authority or limit her liberty.

Now that the incident has been closed by the withdrawal voluntarily of their order by the allied commanders, it is predicted in high Government circles here that admiral Kolchak's determined attitude will have the effect of greatly strengthening his prestige in the Far East. At the same time, the incident has caused numerous expressions of anti-ally sentiment.

Orders issued by Admiral Kolchak, calling for the convocation of a Congress of Zemstvos, are considered here as a reply to demands said to have been submitted to him early in September by Cossacks under the leadership of Generals Dutoff and Ivanoff-Rinoff, the State Economic Council, comprising zemstvos and co-operative societies and leaders of a political faction, composed of men at the head of various parties.

These demands included the dismissal of the whole personnel of the Omsk Government, with the exception of Admiral Kolomak, and the appointment of a new Cabinet, comosed of a Premier, to be chosen by the political leaders, and six Ministers, to be named by the Premier. At present there are ten members of the Government.

Under the plan submitted, the Premier, the Commander in Chief of the army, the State Controller, and the Chairman of the Economic Council would report direct to the supreme head of the Government. Reforms in army administration were also included, calling for the concentration of authority in the staff of the supreme ruler, the substitution of a division staff for army staffs as at present constituted, and the immediate dispatch to the front of many thousands of officers who are holding posts in the rear.

Admiral Kolchak succeeded in having the demands held in abeyance, pending his visit to the front during the military crisis, when it appeared problematical whether Omsk was safe. Since the demands were submitted, it is said, Cossack delegates have been sounding foreign representatives here as to their probable attitude in the event of a coup being accomplished.

MORRIS LAUDS KOLCHAK.

American Ambassador Impressed by His Patriotism and Courage.

TOKIO, Oct. 2, (Associated Press.)—Roland S. Morris, United States Ambassador to Japan, arrived today from Siberia, having been at Omsk to confer with Admiral Kolchak, head of the All-Russian Government, and members of his Cabinet.

Mr. Morris said that during his long trip he had received many attentions from Japanese officials and had been welcomed at every place. The Japanese, he said, showed unfailing interest, courtesy and willingness to give him the benefit of their observations and to discuss unreservedly important factors in the Siberian situation.

Mr. Morris was favorably impressed by Admiral Kolchak, his patriotism and high courage. He remarked he felt Admiral Kolchak was facing problems seemingly beyond the power of one man to solve alone." The Ambassador added that, for this reason, he welcomed the recent decision of the head of the Omsk Government to take counsel with the representatives of the people.

Got Loot in Swedish Embassy.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 10.—The Swedish Foreign Department in a communique issued today confirms the recent reports of the sacking of the Swedish Legation in Petrograd and the consular offices in Petrograd and Moscow by the Bolshevist authorities. It is declared that valuables and private deposits aggregating 12,000,000 rubles were confiscated.

DECORATE MRS. DRAKE.

Italians Honor Head of American Free Milk Fund There.

ROME, Oct. 9.—Mrs. Johanna Drake of New York City, President of the American Free Milk Relief Fund for Italy, was the guest of honor at a banquet given today by the Italian Red Cross. Senator Giarolo, President of the Italian Red Cross, conferred upon her a gold medal. A silver medal was given to Mrs. William Boyce Thompson of New York, and a bronze medal to Signora Nicola Cerri, American wife of the Italian Consul at Cleveland.

A federation of Italian relief agencies is being organized to supervise the education of thousands of children who will be housed during their instruction in the royal palace at Caserta, seventeen miles northeast of Naples.

PADEREWSKI IN LONDON; POLISH ARMY NEEDS AID

Forces Facing Bolsheviki Lack Overcoats, Winter Clothing and Shoes.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Prime Minister Paderewski of the Polish Republic has arrived in London for a consultation with Prime Minister Lloyd George. He declined to make any statement as to his mission.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Polish statesmen here report that with the approach of Winter Poland's army of more than a half million men is in a sad plight and they are uncertain whether their military problems can be worked out.

Polish troops, it is declared, are successfully opposing Russian Bolshevism along an irregular front of more than 400 miles long, extending from Dvinsk in the north to a point on the west bank of the Dnieper river, about fifty miles south of Homel (Gomel.)

The forces on this long front, however, are without overcoats and Winter clothing and many of them lack shoes. It seems impossible for them to dig in for the Winter unless a tremendous amount of supplies is made immediately available.

Prime Minister Paderewski and other Polish leaders say that while the Poles willingly acceded to the Peace Conference request to push back the Bolsheviki and protect Europe against their inroads, they are now much puzzled to know how they can face Winter in their present predicament.

The Bolshevist Government at Moscow, it is declared, is constantly attempting to make peace with the Poles, and the poorly clad Polish Army is much tempted by offers of peace, which would enable the men to return home.

Polish experts declare that with Esthonia, Latvia, and Lithuania negotiating informally with the Bolsheviki for peace, the Polish population is greatly tempted to seek peace by such means, and there is a feeling in Peace Conference circles that the danger of such an outcome may be great unless some other plan is speedily devised for the relief of Poland.

Strikes Tie Up Traffic in Peru.

LIMA, Oct. 9.—Advices from Arequipa, in Southern Peru, report a general strike in progress in that city. All traffic on the Southern Railway of Peru has been suspended. In this city the street car employes this afternoon again went on strike. The telephone operators have also gone out.

PREDICTS ANOTHER WAR.

Already Appearing on Horizon, Says Exiled Austrian, Count Berchtold.

PARIS, Sept. 29, (Correspondence of Associated Press.)—"Another war is already appearing on the horizon. It seems as inevitable as that which has just ended."

Such is the statement of Count Leopold Berchtold, who was Foreign Minister in Austria-Hungary at the outbreak of the war and is now living in exile in Switzerland, as reported in a dispatch from Vienna via Basle.

Count Berchtold, when asked for details regarding the recent revelations in the Austrian White Book on the origin of the war, said that this was made inevitable by the fact that Germany and Austria were menaced, with envelopment and destruction. Efforts were now being made, he said, to bring about a reconciliation in Europe by throwing the responsibility for the outbreak of the war upon the "two great dead from the conflict," namely the Empire of the Russian Tzars and the Double Monarchy of the Hapsburgs, but responsibilities for the war were already fading away before the responsibility of peace.

"I can await with confidence," declared the statesman who sent the momentous ultimatum to Serbia, "the judgment of history."

PRISON TERM FOR O'KEEFE.

Sinn Fein Parliament Member Gets 18 Months for Sedition.

DUBLIN, Oct. 10.—Patrick O'Keefe, Sinn Fein member of Parliament for the Northern Division of Cork, who was acquitted on Sept. 23 by courts martial on the charge of having arms in his possession but was held on further charges including sedition, was sentenced today to 18 months' imprisonment for seditious utterances.

He was arrested on Sept 12 during the raids and searches for arms carried out by the authorities here and elsewhere in Ireland.

We took one final survey of this stock two days ago and found a fine selection remaining. But what Suits, gentlemen, what Suits! It may sound like an old familiar tune for us to say that they'd cost us more if we had to buy them today than what we're selling them to you for, but the truth's the truth! However, you know materials when you see them. Just try to find Suits tailored as these are tailored for less than $50 and $55. We repeat: This is one means of saving.

proves that exclusiveness is not a matter of price.

Certainly there is nothing exclusive about the price—a woman of modest income will find it within her means. Yet no woman of discriminating tastes will deny that these hats are exclusive in character—as a group they are distinct from any other hats at a similar price; individually they are distinctive and distinct from each other.

There are no two alike. There is no ONE that cannot claim distinction, style and intrinsic worth

WHICH!

Doubtless you have heard many clothiers say, "The best is the cheapest," but you may not have heard the rest of their sentiment—"no matter what you pay for it."

These shops take advantage of the average man's desire to have "the best" and charge as much as he'll pay for it. Knowing that only one thing can be the best, we fail to see how all clothiers can have the "best" clothes. We charge less than those shops which claim to have the "best" clothing and often our clothing is better than their "best."

GOV. SMITH ADVISES PORTER'S REMOVAL

Recommends That Food and Market Commissioner Be Dropped After Report.

INCOMPETENCE IS CHARGED

Favored the Producer Instead of the Consumer, Says Battle—Doctor Defends Course.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The removal of Dr. Eugene H. Porter as Commissioner of Foods and Markets was recommended by Governor Smith to the Council of Farms and Markets in a letter made public tonight. The recommendation was made after Governor Smith had received a preliminary report from George Gordon Battle, Special Commissioner appointed by the Executive to investigate the council, in which Dr. Porter was charged with being "incompetent to hold his position and that his administration of his duties has been inefficient."

In his letter to the council, Governor Smith pointed out that under the law he had no control over the administration of the Department of Farms and Markets and had no power to appoint or remove any member of the council. For this reason, he said, he had been reluctant to interfere in any way with the administration of the council's duties. In referring to Commissioner Battle's recommendation that Commissioner Porter be removed, the Governor wrote:

"It is enough for me to say that I consider the grounds of the recommendation to be sufficient and that I concur therein."

Commissioner Battle in his preliminary report stated that it was clear that "Dr. Porter has not been, and is not today, the proper man for the position of Commissioner of Foods and Markets. The attitude of Commissioner Porter has been consistently, so far as the record discloses, one in favor of the producer, rather than the consumer, whereas his division is peculiarly concerned with the interests of the consumer.

"Numerous questions to members of the council and to Dr. Porter have failed to bring out that anything had been actually accomplished constructively for the benefit of the consumer as such during the period of Dr. Porter's incumbency."

Dr. Porter, the report said, has had no previous experience in regard to the marketing of food and produce such as he might have gained as a milk farmer. "He lacks the necessary experience and knowledge for this most important position," wrote Commissioner Battle. "He has apparently abandoned all hope in bringing any substantial aid to the consumer in the near future. He has taken no steps to ascertain the true cost of the distribution of milk in New York City. Indeed, neither the council nor Commissioner Porter seems to have taken any great interest in devising or putting into execution any plans for the benefit of the consumer."

Much space in the report was devoted to the Dairymen's League and Dr. Porter's relations with it, the evidence having showed, it was said, that Dr. Porter had been ceaseless in his efforts to promote and further the well-being of the league corporation, "and had not permitted the fact that he held a public office particularly designed to protect the interests of the consumer to interfere with his activities in behalf of the league."

Dr. Porter's membership in the Dairymen's League for a time after being appointed a public official and the fact that he received money as a speaker from the league, as well as his failure to enforce the rule governing the stamping of cold storage eggs, and other matters which were brought out in the several public hearings which were conducted by Commissioner Battle, were dealt with at length in the Commissioner's report.

Commissioner Porter tonight asserted that Democratic leaders had determined to get control of the Department of Farms and Markets for the sake of patronage.

"When they found they were unable to obtain control of the council, whose members are chosen by the Legislature, they commenced a bitter campaign to accomplish their end," he said.

He declared that the report of Commissioner Battle contained many inaccuracies and misstatements.

SIDES WITH BARTENDER.

Court Rules Police Had No Right to Ask Him to Sell Drinks.

United States District Attorney Leroy W. Ross of Brooklyn struck a snag in his campaign to enforce the Wartime Prohibition Law in Long Island and Staten Island when United States Commissioner Felix Reifschneider, Jr., on Thursday discharged Christian Speiser, a bartender, who was charged by detectives with selling them liquor.

The Commissioner agreed with Speiser's attorney that the detectives had no right to induce Speiser to serve them to obtain evidence against him. Speiser is employed at 337 Knickerbocker Avenue, Brooklyn.

The District Attorney said yesterday he was not through with the case. He said he disagreed with the opinion of the Commissioner.

STATE LEGION HOLDS FIRST CONVENTION

ASSAILS TACTICS OF "DRYS"

$500 Bonus for Soldiers Is Urged by Some—Colonel Roosevelt Named as Delegate.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The first annual State convention of the New York Branch of the American Legion opened this morning. Ogden L. Mills, temporary State Chairman, presided, and made the opening address, in the course of which he said:

"We believe in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. We believe that our country, our institutions, and our opportunities, are second to none on earth, and as we have fought a great war to defend them, so we are sternly and solemnly determined to preserve them now that peace has come.

"Vast as is this country, it isn't big enough to harbor a single man for whom the American Constitution and American institutions are not good enough."

By far the greater part of the opening session was taken up in the reading of the resolutions which had been submitted by the various county delegations, all of which will go to the Resolution Committee. Police strikes, rent profiteers, and German opera were condemned. The committee also received a resolution advocating an extensive program of good roads throughout the State to provide employment for returned soldiers. Another resolution called for the deportation of alien slackers, who, when the war broke out, surrendered their first papers, in order to gain exemption from the draft laws.

Resolutions approving the work of the Red Cross and the welfare organizations were read. A number of motions condemning the manner of which the prohibition amendment was passed were turned in. The delegations from the upper part of the State are especially bitter on this subject. The counties around New York are supporting a resolution which provides that any man who is running for political office may not be eligible for any office in the American Legion.

The bonus question was not overlooked and more than a dozen different resolutions on this subject were introduced. The most radical called for a cash bonus of $500 for every returned service man.

Universal military training was advocated by a large number of the counties.

In the afternoon the assembly was addressed on military training by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

"It is well known that I have always favored universal training for the young men of the nation," he said. "Quite aside from its military and naval value it is bound to come for the very simple reason that it produces better citizens."

Other important business of the day was the receiving of nominations from the floor for the State offices and for delegates at large to the national convention in Minneapolis in November. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was nominated as one of the delegates. A large part of the assembly, especially the up-State men, greeted his nomination enthusiastically, but the New York men opposed it on the ground that he was a candidate for Assemblyman.

Ogden L. Mills declined to be nominated as State Chairman, saying that he intended to be active in the Presidential campaign next year.

Among those nominated for the State Chairmanship were Russel E. Sard of Albany, Pierre Lorillard, Jr., of Tuxedo Park, and Hamilton Fish, Jr., of Garrison. Wade H. Hayes was renominated as State Secretary, and James H. Perkins declined to continue in office as Treasurer. It is understood that the most likely successor to Mr. Perkins will be Harrison Deyo of Yonkers.

Among the nominees for delegate at large are Ogden L. Mills, Father Francis A. Kelly of Troy, Cornelius W. Wickersham, son of the former Attorney General; Robert Bacon of Westbury, son of the former United States Ambassador, and Mrs. Julia Wheelock, a former Chief Yeoman in the navy.

PERSHING WRITES TO POST.

Permits Naming Girls' Organization of Legion After Mrs. Pershing.

The Frances Warren Pershing Post No. 462 of the American Legion made up of girls who have seen service in the army, navy, or marine corps, has received from General John J. Pershing this letter:

"The letter of Sept. 18 from the former yeoman (f) attached to the Provisions and Clothing Department of the Navy was forwarded to me and has just been received. I am touched by your thought of using the name of my wife, Frances Warren Pershing, as the standard bearer for the post of the American Legion you propose to form and can see no reason why you should not do so.

"I am sorry that your letter was so delayed that it was impossible for me to reply before your meeting of Sept. 23."

Fireman Sentenced for Theft.

Frederick Schupp, formerly a fireman in the Long Island City Department, was sent to the New York Penitentiary by Judge Humphrey in the Queens County Court yesterday after conviction on a charge of theft. On Sept. 8, 1918, while Schupp was at a fire at 54 Fourth Street, Long Island City, the apartment of Mrs. Elizabeth McMahor, next door, was entered. Her gold watch and gold bracelet disappeared, and were found later in a pawn shop. Schupp was said to have pawned them.

LEAVES MUNICIPAL BENCH.

Justice Richards of Brooklyn Resigns to Become Bank President.

Municipal Court Justice Edward A. Richards of the Seventh District, Brooklyn, sent his resignation yesterday to Mayor Hylan, to take effect on Nov. 5, the day after election. Justice Richards said he selected this date so that his successor would not have to be elected at the coming election, but could be appointed instead by the Mayor for a year, during which time a suitable candidate could be found for the full term.

Justice Richards is to be President of the East New York Savings Bank, to which position he was elected by the Directors Thursday night. It is also understood that he will resume the practice of law, becoming the senior member of a new firm.

Justice Richards, who lives at 147 Barbey Street, has served two years of his second term, or twelve years in all. He had eight years to serve. He was elected two years ago in a normally Republican District, although he is a Democrat.

Making the Home Beautiful

Are you one of the thousands who are planning to build when the price of materials and the cost of labor are stabilized? If that is to be your way of side-stepping the landlord, a little knowledge of interior decoration and furnishing will help to make the new home realize your fondest dream. If you own your own home and plan to make it more homelike, the same knowledge will prove helpful. Here are several books on the subject, any one of which will prove interesting as well as useful:

15 Reasons

Why First Mortgages Guaranteed by This Company Are the Best Investment for Prudent People.

Trustees have had many unpleasant experiences during the last few years, both with high class bonds and with unguaranteed mortgages. The better the quality of the bonds, often the greater the depreciation in price. With the falling off in real estate values the unguaranteed mortgages frequently have had to be foreclosed and the investor has become the owner of the real estate.

Not so the 38,000 trustees, individuals and corporate lenders who have held the guaranteed mortgages of this Company. Not one of them has had to mark down his principal or had to wait for his interest or has had to buy in the real estate at foreclosure sale.

We believe that for a long time to come, and until New York real estate in general takes on a very different aspect, prudent people will decline to take unguaranteed mortgages or to risk buying even high class bonds, but will make such a demand for guaranteed mortgages that we cannot supply their wants.

This means more money brought into the real estate market and better times, we believe, for the real estate owner.

We have guaranteed $700,000,000 in the past 27 years and no investor has ever lost a dollar.

COMMONS TO TACKLE IRISH PROBLEMS

These and the Labor Issue Will Have Priority in the Coming Session.

PREMIER HINTS AT ELECTION

Tells Advocates of Mine Nationalization the Nation Can Pass on the Project.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Labor problems and the Irish question will receive priority over other subjects of discussion when Parliament meets Oct. 22. The Alien bill is down as the first matter for consideration, but it will probably be postponed.

The Special Cabinet Committee dealing with Ireland and composed of Lord Birkenhead, the Lord Chancellor; Sir Leming-Worthington-Evans, the Home Minister for Pensions; Edward Shortt, Secretary for Home Affairs; H. A. L. Fisher, Minister of Education; Walter Long, First Lord of the Admiralty; Sir Eric Geddes, Minister of Transport; Sir Ian Macpherson, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and Viscount French, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, will reassemble early next week, when Viscount French returns from Ireland. The plan of procedure will be drafted at the ensuing meetings.

The nature of the debate on the labor situation will depend upon the attitude taken by the Labor Party in connection with the conference with the Prime Minister yesterday regarding nationalization of the coal mines. Robert Smillie, President of the Miners' Federation, and Frank Hodges, its Secretary, say that the miners will probably take no immediate steps with reference to nationalization since the matter is now in the hands of the Trades Union Congress. C. W. Bowerman, Secretary of the Congress, said that if a special congress were considered necessary to discuss the steps to be taken, the gathering would probably not be held until after the return from Washington of the British delegates to the International Labor Convention.

An official report of the speech of Premier Lloyd George to the miners' delegation yesterday shows that he declared that the nationalization of mines was a political issue which must be decided by the whole nation, and not by a section of the country. The Premier added that if his expression of the Government's view on nationalization was unacceptable to the nation there were means whereby it could not only carry out nationalization, but could also carry out the Government.

Secretary Hodges said after the Premier's statement at yesterday's conference that "the Government's attitude had created a very grave situation," and the utterances of other labor men show that they share this view.

A feature of the addresses made by members of the deputation to Mr. Lloyd George was, according to unofficial reports, a complete absence of bluster or violent language. Their statements were intended to show by reasoned arguments that nationalization of the mines was entirely in the interests of the community, and also that the miners were supported in their demand by the whole body of trade unionists throughout the country. From the quoted statements of promient labor leaders, it is apparent they not only believe nationalization desirable, but are convinced that there will be a constant unrest in the labor world until it is granted. It appears to be their impression that if extreme action is necessary to enforce the demand, it will not be the miners only who will strike, but trade unionists generally.

708,744 REGISTER IN FIRST FIVE DAYS

These Figures Compare with a Total of 648,586 in the Same Period Last Year.

Brooklyn Borough Is Only Exception, Where Wet and Dry Issue Is Involved.

With only one day of registration remaining, returns from the registration of voters last night showed a total for yesterday of 173,605 registrants in the entire city distributed among the boroughs as follows: Manhattan, 58,785; Bronx, 24,647; Brooklyn, 66,560; Queens, 19,322; Richmond, 4,481.

The registration on the fifth day a year ago, when women participated, was for the entire city, 161,013 and for the boroughs: Manhattan, 54,900; Bronx, 22,661; Brooklyn, 61,529; Queens, 18,176, and Richmond, 3,747.

The total registration for the entire city for the first five days this year is 708,764, as compared with 648,586 last year. This indicates that the total registration this year will exceed that of a year ago. Only 305,000 more registrants will be required to bring the total up to last year's figure. Last year 366,000 registered on the final day.

Brooklyn districts maintained their big lead on the fifth day of registration yesterday, and even increased it. The increases by district for the first four days is shown in a table elsewhere in this article.

The following table shows the total registration yesterday by boroughs, together with corresponding figures for the last two years preceding:

Borough Totals.

	Five Days— 1919	1918	Five Days. 1918	1917
Manhattan	253,053	237,425	168,489
Bronx	97,119	87,841	64,519
Brooklyn	271,765	245,886	162,150
Queens	71,163	64,389	40,691
Richmond	15,664	13,056	8,854
Total	708,764	648,586	444,653

Women Still Slow.

Women, generally speaking, continued to hold aloof from the registration places yesterday, although in localities, and most notably in Brooklyn, where the wet and dry issue raised in the fight of Representative Reuben L. Haskell, candidate for County Judge on a wet platform, has aroused the women, there was some improvement in this respect.

Miss Mary G. Kilbreth, President of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, last night issued an appeal to women to register and enroll. It was thought the appeal was issued in the interest of the candidacy of United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., for re-election next year, for attention was called to the efforts made by Miss Mary Garrett Hay, the former suffrage leader, and State Superintendent Anderson of the New York Anti-Saloon League to induce "drys" of all parties to enroll in the Republican party for the purpose of helping defeat Senator Wadsworth in retaliation for his stand on woman suffrage and prohibition in the United States Senate.

This table gives the registration yesterday and for the fifth day last year, together with the total registration for five days in both years, by Assembly Districts:

The last opportunity to register for participation in this year's election and to enroll for the right to vote in the Presidential and State primaries next year will be afforded voters today, when the registration places will remain open from 7 o'clock in the morning until 10:30 at night.

Gov. and Mrs. Smith Register.

Governor Smith and Mrs. Smith registered last night in the public school at the corner of Oliver and Henry Street, opposite the Governor's city residence, in the First Assembly District. The Governor arrived early this evening and after dining with his family at the Biltmore went downtown with Mrs. Smith to qualify as a voter in the coming election.

One of the striking features of the registration this year is the tremendous increase in practically every district in Brooklyn, regardless of its political color, over last year's figures. The situation in Brooklyn is in striking contrast to that in the other boroughs.

Here are the increases in twenty-two out of the twenty-three Assembly districts in Brooklyn, one—the 1st—showing only a nominal increase over last year:

2d. (Dem.)	3,803	15th. (Dem.)	2,096
3d. (Dem.)	2,221	14th. (Close)	2,040
4th. (Dem.)	3,512	15th. (Dem.)	3,049
5th. (Rep.)	3,130	16th. (Close)	3,478
6th. (Dem.)	3,599	17th. (Rep.)	4,142
7th. (Dem.)	2,332	18th. (Close)	3,350
8th. (Dem.)	3,094	19th. (Dem.)	2,236
9th. (Dem.)	3,908	20th. (Dem.)	3,495
10th. (Dem.)	4,048	21st. (Rep.)	4,023
11th. (Close)	4,011	22d. (Dem.)	2,953
12th. (Dem.)	4,041	23d. (Soc.)	2,053

These increases, affecting as they do Brooklyn exclusively, and in that borough all the districts, regardless of what party predominates within, as shown by the table, have given politicians a great deal of anxiety. It is the consensus in political circles in Brooklyn by this time that the lively interest taken in this year's election cannot be due to the fight on John H. McCooey, the Democratic leader, for that was settled, at least for the time being, at the primaries through the defeat of nearly all of the anti-McCooey men.

Leaders have reached the conclusion that the interest in the coming election in Brooklyn will focus on the fight made by Representative Reuben L. Haskell to be elected County Judge on a "wet" platform and that the issue thus raised will cut across party lines in a fashion which will render the political situation in that borough on the eve of the coming election more chaotic than it has been in years.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Night Boat," a musical comedy, with book and lyrics by Anne Caldwell and music by Jerome Kern, will go into rehearsal immediately under the direction of Charles B. Dillingham. The cast will include Frank Craven, Anna Wheaton, Hal Skelly, Louise Groody, Kathlene Martyn, Ada Lewis, Jeanetta Methven, Ernest Torrence, Hansford Wilson, John Scanlon, Elsie Gordon, Elsa Thomas, and Florence Bruce.

"Stand From Under," a prohibition play by William Anthony McGuire, will be produced soon by G. M. Anderson. "Mary Be Careful," by the same author, is also scheduled for production.

Julia Adler has been engaged for "The Faithful," opening at the Garrick next Monday.

Richard Barry's comedy, "Petroleum Prince," will have its first performance in Atlantic City on Monday night under the direction of Marc Klaw. Louis Bennison will head the cast.

"When It Strikes Home," a short play by Howard J. Green and Milton Hocky, will soon be seen in vaudeville.

Aileen Poe has been engaged for "The Magic Melody."

MUSIC

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

Mr. Buhlig's Piano Recital.

Richard Buhlig, a pianist well known to New York and with a wide experience in Europe, made a beginning last evening in Aeolian Hall of an ambitious and comprehensive task that he has set himself. It is to present "as much as possible of the permanently significant in the literature of the piano" in seven recitals. He has wisely attempted no chronological sequence, nor has he undertaken to explore any devious by-ways of the art, but has confined himself to music that is well known to lovers of the instrument; and he has excluded the most modern, that the classics may have a better chance.

It is an exacting undertaking, one that might well task the powers of the greatest and the most versatile. Mr. Buhlig is an extremely serious as well as an ambitious artist, who has pursued the highest ideals unfalteringly, but he has heretofore shown limitations that might make one less filled with determination to hesitate at what looms before him. His program last evening suggested the way in which he approaches the matter. It was devoted half to Bach and half to Chopin, fitting complements; and he made the conjunction still more interesting by playing Bach's music in the shape in which it was written. There were three preludes and fugues from the "Well Tempered Clavichord," a wondrous treasure that pianists are beginning to appreciate will repay exploitation in public as well as in private, and the Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue. His Chopin numbers comprised the F minor ballade, the B flat minor sonata, the F sharp minor polonaise, the C minor nocturne, the C sharp minor scherzo.

Here were two of the most intensely poetical and romantic of musicians. But Mr. Buhlig did not penetrate deeply into the essentially poetical and romantic qualities of their music. His playing of Bach was remarkably clear in its articulation, firm in rhythm, unmistakable in its exposition of the contrapuntal fabric, the architectonic structure; but there was little revelation of the inner fire that burns beneath the formalism. Not even the chromatic fantasy kindled him to eloquence, and there was a certain hardness in it, for Mr. Buhlig's tone in all these pieces was singularly lacking in variety and significance of color, in fullness and richness of nuance.

There was apparently more sympathy, or at any rate a less constrained expression of it, in his playing of Chopin, which had the same technical excellences and linear precision, and something more of the flush and warmth of the music. Eloquent it could not be called, yet that it appealed to his listeners, considerable in numbers, was shown by their abundant applause.

"On the Hiring Line" for Criterion.

"On the Hiring Line," a comedy by Harvey O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, will be presented at the Criterion Theatre on Monday night, Oct. 20, by George C. Tyler. In the cast will be Laura Hope Crews, Cyril Scott, Donald Gallaher, John Blair, Minna Gombel, Josephine Hall, Robert Hudson, Sidney Toler, and Vivian Tobin.

BECOMES A FROHMAN STAR.

Grace George to Appear in Pinero's New Comedy, "Quick Work."

Arrangements were made yesterday whereby Grace George will come under the management of Charles Frohman, Inc., and will be seen in the near future as the star of Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's new comedy, "Quick Work." The addition of Miss George to the ranks of the Frohman stars, it was said, has been made possible by an arrangement with William A. Brady, Miss George's husband, and her manager for many years.

An interesting point in connection with Miss George's becoming a Frohman star is that Mr. Brady is allied with the Shuberts in the booking of his attractions, whereas the Frohman Company is closely affiliated with the Klaw & Erlanger Exchange. Since her marriage to Mr. Brady Miss George has appeared only under his management.

Alf Hayman, general manager of Charles Frohman, Inc., said yesterday that the late Charles Frohman had long been desirous of adding Miss George to his list of stars. The play in which she will be seen, "Quick Work," will go into rehearsal almost immediately, and will be the first Pinero play to be given a New York production in advance of its presentation in London. It will be presented in London in January, with Irene Vanbrugh in the leading rôle.

Miss George will end her engagement in "She Would and She Did" at the Vanderbilt Theatre tonight.

NEWS CHEERS GIRL SCOUTS.

Mrs. Wilson's Bulletin on President's Condition Flashed Over Country.

Girl Scouts throughout the United States are today offering thankful prayers on news that President Wilson has passed the crisis of his illness and is on the road to recovery. An official statement that the President is improving was received in a telegram last night at National Girl Scout Headquarters, 189 Lexington Avenue, from Mrs. Woodrow Wilson at the White House. Mrs. Wilson is Honorary President of the Girl Scouts and takes a keen interest in the organization. Her telegram was sent in response to messages from the Girl Scouts expressing the sympathy of the girls and wishes for his recovery.

The telegram from Mrs. Wilson, directed to Mrs. Arthur O. Choate, Vice President of the Girl Scouts, reads: "Very warm appreciation of your message. Will you not say to the Girl Scouts that both the President and I are deeply touched by their tender concern and the prayers they have offered for his well being. He is gaining a little every day."

Following the receipt of the telegram word was flashed around to all parts of the country to 65,000 Girl Scouts who have been waiting for some direct word assuring them of President Wilson's mending.

Ship Explosion Kills Five.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Five workmen were killed, four were probably fatally injured, and seven other persons were badly burned in an explosion today on the oil tank steamer Chestnut Hill on the Delaware River here. Fourteen of the men were ironworkers and helpers employed in repairing the ship. Two of the injured were members of the crew. All of the dead and most of the injured were residents of this city.

The Sensational Young Russian Pianist records exclusively for

THE DUO-ART PIANO

HIS breadth and sincerity as a composer of the modern school, have won Serge Prokofieff nation-wide praise and renown. In recital last season his massive strength, coupled with his complete mastery of the most intricate technique aroused the greatest enthusiasm.

This very interesting young musician plays in Recital at Aeolian Hall on Sunday afternoon, October 12th. Go and hear Prokofieff. He is different; startling perhaps, but thrilling.

The remarkable pianism of Prokofieff furnishes a splendid example of the endless versatility of the Duo-Art Piano. Of absolutely unlimited scope, this greatest of reproducing pianos is able to play just as Prokofieff plays—just as Paderewski, Hofmann, Bauer, Leginska, Novaes play. Come and hear the Duo-Art Piano. It is the musical marvel of our day.

The Duo-Art is pianoforte, Pianola and Reproducing Piano in one. It is made in Steinway, Steck, Stroud and famous Weber models. Grands and Uprights.

CROSSROADS

ARE you shopping or lunching at mid-town? McBride's offices in Times Square are within a few steps.

Are you arriving at the Pennsylvania Station? There are convenient McBride's offices at the McAlpin and the Waldorf-Astoria.

Perhaps you are bound "way down-town." McBride's oldest office is in the Empire Building at 71 Broadway. Or, if you are near City Hall, you will find McBride's at 165 Broadway.

These offices are placed at cross-roads to provide you courteously and promptly with good theatre tickets at the play you want to see; to approach perfect distribution of an intelligently chosen article.

Swift distribution is one of several reasons for the steady upbuilding of McBride's service over 46 years. That service is covered by the same fee today that it earned in 1873—fifty cents over the box-office price.

REDUCE THE FEDERAL TAXES.

The soundest word yet spoken on the subject of reducing the cost of living is addressed to the country by the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York in a report of its Executive Committee submitted to the Chamber on Thursday. All the commissions on earth, all the inquiries that could be ordered by legislative or executive authority, all the prosecutions of profiteers that the Department of Justice could undertake, would have results quite negligible in comparison with the direct and bold attack upon the problem which the Chamber of Commerce committee recommends.

The enormous and burdensome Federal taxes are incomparably the greatest single element in keeping up high costs. It is an economic and fiscal question and these are the elements to be considered:

> The Secretary of the Treasury estimates that Federal taxes for the year ending June 30, 1920, will be: Internal revenue taxes, $4,940,000,000; customs duties, $260,000,000; total, $5,200,000,000.

Were these taxes to be collected equally from the families of the United States, the average cost of living to each would include $235 for Federal taxes. In 1914 Federal taxes amounted to less than $36.75 a family. In other words, this element threatens to show an increase of more than 539 per cent.

The people of the United States cannot continue to pay $5,000,000,000 in taxes annually without feeling not only the immediate drain upon their resources, but the still greater impost levied upon them at practically every stage in the process of distributing the tax. For the tax is distributed in so far as the individuals and corporations upon which it is levied can pass it on to others. And it is a matter of universal experience that something more than the amount of the tax is "passed on" wherever that is possible. The delusive notion that persons to whom no tax bills are rendered pay no taxes must be got rid of before there can be any clear comprehension of the effect of Federal taxation in increasing the cost of commodities.

The committee of the Chamber of Commerce advocates a reduction of this annual tax of $5,200,000,000 to $2,700,000,000. Inasmuch as the expenses of the Federal Government up to July 1, 1915, less interest on debt, never exceeded $702,000,000, the committee estimates that "$1,500,000,000 "should be ample to cover costs of "Government. Therefore, a liberal "estimate of the annual amount "needed for interest and for ordinary "expenses in the immediate future "would be $2,700,000,000. This as"sumes that the interest on the total "debt of $26,516,509,160 will, for a "time, become a Federal expense and "includes a charge of $1,250,000,000 "for that purpose." The total cost of the war was $21,075,000,000, of which 34 per cent., or more than $7,000,000,000, was raised by taxation. It would not be a wise policy to demand of the people that they pay off the war debt too rapidly. At the present rate of Federal taxation funds urgently needed for the maintenance and extension of the country's industries are taken away, and the inevitable increase in the living costs is continually and everywhere made the basis of demands for higher wages, thus again reducing the fund of capital available for industrial maintenance and improvement.

Congress will not respond to appeals of this nature unless the people make it respond. The Republicans had ready to their hands an issue more powerful than any other in the opportunity that awaited them to demand and enforce a reduction in the expenditures of the Federal Government and in its levies upon the people. It is amazing to see the Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and the Appropriations Committee, to see Senators of the experience of Mr. PENROSE, arguing that expenses must continue undiminished, that taxes must be levied at the present rate indefinitely. "The way to resume is to resume," was the cry a little more than forty years ago when the resumption of specie payment was under discussion. That way was adopted. The way to reduce is to reduce, is a slogan applicable with even greater force to the present problem of Federal costs. If there is a will to reduce in Congress, a way will be found and the executive departments will not be slow to co-operate in the process. The party that insists upon a reduction of taxes and actually reduces them will have something to say to the people in next year's Presidential campaign, and something they will greet with applause and gratitude.

THE COAST-TO-COAST RACE.

Americans may justly take pride in the performances of the army aviators who are flying across the continent in good and bad weather and at tremendous speed. There have been casualties, it is true—five of the fliers have been killed; and on that account there may be criticism of the War Department's enterprise. But aviation cannot be developed without risks. Those who entered it were volunteers, and they understood that there could be no insurance against accident.

Sergeant W. U. NEVITT was fatally injured when the pilot of No. 4, Colonel GERALD BRANT, tried to make a landing near Deposit, N. Y. It was while circling the Buena Vista field at Salt Lake City to make a stop that Major D. U. CRISSEY and Sergeant VIRGIL THOMAS fell with their machine and were almost instantly killed. Blinded by swirling snow, Lieutenant E. V. WALES lost control of his plane and it plunged down into a cliff in Overt Pass, Wyo., and was wrecked. Lieutenant WALES was killed, but his observer escaped with slight injuries. Lieutenant WORTH MCCLURE, passenger in the plane piloted by Lieutenant A. L. SNEAD, was killed in a crash near Buffalo, the pilot escaping. The army can ill afford to lose daring officers, but it must be remembered that the aviators in the transcontinental race are in a sense on active service, in training for the greater risks of war.

Also, it should be considered that fatal accidents occur from time to time at the army air stations in routine flying. When eighty or more airplanes start on coast-to-coast and return flights for a test of speed and stanchness, mishaps and some casualties are to be expected. One plane in this contest caught fire, but the skill of the pilot averted a tragedy, and another plane fell in Lake Erie, the aviators being rescued by a Canadian steamboat. It is to be noted that care has been exercised at the control stations to prevent departures in violent winds, and cautions have been sent out to aviators to avoid making bad landings in rain-sodden fields in the Middle West.

A high degree of skill is being shown by the contestants, but among so many pilots some will fail in judgment, and others will be victims of the shortcomings of mechanics whose business it is to look after the motors and to test stays and supports. The number of planes out of the competition increases every twenty-four hours. Public interest naturally follows the fortunes of Lieutenant B. W. MAYNARD, the former clergyman, winner of the New York-Toronto race, and Captain LOWELL H. SMITH in their close contest for premier honors. Lieutenant MAYNARD has a genius for flying and a captivating faith in his star. He makes a special appeal as the muscular Christian turned soldier and aviator who knows no fear. Captain SMITH has one advantage over him in having crossed the California desert and mountain country, which must always be a stiff obstacle to aviators. But the speed winner may turn up in a yet unheralded flier, for the course is between five and six thousand miles long, and there will be many mischances and many a slip.

REARISEN FRANCE.

France lost 1,500,000 men in the war. Her wounded were 2,800,000. It has been estimated that some 1,700,000 are still "subnormal." There was a high death rate among the civilian population of the invaded districts. The birth rate, already discouragingly low, fell while the war was going on. In spite of the restoration to France of the people of Alsace-Lorraine, the diminution of her population is reckoned at almost 3,000,000. The Germans ruined her industrial establishments in the north and east. Her plants and her railways have been worn to the uttermost. In ten departments her agriculture was practically destroyed. Before the war she grew 33 per cent. more wheat than she required at home. Now she grows 4,000,000 tons less than she needs for domestic consumption; grows, in fact, just about one-half of what she needs.

In 1914 the French debt was 34,000,000,000 francs. On April 30, 1919, it was 180,000,000,000 francs. Deducting advances to her allies, the French debt is now some 175,000,000,000 francs. In 1920 the loans required to stabilize the floating debt will raise the French national debt to 220,000,000,000 francs. The damage-reparation payments to be made by Germany will come only in driblets for some years. France, having bound herself to repair the German damages, will for some time be in the singular position of having to lend Germany the money to repair those damages. Ultimately France will receive a great sum for damages yet to be estimated in their totality, but nobody seems to expect that it will amount to half of what the national debt will be next year. Her trade balance is bad. Her exports are small. Her foreign securities have largely been disposed of, or are Russian, Austro-Hungarian, Turkish, Bulgarian, Mexican, and other securities on which interest payment has stopped. A vastly inflated currency has to be reduced. Labor is restless.

The picture might be painted darker, and yet how foolish it would be to paint a dark picture of resilient, energetic, thrifty, indomitable France! Captain ANDRÉ TARDIEU of the French Peace Commission gives us the true French picture, the portrait of inexhaustible France. Since the armistice in November, 60,000 of 550,000 houses wrecked by shellfire have been rebuilt; nearly two-thirds of the railway mileage destroyed has been repaired; nearly half of the canal mileage made useless by the Germans has been restored; of 1,160 destroyed plants, 588 have been restored. Of the devastated region of 4,500,000 acres, about 1,000,000 acres have been given back to the farmers and 500,000 acres are ready to plant. More than 6,000 miles of barbed wire have been removed. One sees not merely the fruitful activity of experts and the Government in these operations of rehabilitation. One sees the French peasant getting his wood and stone, building up room by room his new house, going to work even more steadily and passionately on the fields that he loves.

In 1913 France collected 5,000,000,000 francs in taxes. In 1919 she will collect 12,000,000,000. Her economic and financial renaissance, her prosperity, is certain. "A country," says Captain TARDIEU, "which has lost "nearly 2,000,000 workers, killed or "incapacitated by war; which has "been deprived by invasion of one"fifth of its productive capital, and "which, nevertheless, of its own ef"forts has accomplished such a "showing, has a right to rely on the "effective help of its allies to restore "completely its economical and finan"cial status." The people of the United States cordially agree with this statement. They will be glad and ready to subscribe to French loans, to establish French credits here. Among the notable recommendations in the remarkably able report of the Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, which investigated the effect of taxation on the high cost of living, two are of interest to France and the other countries to which the United States has made advances. The committee recommends that the Federal Government "consider funding temporarily so much as may seem advisable "of the interest on its loans to its "allies in the Great War." Such funding of interest would be an evident relief to our allies. The second recommendation of the committee is that "interest payments on the "funded obligations received by the "Federal Government in lieu of in"terest on loans to allies be treated "as sinking fund investments for the "payment of our own war debt." Such a policy would be of evident advantage to ourselves.

LAST CHANCE TO REGISTER.

This is the last day of registration. The booths will be open from 7 in the morning till 10:30 at night. Every person entitled and physically able to register should do so today, and the earlier the better. Last year long lines of persons waiting for their chance at the last hour found themselves too late and were shut out.

Nobody who fails to register can vote on Nov. 4. What is more important, nobody who fails to register can be enrolled for the primaries to be held on the first Tuesday in April, when four delegates at large and four alternates to the national conventions will be chosen, and two delegates and two alternates in each Congress district. That is, nobody who has neglected to register can have any part in the naming of the candidate of his party for President. Moreover, unless he has entitled himself to enrollment by registration this week, he can take no part in the Fall primaries and the selection of candidates for State officers. He cannot do his duty to his borough, to the State, to the nation, unless he gets his name on the registration list this week, unless he gets it on today if he has waited until today.

It is a serious mistake for any man or woman entitled to register to seek an excuse for avoiding that duty in the figures which show that the registration total so far in the week exceeds the corresponding total for 1918. Last year the woman voters, enfranchised in 1917, appeared for the first time at the registration places. They registered in creditable numbers, if the novelty of their new rights and duties is taken into account, and they have done well this year; but there was a multitude of them unregistered last year that ought to be registered this. Many of them regard registration and voting not as privileges, rights, duties, so much as burdens forced upon them; but a woman's sense of duty is higher than a man's. Foes or friends of woman suffrage, the women whose names are yet absent from the list should see that they are put there today.

Last year a great body of citizens was absent from New York, engaged in military or naval service, or in some one of the manifold forms of war work. The increase so far shown in the figures of registration will not deceive anybody who doesn't want to be deceived. There should be a very great increase on account of the return of thousands of absentees or war workers too busy to register in 1918 and the natural growth in the population. The registration so far is by no means what it ought to be. It should be greatly enlarged today. Every unregistered person, man or woman, who is not willing to shirk the duties of a good citizen, who doesn't wish to lose a vote in November, to lose a voice in April for the candidate for President, should appear at the registration booth today, and early in the day.

THE LONGSHOREMEN'S STRIKE.

The longshoremen of the Port of New York who are on strike have broken their agreement with the National Adjustment Commission of the Shipping Board to abide by its decision in cases submitted for arbitration, and they have defied their own leaders who in good faith ordered them to remain at work. In 1914 the basic pay of the longshoremen was 33 cents an hour. It had risen to 65 cents an hour when they demanded $1 an hour and $1.50 for overtime. They were working eight hours a day with a half holiday Saturday. The National Adjustment Commission, of which Professor WILLIAM Z. RIPLEY is Chairman, awarded an increase of 5 cents an hour, bringing the wage up to 70 cents, and $1.10 for overtime. In announcing the decision Professor RIPLEY, in a statement made to the International Longshoremen's Association, pointed out that "as wages "have gone up, productiveness has "gone down," with the result that "the direct labor cost of turning a "ship round at Atlantic ports is at "least three times what it was in "1914," a condition, he said, that "was absolutely ruinous" and if not corrected would make the creation of a great American merchant marine impossible. The commission, he promised, would consider "a material "improvement in the performance of "the men as a warrant for an in"crease of pay," in addition to that awarded.

It was from a conviction of the soundness of President WILSON'S policy of a truce between capital and labor until "we have an opportunity "for certain calculations as to the "relation between wages and the cost "of living" that the National Adjustment Commission declined to award the increases demanded by the International Longshoremen's Association, and the utmost concession that could be made, following the example of the Government Railroad Administration in a similar case, was the increase allowed. Professor RIPLEY'S appeal for "a faithful observance of "your agreement to abide by the de"cision of this commission" was disregarded, but what was to be expected of men who, as it turned out, were bent on defying their own leaders and running the union to suit the most radical among them?

It seemed as if the commission's purpose "to do constructive work "and to uphold constructive leader"ship of labor" had failed when thousands of the men quit their work and left goods to pile up on the piers and perishable freight to rot, but the action of the strikers was destructive of the interests of their organization. No strike beginning with an indefensible repudiation of the principle on which collective bargaining is based and with open rebellion against responsible leadership can succeed in the end.

FRIENDS OF THE TURK.

Diplomats as a class are a hard-working, well-intentioned lot, who deserve few of the harsh words which the forward-looking have said about them in the last few years. But there is a certain type of hide-bound diplomat to whom the means seem infinitely more important than the end, the game than the stakes. And unfortunately some of these men who regard diplomacy as a sport, or who are still thinking in the period when one nation's prosperity was held to imply the necessary misfortune of another, are still in positions where they can do a great deal of harm. The activities of the Italian Foreign Office in stirring up the trouble over Fiume furnish perhaps the most distinguished of recent examples; but British diplomacy has done a good deal of harm in the Near East in recent months, and some of the men in the French Foreign Office, if the Paris Temps is still to be regarded as reflecting their views, are now providing an excuse for the hard words which have been cast at the whole profession.

The Temps, in discussing the recent Cabinet changes in Turkey, declares that French wishes and French interests demand a Turkish Empire from Adrianople to the Persian frontier, which shall apparently be the same old Turkish Empire of before the war except for the loss of Mesopotamia, Palestine, Arabia, and Syria. The Turk, that is to say, is to be kept in Europe; he is still to have his way with the Greeks of Thrace and the Aegean littoral, and with what is left of the Armenians. The Sultan must still be Caliph, and Caliph in Constantinople. "International organi"izations which have done so much "for Turkey in the past," understood as a euphemism for groups of investors in Turkish bonds, among whom French influence was predominant, must be strengthened.

It would appear from all this that certain French diplomats are disturbed, perhaps not without good reason, over the extent to which their British rivals have extended British influence in Turkey. Britain will in some form or other have control of Mesopotamia, perhaps of Palestine; the new kingdom of the Hedjaz is under British influence; the treaty with Persia does guarantee that Persia will be removed from the danger of German, Turkish, or Bolshevist intrigue, but on the surface it is much to the advantage of Britain; against all this France has nothing to show but the somewhat uncertain prospect of a mandate for Syria. No wonder that the gentlemen in charge of the Near Eastern bureau of the French Foreign Office are eager to think up some method of restoring the balance. They must do something to save their reputations, and what they undoubtedly regard as the legitimate interests of their country in the Near East, which happen to be bound up with their reputations.

France and England both have legitimate interests in Turkey; Frenchmen who bought Turkish bonds before the war deserve consideration. But the Greeks and Armenians and other Christians living under Turkish rule also deserve a little consideration. The Turk must be put out of Europe; he must be confined within boundaries where as few Christians as possible are left under his sovereignty. The world at large, including the voters who in all the principal allied countries have, in one form or another, a very considerable control over foreign policy, is likely to think that the interests of these peoples are even more weighty than those of diplomats who still regard statecraft as a game, and consider peoples who are in the way as of small consequence. Our amateur diplomats have made some grievous blunders, but from this particular failing they have so far been immune.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Preparing to Save Tobacco.

Whether or not users of tobacco the country over have heard with alarm the reports about a coming campaign by the W. C. T. U. for the imposition on it of a constitutional prohibition, there seems to be no doubt that the growers, manufacturers, and dealers in it have been seriously alarmed and that they are organizing for defensive action. If they can help it, they will not suffer the cruel fate of the purveyors of alcoholic beverages, and they think one way to help it is by taking action betimes.

Probably it is, but the people for whom tobacco is a means of making money, not a gentle joy and a soother of strained nerves, will remain, if they are wise or well advised, from making themselves too prominent in the "movement" they hope to start. It will be better for them if they trust more to the fact that against tobacco would-be prohibitionists have a case not a hundredth part as good as they had against alcohol. Indeed, while the possibility of injury from the excessive use of tobacco doubtless exists, there is the same possibility with regard to a thousand other things that nobody dreams—as yet—of abolishing, and the assumption is fairly safe that the general population will take care that intemperance and fanaticism do not imperil a blessing that has innumerable appreciators and only a handful of depreciators.

To call tobacco a "demon" would be such an obvious and wild exaggeration of its real demerits that those who did it simply would be laughed at. That was not true when the same name was applied to alcohol, for nobody could deny that it had demoniac qualities, as well as others, and that they manifested themselves in action not infrequently.

At its worst tobacco does not "sharpen the parricidal axe" or start the orphan's tear. But it is safest when least is said and done about it, and its mercenary friends, as distinguished from the vastly greater number with no pecuniary interest in it, will only excite needless antagonism if they make themselves too prominent and too audible.

He Has Come to Hate Photographers.

It is amusing, and perhaps even a little pathetic, also, that the sometime Kaiser, who in other days joyfully posed before the camera at least once every day, and by his own imperial will was probably the most photographed man in the world, now has a hysterical fear of having his picture taken.

The reason for the change is not mysterious. It is, of course, that the stern War Lord, with a face that for those who did not study it carefully was more or less like an eagle's, is now old and gray and broken. That would not prevent him from continuing to distribute his pictures if the change had come in the ordinary course of nature, and would be observed with friendly and sympathetic eyes. What troubles him is that he knows that now few of the eyes would be friendly—that unnumbered millions would be grimly glad to see what hurrying time had done for the great man and would read his punishment in the alteration of his features.

The most persistent of exhibitionists is no longer on exhibition, and he seeks only seclusion from a derisive and hostile world.

An Accounting Not Asked but Rendered.

Congressman ROGENBERG and the other statesmen who were so much worried about the presents received by President WILSON from foreign potentates now have companions in the misery that comes to those who are sorry they spoke. For, just as the facts in relation to those presents, when told, brought confusion on everybody who had expected or hoped to prove a violation by the President of constitutional bans, so another group similarly expectant or hopeful have been disappointed in their effort to prove something dreadfully wrong in the assignment by the President from the appropriation for national security and defense of $150,000 to be used in paying the expenses of the commission in Paris headed by BERNARD M. BARUCH.

There was a lot of talk about that assignment in and around the Capitol building when the fact that it had been made first came out, but nobody ventured, as in the matter of the presents, to make a formal demand for information as to how and for what the $150,000 was spent. That showed that the talkers were cautious, if not wise, but their professed desire for knowledge has moved Mr. BARUCH to have prepared a very full accounting of the money intrusted to him, and this statement Senator THOMAS has caused to be printed in the Congressional Record. It appears in the issue of Oct. 1 and it makes interesting reading—reading that must be particularly interesting to the critics of the Administration.

Instead of a waste or misdirection of public funds which they seem to have suspected, the accounting rendered demonstrated that the Government not only got full worth for all of its money that was spent, but also got the worth of a lot of other people's money that was spent for it.

They Didn't Spend All Their Money!

One revelation made in the report on the disposition made of the fund intrusted to Mr. BARUCH is nothing less than amazing—amazing, that is, when contrasted with the usual, the next to invariable, fate of such appropriations. For it seems that of the $150,000 allotted to the group of financial and commercial experts who worked at the Peace Conference, only $24,128.64 was spent for any purpose, and that the remainder, reduced to the extent of $161.13 lost in exchanging francs for dollars, was turned back on Aug. 27, 1919, to the State Department.

Political history contains so few parallels for such action that experienced handlers of similar funds are likely to frown at what Mr. BARUCH did and to view him as one who violated a fundamental rule of the game he entered. However, the innocent taxpayer who hears of the incident will be almost as much pleased as astonished, so he needn't mind.

There are a good many other things in the report, too, that are calculated to give joy to the taxpayer. A great deal of the commission's work, for instance, was done by men who took nothing whatever, or $1 a year, for their services and paid all of their own expenses—in that number was the head of the commission—and many necessary expenditures for which for one or another reason Government money was not immediately available were met by the advancing of the sums needed from private pockets. These advances amounted in all to many thousand dollars. Some of the money has been repaid, but most of it hasn't, and the chances that all of it ever will be do not seem to be many.

Thus is all curiosity as to the $150,000 assigned to Mr. BARUCH gratified; at any rate, it is for all who read the Congressional Record, as all good citizens do, of course; and the very possibility of uncovering a scandal goes glimmering.

Mr. Untermyer's Qualifications.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In accepting the Chairmanship of the committee which is managing Irwin Untermyer's campaign for the Supreme Court bench I was moved chiefly by one consideration—his fitness for that important office. My interest in him and the interest of many of my fellow-lawyers in his legal activities, as I have recently found out, was first aroused by a commendatory editorial in THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The editorial in question, printed about ten or eleven years ago, as nearly as I can recall, praised Samuel Untermyer for the fine sense of civic obligation which prompted him to accept an assignment to defend a penniless Italian woman who was charged with murder in the first degree. Mr. Untermyer not only obtained the woman's acquittal and vindication, but gave her the fee allowed him by the State. Irwin Untermyer, then making his first appearance in the legal world, was associate counsel in the case. Commenting on his part of the performance, the editorial said in substance: "If it is really so that Irwin Untermyer prepared the case, he promises to become as great a lawyer as his father." Not long after I learned from an authoritative source that Irwin Untermyer was solely responsible for the preparation of the case.

Mr. Untermyer has been one of the most tireless of workers since the day he took up the practice of law. The fine record which warranted his nomination has been achieved in spite of the admitted handicap of his father's great reputation. He is a man of mature legal experience, his activities having taken him from the lower courts to the highest courts in the land, the tribunals in which only the most complex questions are passed upon.

He is in the full flush of vigorous manhood, with the mental and physical capacity to give the people uninterrupted service. It is because of my personal knowledge that he possesses all these qualifications that I am advocating his election to the Supreme Court bench.

Bonds of the Irish Republic.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The projected sale in this country of large numbers of bonds of the so-called "Irish Republic," threatening as it does to absorb much of the hard-earned savings of thousands of innocent maid servants, ought to be subjected to a pitiless publicity by the reputable newspapers of the country. These girls are, as a rule, a hard-working and impressionable class, whose sympathies are easily awakened by any appeal which claims to be on behalf of their beloved Erin, regardless of whether such claims have any basis of truth to support them.

Of course, any money invested in these so-called "bonds" will be simply thrown away.

J. D. ALEXANDER.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7, 1919.

A LETTER IN AUTUMN.

I wish that I could show you how the moors look in October,
With flaming bands of sumac and a crown of golden-rod.
The dune-grass bends to Autumn and the purple asters robe her,
The gray sage spreads a silver path across the sunburnt sod.
If we could start at dawning I would guide your feet to places
Where reeds have tried to hide the marsh-pond's mirror from the sky,
And slender blue sabbatia finds a refuge from embraces
Of the vagrant, rough salt ocean wind that nightly blusters by.
And you could pick marsh-rosemary, the heather's cousin shrub,
And wreathe its clustered rosiness with dark green, fragrant bay,
Or search out sunny blossoms under sheltering cedar scrub
And just before the daylight grew
Through gray and rose and gold to blue,
We'd come upon a glistening hill,
And stand quite close and very still—
For not one sound of all mankind would mar our worship there,
And all the brown horizon hills would have the sea for rim,
Till we would utter wordlessly the things we longed to share,
And far away the thundering surf

EDNA MEAD.

URGE FREE ZONES IN PORTS.

Congress Committees Hear Pleas by Business Men.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Legislation to permit the creation of "free zones" at ports of entry was considered today at hearings before the Ways and Means Committee of the House and the Committee on Commerce of the Senate.

While the Ways and Means Committee gave its time principally to the statements of experts, the Committee on Commerce heard business men, bankers, importers, and men qualified to speak for the shipping industry.

The speakers before the Commerce Committee were delegates from commercial organizations of the principal ports of the United States. Many of them were heard today and the rest will be heard at tomorrow's session.

New York's plea for a free zone was presented by members of the Joint Harbor Commission of New York and New Jersey, that commission being unanimously in favor of creating free zones not only in New York but in New Jersey.

Murray Hulbert, Dock Commissioner of New York City, as well as R. S. Guildford of the International Mercantile Marine Association emphasized the importance of free zones in building up the shipping industry.

Briefly, the plan authorizes the Secretary of Commerce to grant permits to public corporations to establish free zones in ports, to which ships in international trade may resort without the necessity of paying duties on products not intended to enter into commerce in this country, but to be trans-shipped to other countries either before or after they are subjected to manufacturing processes.

Members of the House Committee on Ways and Means have shown hostility to the plan almost from the first.

Representative Fordney, Chairman, declared his opposition, stating that free zones would discriminate against concerns doing business in the interior of the United States.

WARNS OF RADICAL INFLUX.

Albert Johnson Urges Action to Bar Germans and Austrians.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Hordes of radicals and fully 10,000,000 Germans and Austrians are waiting only for the declaration of peace to rush to this country, Representative Albert Johnson today told the House Immigration Committee, assuring it that his authority for the statement were officials of the State Department.

The committee now is considering the reporting of a bill to prohibit general immigration for two years. It was brought out by Mr. Johnson that it would not be possible to enact such sweeping legislation at this session. Unless some restriction was placed on immigration without delay, he said, the influx would occur before the immigration laws could be revised.

He said that Secretary Lansing favored the continuation of wartime regulations on passports for another year. If this is done, in the opinion of Mr. Johnson, undesirables will be kept out until such time as the immigration laws can be revised.

Mr. Johnson read excerpts of a letter sent him by the State Department to back up his argument.

"An official estimate of those desiring to emigrate from Germany places the number at 10,000,000," he said. "Most of these desire to come to the United States or South American countries, preferably Argentina, Chile, and Peru. Official advices describe the situation in Austria as being worse than in Germany."

FIFTH AVENUE PLAN FAILS.

Board of Estimate Refuses to Lower Building Height to 75 Feet.

The Board of Estimate yesterday killed the proposed plan to restrict the height of buildings on Fifth Avenue, between Sixtieth and 110th Streets, to seventy-five feet. The building zone law now provides that the height of buildings in that zone may be 150 feet. The proposition of the petitioners was to amend the law so that it would preclude the building of apartment houses and keep the avenue a private residential thoroughfare. The proposition also included the side streets 100 feet east of the avenue.

The board held a public hearing on the proposition two weeks ago and it was then suggested by Controller Charles L. Craig that the board deny the petition. As President Dowling was ill at the time the matter was put over for two weeks. When it came up yesterday Acting President M. F. Loughman of Manhattan moved that it was the sense of the board that existing conditions continue, and the motion was adopted without debate.

Opposition by President Calvin D. Van Name to a resolution referring a communication from the Foundation Oven Company, submitting plans for the disposal of the city's garbage, to the Committee on Finance and Budget and the Street Cleaning Commissioner brought out the assertion of the Richmond Borough President that the Mayor was being imposed upon.

"No, Mr. Borough President of Richmond," replied the Mayor. "Very few persons impose on me very long and get away with it."

The remark caused general laughter, in which the Richmond Borough President joined. The plan proposed by the company involves the use of the Breton process, controlled by the company, by the use of which, it is asserted, a garbage plant can be erected in a residential district and operated without offense.

At a meeting yesterday of the General Welfare Committee of the Board of Aldermen it was decided to report favorably on the resolution, introduced by President Moran, amending the Ordinance Code to provide for a daylight-saving law for the city. The proposed ordinance provides that the clocks in the city shall be turned one hour ahead on the last Sunday in March and turned back on the last Sunday in September. The full board will act upon the matter next Tuesday.

HAD UNTAXED WHISKY.

Police Arrest Two Men Carrying 42 Quarts of Liquor.

Charged with violating the Federal statute by having whisky without a war-tax label in their possession, two men who said they were Nicholas McManus, 27 years old, of 125 West 33rd Street, a bartender, recently discharged from the Army, and John Riesan, 26 years old, of 260 West 37th Street, recently discharged from the Navy, were arrested early yesterday morning by Detective McCoy of the Second Deputy Police Commissioner's Staff and Detectives O'Hara and McCartney, of the Bomb Squad.

The men were arrested at 34th Street and Seventh Avenue, McManus having, according to the police, two valises, each containing fourteen quarts of whisky, and Riesan, one valise containing fourteen quarts of whisky. The men said they were hired by strangers to carry the valises to the Pennsylvania Station, where they were each to receive $7 for the work. When the police saw the men, they thought they had discovered a clue which might lead to the finding of anarchistic stores.

The police accompanied McManus and Riesan to the Pennsylvania Station in the hope of locating the two men the valise bearers said they were to meet, but, according to the detectives, the latter failed to appear.

ALBERT ENDS TRIP AT SACRAMENTO

King and Prince Ride in Engine Cab and on Top of Car.

Royal Pair to Spend Three Days at Santa Barbara—King Decorates Engineer.

ON BOARD KING ALBERT'S SPECIAL TRAIN, SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 10, (Associated Press.)—King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and Crown Prince Leopold completed the transcontinental trip here this evening. Tomorrow morning they will be in Santa Barbara, where they will spend three days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover before returning to San Francisco. The change of the route from Oakland was made to permit arrival at Santa Barbara at the scheduled hour Saturday.

At Truckee, Albert and his son climbed aboard the first of the two engines which dragged the train up the heavy grades and remained there until American Canyon was reached. They waved their handkerchiefs to the Queen sitting on the observation platform as the train crawled like a huge snake up and through the mountains. They ate their luncheon in the cab with the railroad men and enjoyed it hugely.

Not content with the view from the cab, they climbed to the top of a baggage car five miles east of Blue Canyon, and rode there for miles, Leopold clinging to his father's hand to keep from falling off. They climbed down from the engine at American Canyon, wiping their grimy hands on oil-soaked waste but paid no attention to the black streaks on their faces.

"It was a fine ride," exclaimed the Prince, as he risked his neck on the top of a 2,000-foot descent to get better snapshots of a mining camp on the side of the mountain, across the canyon.

"It is such a wonderful country," exclaimed the Queen. The railroad men with whom the King rode almost missed getting the decorations he has bestowed on others along the way, for George Pletnick, Secretary to the King's Secretary, to whom had been entrusted the keys to the strongbox, in his haste to file a telegram at Ogden, last night, left them lying in the telegraph office. He did not think of them again until His Majesty called for decorations. He was somewhat aghast at his plight, but the trunk was broken open and the decorations handed to the King.

Crowds gathered at stations wherever trains were made today. The first was at Sparks, Nev., when engines had been changed, and the conductor had shouted the time honored "All aboard," it was found that the King was missing. He had tramped on ahead, and the exhilarating air had sent him farther than he intended to go.

The Queen was the centre of attraction at Reno. She was standing on the observation platform with her son when one of the natives approached and called, "Is that your baby, ma'am?"

"No," laughingly responded Her Majesty, "we have three."

"Ah, that makes a fine family," was the native's rejoinder. "You have a fine husband, too. We are proud of him out here."

Queen Elizabeth graciously bowed her thanks.

"Hey, stand over closer to your wife," and His Majesty obeyed.

At Roseville, the engineer in charge of the train while the King was riding in the engine, today was decorated with the order of Leopold II. It was the home town of C. E. Ingram, the engineman, and the medal was pinned on his breast on the rear platform of the King's private car where all his friends and neighbors could see the ceremony.

King Albert has been deeply impressed with America's educational system and attributes the ability of American soldiers to absorb military knowledge in a short time to the compulsory schooling they receive.

The King gave today in the first interview he has granted in the United States some of the impressions he has absorbed since he came to America. He said the day he landed that one of the purposes of his coming was to obtain ideas and lessons applicable to Belgium. Something was said of American troops and his Majesty, himself a soldier of brilliant attainments, immediately became enthusiastic.

"Your armies were wonderful," he said. "Even your own people did not think, did they, that you could send over two million men in a year? And such fine soldiers they were; they seemed to be born fighting men. I do not know how to say it in English, but there seems to be something in your soil which grows such men. They went 3,000 miles to fight for an ideal and wherever I saw one of them he knew what he was fighting for. It was a tribute to your educational system that they were all so intelligent and that they could be trained in so short a time."

Pointing to a schoolhouse in a village his train was passing he said:

"See, the schools are the largest buildings and it is so all over your country. Every one here is educated. Not only have you lower schools and high schools and colleges, but institutions for research where young men can get splendid training. They are the peak, the summit."

Conversing with King Albert, it is difficult to realize he is a monarch. When there are no receptions to attend, he dresses in blue civilian clothes with an army shirt and a soft four-in-hand tie of the same material. He bears himself with dignity, but in it is nothing of the reserve that is usually associated with royalty.

"Have you been annoyed or amused by the persistency of newspaper men along the way?" he was asked.

"A public man must expect that and why should he be annoyed?" he replied. "It is not amusing, for your journalists are doing only what they should do. Your press did a noble work in uniting your people for war and did it not so very much to solidify sentiment so your country could come into the war with nothing to gain for itself?"

PREPARE AGAINST EPIDEMIC.

Charity Organization Studies Ways of Combating Influenza.

Plans for a possible influenza epidemic this Fall were laid at a meeting of officials of the Charity Organization Society yesterday. The obstacles encountered by the society in combating last year's epidemic will be profited by in taking precautions for a recurrence of the disease.

One of the chief difficulties met last year was the crippling of the staff of visiting nurses through cases of influenza contracted by its members. Several plans were discussed for meeting this situation in advance, one of which was that of recruiting at once a reserve of volunteers for

COLGATE CENTENARY BRINGS BACK ALUMNI

TRIBUTE TO SOLDIER DEAD

The Rev. Dr. Fosdick Pleads for World Peace as Their Noblest Memorial.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Colgate University's centennial celebration was officially opened in the college chapel this morning by Sidney M. Colgate, President of the Board of Trustees.

"Colgate today is a prophecy come true," he said. "It was a full century ago when the founders of Colgate with religious fervor praised God for His blessings and prophesied that under His guidance the college would spread her light to every corner of the earth."

President Elmer Burritt Bryan in his address said:

"The one thing for which Colgate rejoices as she starts on a new century is that her sons are lending their full support of loving loyalty to the end that Colgate will grow. The very fact that there are over 50 per cent. of Colgate's living alumni on the campus, and the fact that cablegrams have been received from every part of the world, and the fact that men themselves are here from countries on the other side of the globe, to say nothing of men who have come from every State in the Union, proves that Colgate has a century before her which will be one of progress and growth."

With a fleet of army airplanes under the command of Major M. K. Brewster of Syracuse, circling overhead, the formal alumni exercises were held this afternoon. Major Brewster and his passenger, A. J. Scilied, who carried a parchment message from the alumni of Syracuse and vicinity, to President Bryan, narrowly escaped death when the airplane made a faulty landing. Mr. Schied was cut in the face, and the propeller of the airplane was smashed.

George W. Cobb, '94, of New York, President of the General Alumni Association, presided at the afternoon meeting and spoke briefly concerning the part each alumnus must play in the welfare of his Alma Mater.

William H. Crawshaw '87, Dean of the University, and for many years its acting President, read the Centennial Ode, which concluded with these lines:

O Mother, we who are about to die
Salute thee, while with hearts uplifted high
Above the mortal mists of doubts and fears
We bid them hail who shall behold thy face,
More beautiful when thou hast run thy race
Another hundred years.

William Mangam Lawrence, a lecturer of the university, who has known Colgate for half a century, delivered a historical address in which he said that the Colgate family in all had made contributions to the university of nearly $4,000,000. "I mention these facts," he said, "not with a view of parading the gifts of any one family, but of emphasizing the great opportunity that comes to us as alumni in the consecrated example in these references."

The memorial address was delivered by the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, '00, of New York. Mr. Fosdick first read the names of the twenty-three Colgate men who laid down their lives in the great war, and called attention to the fact that one-third of Colgate's living alumni—1,000 in number—were the American uniform in the war; that 600 of these went overseas, 70 per cent. with commissions, and that twelve were decorated for distinguished service and bravery in action.

"These men who made the ultimate sacrifice that victory might come," said Mr. Fosdick, "would not care that we should speak much of them today; but if through them and their sacrifices some great truths have come home to us who still live on, they would be glad to have us speak of those.

"First, we have learned from the sacrifices of this war to feel for America a new love and to estimate more highly her greatness and her possible ministry to all the people of the world. Some things we never properly value until we nearly lose them, and we might have lost America.

"Second, we have learned from the sacrifice of these men what marvelous capacities for nobleness there are latent in human nature. These men before the war were engaged in peaceful occupation, and suddenly this catastrophe broke upon them, who never before had dreamed of going to war. And lo, latent within them nugnacity was waiting like a sleeping lion.

"Third, these men, through their sacrifice, have revealed to us the unspeakable barbarity of war as a means of setting international difficulties. Said one of the bravest ones who fought in France: 'Europe is a maligned middle term between a lunatic asylum and a butcher's stall.'

"The finest memorial which we can build to these fallen men is a world from which shall be driven out the necessity for such human hell as they went through."

In the evening the alumni banquet was held, with James C. Colgate, '84, of New York, as toastmaster. Many prominent graduates, including Mr. Colgate, spoke.

At the banquet tonight the 1,500 alumni present unanimously adopted a plan to form a Colgate University Alumni Corporation. Classes as far back as 1850 were heard from, and every class up to 1919 pledged for each alumnus a minimum contribution of $10 each year, starting with the present fiscal year.

The corporation is intended to relieve the Colgate family of responsibility for the support of the institution. The amount actually subscribed was nearly $20,000 a year, and because only about half of each class on the average was present it is confidently expected that much more than that sum will be paid into the treasurer's hands. This is about the amount of the deficit, which the Colgates have been making up each year.

HARVARD FUND $5,683,060.

Woman's Committee Has Collected $115,000 Up to Date.

The Harvard Endowment Fund Committee announced last night that the total contributions now received amount to $5,683,060. About nine and a half million dollars yet remain to be collected by Nov. 1, the closing date of the drive to raise $15,250,000. Boston cut down New York's lead yesterday to less than $100,000, the figures for the two cities now standing at $2,250,000 against $2,153,000. The total for the rest of the country is $1,280,000.

The Women's Committee of the fund, organized last Tuesday under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Bacon, reached a total last night of $115,000 as a gift from the sisters, wives, and mothers of the Harvard graduates living in New York. Among the large contributions received yesterday are $25,000 from Robert F. Herrick, and $25,000 from two Boston men, W. C. Forbes and Augustus Hemenway.

CORNELL FUND CONFERENCE

Prominent Alumni Gather at Ithaca for Semi-Centennial.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Prominent Cornell alumni from all parts of the country today began to arrive here for the semi-centennial $5,000,000 endowment fund conference, which will open tomorrow.

The alumni will hear a convocation address at noon by Thomas W. Lamont, American financial adviser at the Peace Conference, who will also speak at a dinner to be given by President Jacob Gould Schurman and trustees of the university in the evening. Other speakers at the dinner include: Judge Frank B. Hiscock '75, of Syracuse, Representative Daniel A. Reed of Dunkirk, and J. Durrett White, alternate chairman of the endowment campaign.

MISS HYLAN'S BRIDAL PARTY

Attendants for Marriage of Mayor's Daughter to John F. Sinnott Oct. 29.

Plans have been completed for the wedding of Miss Virginia C. Hylan, daughter of the Mayor and Mrs. Hylan, and John Francis Sinnott, Secretary to the Mayor, which is to take place on Oct. 29, in the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel in Brooklyn.

Miss Kathryn Monahan will be Miss Hylan's maid of honor, and young Miss Rita Epping of Rockville Centre, L. I., is to be the flower girl. Frank Sinnott will act as best man for his brother. The ushers will be Grover A. Whalen, Frank Coyle, Harry Crofton, and Augustus Walsh.

The bride-elect has been entertained frequently in view of her approaching marriage. Miss Claire Sheehan is to be the hostess at a dance in her honor tonight at the Race Brook Country Club at New Haven, Conn., and on Oct. 18 Miss Marie Piggott and Miss Claire Gillespie will entertain with a luncheon for her at Shanley's to be followed by a theatre party.

Miss Prince to Wed Rev. K. D. Miller

Mrs. George Seelye Prince of Yonkers, announces the engagemnt of her daughter, Miss Ethel Anderson Prince, to the Rev. Kenneth Dexter Miller of this city. Miss Prince's father, the late G. S. Prince, was a former Treasurer of the New York Central Lines. She was graduated from Vassar in 1915 and for some time has been Secretary to one of the New York State Commissions.

Mr. Miller is a son of Mrs. Charles Dexter Miller of 829 Madison Avenue, and was graduated from Princeton in 1908, and from the Union Theological Seminary in 1912. He recently returned from two years' service in Russia and Siberia with the Czechoslovak Army as Senior Secretary of the American Y. M. C. A.

Bowdoin-Ligon Wedding Oct. 29.

George Temple Bowdoin of 104 East Thirty-seventh Street, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Temple Bowdoin, and Miss Emily Castleton Ligon, a daughter of General R. F. Ligon and Mrs. Ligon of Montgomery, Ala., are to be married in the latter city on Oct. 29. Mr. Bowdoin is a grandson of the late George S. Bowdoin, who was one of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. for years, and of Mrs. Julia Irving Grinnell Bowdoin. He was in college when the United States declared war, but left his studies and enlisted in the air service. He became a Lieutenant, and served until after the signing of the armistice. He is with the Bankers Trust Company, and will bring his bride to this city to live.

Chas. M. Keyser's Golden Wedding.

Charles M. Keyser of the United States Customs Service, and Mrs. Keyser, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Oct. 14, at the home of their daughter in East Orange, N. J. Mr. Keyser entered the customs service in this city on March 26, 1876, when 39 years old, and has continued this service up to the present day. He is 83 years old. During his forty-three years of service he has been late for duty only twice. His wife was formerly Miss Ellen Louisa Ackerman of this city.

MERCIER CHEERED BY 25,000 CHILDREN

Cardinal Acclaimed at Lewisohn Stadium for Efforts to Protect Belgium's Youth.

PRAISE BY BAR AND CLERGY

Followers of Many Creeds Unite in Honoring Primate at Club Luncheon.

Cardinal Mercier was acclaimed here yesterday as the "spiritual hero of the war" by three of the keystone professions of a civilized country—the clergy, the lawyers, and the educators. In receiving the tribute of the city's Board of Education in the Lewisohn Stadium at City College he was cheered by more than 25,000 school children for his attempts to protect the children of Belgium from the inhumanity of the German Army.

The Cardinal began his day of public receptions at noon yesterday when he left the residence of Archbishop Hayes to attend the luncheon of the Clergy Club at the Hotel Commodore. There he sat at table with clergymen of all denominations and was praised by men representing many other creeds and religions. Four hundred clergymen were at the luncheon and they cheered when the Cardinal spoke of his work on behalf of Belgium and of his gratitude for the assistance of America.

Ten thousand children took part in the exercises in the Lewisohn Stadium, where symbolic tributes were paid to the Primate of Belgium and to the heroism of the Belgians in staying the advance of the Germans. Fifteen thousand other children waving the national banners of Belgium and of the United States sat in the stone seats of the Greek Stadium, loudly applauding and cheering every event on the program.

In the evening Cardinal Mercier was the guest of the Bar Association at a dinner at the University Club and at a reception at the Bar Association Building in West Forty-fourth Street. He was praised by speakers at these functions as a man who had stood firm against a ruthless foe and had upheld the foundations upon which civilized and merciful peoples had laid their fundamental laws and their administration of justice.

Cardinal Mercier was introduced at the Clergy Club luncheon by Dr. Henry van Dyke, who said that America honored the visitor and "showered love and gratitude upon him because he is an exponent of Christian manhood and character." Speaking of the inhuman conduct of the German Army in Belgium, Dr. van Dyke declared that "they are trying to make mankind good by legislation, but they can't do it."

In his speech the Cardinal told of his impressions of America and especially those when honors were given to him by Columbia and Princeton Universities. He said he believed that Americans were bound together by a bond of sympathy regardless of various creeds and religions, and declared that from the beginning he had believed implicity that the German cause was doomed by Providence to defeat.

Addressing the Cardinal, the Rev. Dr. Frank Mason North, President of the Federated Council of Churches in America, said:

"You are admired by all because you stand for courage, justice, righteousness, and mercy. You stand for the spiritual basis in this world and the foundation of the spiritual world which is to come."

Mayor Hylan and Anning S. Prall, President of the Board of Education, preceded the Cardinal's party to the Lewisohn Stadium and waited for him on the platform in the centre of the field. After the program of dances and exercises had been completed Cardinal Mercier said a few words, and the silence of the night fell upon the vast audience of children as the Cardinal rose to speak. They remained silent throughout his short address, and then burst into wild cheering when he concluded by saying that he had been delegated to bring them the greetings of the children of Belgium.

MERCIER THANKS AMERICA.

Primate Grateful for Movement to Rebuild Louvain University Library.

His Eminence Cardinal Mercier, Primate of Belgium, yesterday expressed his gratitude at the national movement to build and equip a $500,000 library at the University of Louvain, in a statement addressed to the American people. Cardinal Mercier's statement follows:

"I was deeply gratified when I heard that the National Committee of Restoration of the University of Louvain had started a public subscription to raise funds for the reconstruction of my beloved library, burned to the ground, together with all the treasures it contained, by the German Army.

"As I have often said in public, the annihilation of the Louvain Library and the utter exhaustion of the university's funds, leaving it face to face an almost hopeless situation, is perhaps my greatest sorrow any my greatest anxiety; from this, all those who will hold out a helping hand to me will readily guess how heartily thankful I will be to them.

"I wish to add that I emphatically consider Louvain University to be the strongest bulwark of social order and Christianity in Belgium; that its revival is essential to the moral reconstruction of my dear country.

"The reconstruction of Louvain University and its library will be a very monument to the generosity of the American people, and their lively interest in scientific progress."

The movement to erect the Louvain Library by popular subscription as the free gift of the American people to the people of Belgium is in the hands of the National Committee of the United States for the Restoration of the University of Louvain. The Executive Committee, which has direct charge of the movement, is composed of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, Chairman; Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Alexander J. Hemphill, Guaranty Trust Company; E. H. Outerbridge, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, and Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress.

HERRON, WHITE, GRAHAM AND GREENWAY ARE SEMI-FINALISTS IN PIPING ROCK GOLF

Champion Shows Characteristic Brand of Play in Two Piping Rock Matches.

WHITE AND GRAHAM WIN

One or the Other Likely to Meet Pittsburgher for Final Honors Today—Greenway a Victor.

There is a heavy burden today resting on the shoulders of a pair of young metropolitan golfers, Gardner W. White of Nassau and Sam J. Graham of Greenwich. One or the other this afternoon is likely to find himself matched against the great and renowned S. Davidson Herron of Pittsburgh, linksman extraordinary and champion of all America's amateurs, and on his shoulders will be carried the responsibility of demonstrating whether golfers hereabout are merely good players or of championship calibre.

No one was surprised yesterday afternoon when Herron advanced through the first and second rounds of the Piping Rock invitation tournament at Locust Valley, L. I. Even if he had only one stick in his caddy bag, those who marveled at his driving would feel convinced of his just deserts in winning at Oakmont last August from Bobby Jones. There are few men of the links better qualified than White and Graham to meet the national title holder in an important tournament, like the Piping Rock event. True, neither is the metropolitan champion, nor even runner-up, but the champion, Oswald Kirkby, has already defeated Herron within a week, while playing at the first day of the Lesley cup matches at Southampton, and now is the wonderful opportunity offered to another man.

White and Graham came through the two match play rounds yesterday in the upper half of the bracket, and this morning will meet each other in the semi-final aussie. Down in the lower half, Herron will have for an opponent in the semi-final G. C. Greenway of the National Links, a prominent metropolitan player, but one who does not often advance toward the honors in such an imposing tournament as the Piping Rock. Yesterday, however, Greenway showed brilliant form throughout, and in the first round eliminated no less a topnotcher than E. C. Beall of Uniontown, Penn., by 5 and 4.

Busy Day for Greenway.

Evidently that wasn't sufficient for one day's laurels, for no sooner had Greenway enjoyed a good luncheon than he started out with J. Simpson Dean, the young Princeton University golf star, and tucked him away out of further harm in a score of 5 and 3. Such a working day at Piping Rock, or at any course, is to the credit of Greenway, but there is hardly a chance that he will upset the mighty Herron today. Greenway appears to have progressed about as far as is healthful for him in this particular tournament.

Davie Herron is a heavy, chunky, good-natured, and happy champion, weighing some 218 pounds, and he needs plenty of exercise. Yesterday he took his daily portion by defeating Arcelio Reid of St. Andrew's in a morning round, and finishing off the day as the victor over Grant A. Peacock, his Princeton classmate and his good friend except during a golf competition. Herron's margin over Peacock of 5 and 4 shows no undue amount of compassion for a player more lowly than himself. In both instances Herron's driving brought him to the fore. He's a good approach shot maker and a good man with a putter, but others equal him. When it comes to swinging a driver, however, if S. Davidson Herron hasn't cracked his ball a good thirty or forty yards down the course from his opponent, then something is going wrong. Yesterday morning Herron finished the outward trip in a 38, and was 3 up at the turn on Reid. Coming in, he skidded into a total of 40, although he didn't corner his drives to advantage over Reid until the sixteenth hole, when the seventeenth handily and captured the match by 3 and 1. Reid won only five holes of the seventeen, but he bunched three of them, on the twelfth, thirteenth, and fifteenth greens, and so cut down what otherwise might have become a greater lead.

Peacock Makes Good Fight.

Grant Peacock packs around some dangerous strokes, and, although he did his best, which is always high-class golf, he was never more than second best against Herron in afternoon matches. The champion started out by seeking trouble at the first hole when he got into the rough, but he overcome this misfortune in his typical way, making a single putt on the green. Then he won the short third hole, after Peacock had penalized himself by needing three putts, and proceeded to win the fourth also. On the fifth, Herron's arm muscles and huge wrists brought him into trouble. He put his second shot far over the green into a trap, and pitched back too strong, crossing over the pin by fifteen feet. He took a 5 here to Peacock's 4. Herron became 3 up again by winning the 444-yard downhill seventh, when Peacock showed too much familiarity with a trap, but he turned at 2 up again after Peacock had exhibited some exceptional golf at the ninth. The latter drove to a trap, but niblicked out over the crest, and dead to the pin where it was easy to hole out in a 3.

Herron almost took an eagle 3 on the par 5 tenth hole. His third shot, an approach putt, was hardly more than a hair's breadth from the hole, and as it was he cupped his ball in a birdie 4, making him 3 up again. The eleventh and twelfth holes were halved in regulation golf, but Herron finished off the match by winning both the thirteenth and fourteenth, the former when Peacock approached over the pin and the latter when Peacock put a second shot into the long grass off the fairway.

	OUT.
Herron	4	4	3	4	5	5	4	4	4—37
Peacock	5	4	4	5	4	5	5	4	3—39

Peacock	5	3	4	5	5	4	4	4	3—39

Dixon Worries White.

Gardiner White ousted William B. Rhett of Garden City in the morning, by 5 and 3, and in the afternoon tackled George A. Dixon, Jr., of the National Links, who had won the first round match from C. Henry Mellon, of Morris County. The word "tackled" is appropriate. White found Dixon going strong and it was just about all the Nassau champion could do to stop him. White was one down at the turn and worried. He had lost four holes, won only three and halved two, yet he was playing satisfactory golf all the way and had no cause for complaints. The truth was that Dixon's stroking was brilliant, as it has been all this season. White, however, opened up with some reserve on the incoming journey and made the second nine holes in 37, only a single stroke over par figures, giving him a 77 for the round. He squared the match by winning the thirteenth, after the three previous holes had been halved, and then he won the sixteenth. Evidence of the remarkable round between White and Dixon is seen in the scores for the second half. Only two holes were won, both going to White, all the other seven being split by halved figures.

Their cards:

	OUT.
White	4	5	4	4	5	5	5	5	5—40
Dixon	4	4	5	4	4	6	4	4	4—39

	IN.
White	5	4	4	4	4	4	3	5	5—37—77
Dixon	5	4	4	5	4	4	5	5	5—39—78

Down below in the second sixteen there are real golfers who also will fight today for honors in their division. Most of them ordinarily have the honor of playing in the first flight, but when such invited guests as Herron, Peacock, White, Graham and Greenway go to Piping Rock there is need for a new shuffle in the qualifying list. William L. Hicks, of Nassau, looks like a probable winner in the second sixteen, having come through yesterday twice with good results. Others of the semi-finalists include the sole remaining home club player in high golfing company, L. Stuart Wing, and H. P. Bingham of National and E. W. Nash of Rockaway Hunt.

The first and second round scores follow:

First Sixteen.

First Round.—George A. Dixon, Jr., National, defeated C. Henry Mellon, Morris County, 2 and 1; Gardiner W. White, Nassau, defeated William B. Rhett, Garden City, 5 and 3; Sam J. Graham, Greenwich, defeated H. W. Maxwell, Jr., Nassau, 6 and 4; D. C. Bakewell, Alleghany, defeated J. C. Parrish, Jr., National, 4 and 3; G. C. Greenway, Jr., National, defeated E. C. Beall, Uniontown, 5 and 4; J. Simpson Dean, Princeton, defeated George T. Brokaw, Piping Rock, 3 and 4; Grant A. Peacock, Garden City, defeated J. N. Stearns, Jr., Nassau, 3 and 2; S. Davidson Herron, Oakmont, defeated A. M. Reid, St. Andrews, 3 and 1.

Second Round.—White defeated Dixon, 1 up; Graham defeated Bakewell, 1 up; Greenway defeated Dean, 3 and 1; Herron defeated Peacock, 5 and 4.

Second Sixteen.

First Round.—E. M. Barnes, Nassau, defeated A. P. Palmer, Baltusrol, 1 up; L. Stuart Wing, Piping Rock, defeated W. H. Young, unattached, 1 up; H. P. Bingham, National, defeated Lydig Hoyt, Piping Rock, 3 and 1; Percy R. Pyne, 2d, won from C. E. F. McCain, Nassau, by default; Edmund W. Nash, Rockaway Hunt, defeated Gerald Livingston, Piping Rock, 1 up; W. S. Stafford, Garden City, defeated A. Elliot Ranney, Greenwich, 3 and 2; W. L. Hicks, Nassau, defeated W. A. Knight, St. Augustine, 6 and 5; Cornelius S. Lee, Yonkers, defeated Fay Ingalls, Piping Rock, 3 and 2.

Second Round.—Wing defeated Barnes, 1 up; Bingham defeated Pyne, 6 and 5; Nash defeated Stafford, 2 and 1; Hicks defeated Lee, 2 and 1.

Third Sixteen.

First Round—S. H. Ivison, Cherry Valley, defeated J. K. Van Vranken, Cherry Valley, 4 and 3; R. W. Goelet, National, defeated J. F. O'Rourke, Nassau, 2 up; R. S. P. Randolph, Jr., Lakewood, defeated E. H. Kendall, South Shore, 6 and 5; S. C. Mahon, Garden City, defeated H. F. Whitney, Piping Rock, 1 up; H. L. Pratt, Nassau, defeated C. Tappan, Nassau, 3 and 1; R. E. Dwight, Piping Rock, defeated C. V. Brokaw, Piping Rock, 6 and 5; C. L. Tiffany, Piping Rock, won from E. M. Kerry, Garden City, by default; C. M. Amory, Brookline, defeated Peter Cooper Bryce, Piping Rock, 1 up. (19 holes.)

Second Round—Ivison defeated Goelet, 5 and 3; Randolph defeated Mahon, 2 and 1; Dwight defeated Pratt, 6 and 5; Amory defeated Tiffany, 6 and 4.

SHAWNEE MEDALIST BEATEN

Dr. Robb's Defeat of Harper Furnishes Surprise to Golfers.

Special to The New York Times.

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Penn., Oct. 10.—Golfers in the annual Fall tournament of the Shawnee Country Club reached the semi-final round, as a result of today's play. The surprise of the tourney was the defeat of the medalist, F. W. Harper of Trenton, in the first round. He was beaten by Dr. John Robb of the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, after one of the hardest-fought matches on the local links this season. They came to the home green on even terms, and when this was halved extra holes were necessary. On the first extra green the scores were again tied, and again on the second extra hole the players kept on even terms. On the twenty-first hole of the match, however, Dr. Robb sank a putt for a win.

In the semi-final round tomorrow morning R. S. Worthington of the home club will meet Herbert B. Newton of Whitemarsh in the upper half of the draw. H. L. Beyer of Aronimink, who defeated Pierre A. Proal, the Deal (N. J.) player, today, will clash with E. G. Grace of Shawnee in the lower half.

C. H. Wheeler of Whitemarsh was no match in the second round for Worthington, who won at the thirteenth hole by 6 and 5. In the morning play Leslie Edgecomb of Aronimink was eliminated by Beyer by 4 and 2.

The summaries:

First Round—R. S. Worthington, Shawnee, defeated Henry McKeen, Jr., Shawnee, 3 and 2; C. H. Wheeler, Whitemarsh, defeated Alexander Coles, Shawnee, 4 and 2; Paul Mackall, Shawnee, defeated Percy R. Tyler, Elmira, 1 up; Herbert B. Newton, Whitemarsh, defeated E. V. Connett, Jr., Morris County, 3 and 2; H. L. Beyer, Aronimink, defeated Leslie Edgecomb, Aronimink, 4 and 2; Pierre A. Proal, Deal, defeated S. W. Knight, Aronimink, 5 and 4; E. G. Grace, Shawnee, defeated H. C. Hicks, Philadelphia Cricket, 6 and 4; Dr. John Robb, Merion, defeated F. W. Harper, Trenton, 1 up. (21 holes.)

Second Round—Worthington defeated Wheeler, 6 and 5; Newton defeated Mackall, 2 and 1; Beyer defeated Proal, 4 and 3; Grace defeated Robb, 3 and 1.

MRS. BARLOW IN GOLF FINAL.

Will Meet Mrs. Vanderbeck in Play for Berthellyn Trophy Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10. — Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, of Merion, and Mrs. Clarence H. Vanderbeck, Philadelphia Cricket Club, will meet tomorrow on the links of the Huntingdon Valley Country Club in the final of the eighth annual tourney for the Berthellyn Cup.

Today Mrs. Barlow won her way to the final by defeating Miss Irene Peacock, the youthful sensation from the Thousand Islands Club, by a margin of 3 and 2. In the lower bracket of the semi-final Mrs. Vanderbeck erased Mrs. H. Smith, of North Hills, 5 and 3.

Mrs. Barlow will have more at stake tomorrow than her noted opponent, for if she triumphs she will carry away the much-sought Berthellyn cup. The Merion woman already has won two legs on the trophy, which goes to the golfer winning the tournament three times. On the other hand, Mrs. Vanderbeck has been victor but once and will be striving for a tighter hold on the goblet.

Mrs. Barlow, playing a national semi-finalist and a golfer whose recent brilliant work has excited the golf critics everywhere, was as steady as the Rock of Gibraltar. She made few mistakes and had the match well in hand at all times. She was out in 45, her medal score not being complete as the bye holes were not played.

Mrs. Vanderbeck was equally as efficient in her match with Mrs. Smith. At times raising her game to great heights. For instance, on the short sixth she drove to the edge of the green and sunk the long putt for a birdie two. Mrs. Smith later contributed another birdie, laying her tee shot dead to the pin on the punch bowl fourteenth and dropping the ball for a fine two.

The summary:

Semi-final Round—First Sixteen.—Mrs. Ronald J. Barlow, Merion, defeated Miss Irene Peacock, Thousand Islands, 3 and 2; Mrs. Clarence H. Vanderbeck, Cricket Club, defeated Mrs. H. C. Smith, North Hills, 5 and 3.

RUMORS AROUSE COMISKEY.

Would Give $20,000 for Evidence That White Sox "Threw" a Game.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—President Comiskey of the White Sox tonight declared he would give $20,000 for a single clew to lead to evidence that any of his players had deliberately attempted to throw any of the world series games to the Cincinnati Reds, for, the owner declared, he was sure of the fidelity of the players. Some of the players had taken to heart rumors given considerable circulation that a few of their number may have acted for a monetary consideration during the series.

"There is always some scandal of some kind following a big sporting event like the world's series," said President Comiskey, in denouncing the rumors. "These yarns are manufactured out of whole cloth and grow out of bitterness due to losing wagers.

"I believe my boys fought the battles of the recent world's series on the level, as they have always done, and I would be the first to want information to the contrary. I would give $20,000 to any one unearthing any information to that effect."

REDLAND ACCLAIMS ITS NEW CHAMPIONS

Moran and Victorious Players Get Noisy Welcome on Return—Holiday Proclaimed.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10.—Hilarious Cincinnati arose this morning to celebrate as a public holiday the triumphal return of the Reds from Chicago, where they won the baseball championship of the world yesterday from the Chicago White Sox. A proclamation calling on all citizens to observe the day as a public holiday from 8 o'clock until noon had been issued by Acting Mayor Carl Jacobs, and was widely observed, many business houses remaining closed. The proclamation urged all Cincinnatians to be present at Fountain Square at 10 o'clock "to pay homage to the world champions."

The Reds arrived in Cincinnati shortly after 7 o'clock, and it seemed that half of the city was at the Central Union Railroad Station to greet the conquering heroes on their return from Chicago.

When the train pulled in the building rocked from the cheers, and when the Reds alighted from their train, their faces creased with wide grins, a wild scene of enthusiasm ensued. Hats were thrown into the air and men, with their arms around one another's necks, performed weird and extemporaneous dances. Women, many of them wearing hats of vivid crimson, climbed on the iron railing between the trainshed and the depot proper and screamed at the top of their voices. Small boys were everywhere, and the great throng was engulfed in enthusiasm. Manager Moran had to salute constantly in response to the cheers.

The crowd called the players by their first names and cheered them all, individually and collectively. The players had literally to fight their way through the crowd to reach automobiles in which they were taken to the Business Men's Club, where an elaborate breakfast had been prepared for them. From an open followed the automobiles, forming quite a parade. Meanwhile church bells, fire engine bells, and factory, steamboat, and locomotive whistles added to the din.

The elementary schools closed until noon, and the high schools for all day, and the pupils hurried downtown to catch a glimpse of the new world champions. There were no classes at the club breakfast. Instead all devoted themselves to rejoicing over the victory. There was one chant that seemed popular. It was this: "Who took the Glee out of Gleason?"

Then the rain came, and as a result the demonstration which had been planned for Fountain Square was postponed. Instead the players went to Redland Field, where they held their last meeting of the season and prepared to receive their world's series checks as the victors.

RUPPERT ANSWERS NAVIN.

Contends National Commission Cannot Interfere in Legal Question.

Another rumpus has been started in the American League, or rather it is a part of an old rumpus which has broken out afresh. With the close of the regular playing season interest in the famous Carl Mays injunction case waned. Justice Wagner has not yet handed down a decision. He has not announced whether the injunction will be made permanent, and now it doesn't make a great deal of difference whether it is or not. The temporary injunction, restraining Ban Johnson from enforcing his suspension of the pitcher, enabled Mays to finish the season with the Yankees. On this action taken by Frank Navin, President of the Detroit American League Baseball Club, in protesting all the games won by Mays while pitching for the Yankees has started the quarrel all over again.

Mr. Navin has appealed to the National Baseball Commission, requesting that these games be thrown out. In the event of such action being taken it would mean the Yanks would lose third place in the standing of the clubs, that Detroit would supplant it, and that the Tigers, instead of the Yanks, would share in the world's series money.

Replying to this protest by Mr. Navin, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, President of the Yankees, issued the following statement:

"Mr. Navin's protest was filed with the commission on Sept. 29, and after reciting the fact that the New York club had been pitching Mays after his alleged suspension by President Johnson, concluded as follows: 'As the New York club finishes third in the race for the American pennant, I desire to protest the games in which this player has been used, and would like to have the commission take action on same.'

"On Oct. 7 the New York Club filed its answer with the Commission, in substance as follows:

"On Aug. 14 the New York Club instituted in the Circuit Court, Wayne County, Michigan, an action to restrain Mr. Johnson, both individually and as president of the league, and the Detroit Baseball Club, from doing certain things based upon the purported suspension of Mays. On the same date Judge Webster issued an order, which still remains in full force and effect, which, in brief, enjoined the Detroit Baseball Company, its officers, agents, players and employes, from interfering with the performance of the contract between the New York Club and Mays; from refusing to play with the New York Club according to the established schedule on the ground that Mays had been suspended; from refusing to play with the New York Club according to the established schedule unless Mays was omitted from the team; and from playing otherwise than in accordance with the established schedule of games including those with the New York Club, which are a part of the established schedule.

"The Detroit Club acquiesced in the order of the court, and allowed the season's games to be played through in accordance with the prescribed schedule, notwithstanding the fact that Maye had pitched in many games after the date of the injunction order. When the order was issued Detroit was in second place, and not until it had been dislodged from that position and the New York Club had won third place did the Detroit Club reverse its attitude of complete acquiescence in the situation created by the injunction order and enter its protest. In other words, Detroit was willing to accept the benefit of the protection which the court order threw about the established schedule until it found itself displaced from the third place and participation in the division of the world's series receipts, and then entered a protest, not to the court that issued the order, but to the National Commission.

"The court order, however, still stands in full force and effect, unchanged and unmodified, and the protest lodged with the commission is in its purpose a flagrant breach of the spirit if not the letter of that order; for the Detroit Club now seeks, after the established schedule has been played through, to destroy that schedule and to refuse to have the New York Club officially credited with games played in accordance therewith.

"The New York Club holds that the commission has no authority to entertain or to act on the protest, and that to do so would be in violation of the order of injunction, and would be contrary to law and to the rights of the New York Club."

Attention was also called to the fact that the action of Mr. Johnson in purporting to suspend Mays was formally rescinded by the Board of Directors of the league, at a meeting held on August 14.

Since Mays was protected by a temporary injunction baseball men in this city are of the opinion that the National Commission will take no action in connection with Mr. Navin's protest. They contend that the National Commission has no jurisdiction. When the Yankees took the case into court that took the matter out of the hands of the National Commission, it is contended.

LADY GERTRUDE IS VICTOR AT JAMAICA

Defeats Crystal Ford and Over There in Alhambra Handicap by Two Lengths.

Fred Housman's Lady Gertrude, which gave the first evidence of a return to form, when she took the measure of Recount last Tuesday proved at Jamaica yesterday that she is once more at her best after a dull season. She was equal to a real test in the Alhambra Handicap, in which she met some good performers and won handily, defeating the Nosreme Stable's Crystal Ford and W. R. Coe's Over There, among others in a field of seven.

Lady Gertrude has raced at various times since early in the season, but until coming to Jamaica had never been able to display anything like the form which had made her a popular favorite in other seasons. She was brought back at Saratoga after a rest of several weeks, but failed to accomplish anything. She ran one bad race at Jamaica early in the present meeting, but came back with a victory over Recount, which indicated that she was improving rapidly.

This victory, however, did not suffice to raise her high enough in the general opinion to make her a choice, and Over There was the favorite, although so much support came for Lady Gertrude just before post time that she was quoted at 11 to 5 after being as high as 5 to 1. Among the other starters were Panaman, Drummond, War Zone, and Wee Louise. The latter was evidently out of her class and finished a bad last, after making one game effort, but Panaman, which has been running to fine form, found he could not carry 118 pounds against such racers over a distance of a mile and a sixteenth. He took fourth, while Drummond and War Zone trailed in, without ever being factors in the contest.

Over There Is Stale.

The race seemed to indicate that Over There has been raced to the point where he is going stale. He has raced with better horses this season, but yesterday he could not hold his own under the burden of 126 pounds. Just once in the race did he get into the lead and that was for but a few strides, while the horses were shifting positions coming around the last turn. From then on he disappointed his backers as he dropped out of the fight for first place.

Lady Gertrude was nicely rated by Jockey Butwell who kept her off the early pace and did not begin to move up until he reached the far turn, who allowed the others to race themselves down and was ready when the opportunity came. War Zone and Wee Louise alternated in setting the pace through the backstretch, and Wee Louise in particular showed a fine flight of speed. But she tired suddenly, making the last turn, and from first place dropped back to last in less than a furlong.

Crystal Ford was well up all the way, and went up to second place at the turn, at which point Fairbrother moved up with Over There and made his one effort to get into a commanding position. He sent Over There up to equal terms with Crystal Ford and for a moment had the favorite's nose in front. The two raced along close together to the head of the stretch.

Butwell brought Lady Gertrude through on the outside and moved up with a rush, once the horses were straightened out. It required but little effort for the doubtful daughter of Medler or Fitz Herbert to gain the lead and she won by two lengths, while Crystal Ford raced Over There to submission and took the place by three lengths.

It was evident in the second race that J. J. Hallenbeck's aged Housemaid is no longer formidable. She found herself in with cheap company in this six-furlong dash, but despite reports that she is again at her best, failed to get anywhere. Perhaps it is the memory of better days that causes the layers to make Housemaid a favorite nearly every time she runs, but, at any rate, she was the choice at the opening yesterday, and was about an even choice with Back Bay, the winner, at post time.

Bad Start Hurts Alvord.

This race was marred by a bad start, which probably cost F. Burlew's Alvord the victory, for this one proved to be much the best considering the handicap at the start. There were several bad starts, including Alvord, and this horse was tugged about and lashed by one of the assistant starters until he became nearly unmanageable. Finally, when the barrier went up Alvord was off last, and was fully five lengths back of the last of the horses when he got under way. In spite of this, he ran into a contending position at the far turn, but the early effort had taken so much out of him that he was unable to get with leaders in the drive through the stretch, and took third. Back Bay, which was off nicely, was well handled and took the lead at the head of the stretch, but had to be hard ridden in the final furlong to gain a decision by a neck from Sundiver.

Miss Beatrice Soule's Paddy Whack came back with another very good performance in the fifth race and defeated Tenons Bon, Grundy, Star Realm, and Thunderstorm over a mile and a sixteenth route. Thunderstorm, which was a well played favorite, pulled up lame and was not able to run the race. Paddy Whack was cut off at the first turn and had to be taken outside, but Davies took his time getting up while on the backstretch and finally caught Tenons Bon at the head of the stretch. From there he drew away easily and won by a length and a half, though Tenona Bon made a good effort. Grundy was third, six lengths back of the second horse, and ran a dull race.

The juveniles provided two good competitions on the day's card. G. D. Widener's Rambler Rose was the winner of the opening event, getting the victory over W. R. Coe's Cinderella by half a length, while the latter took the place from Bright Gold by nearly two lengths. George Poterson's Beck and Call, which was the choice, ran a disappointing race and finished absolutely last. This was an upset which puzzled the form players, for Beck and Call had made excellent time in workouts and was regarded as a good thing. However, she was off rather badly and never showed a flash of speed. Rambler Rose rushed to the front at once and led all the way to the finish. Cinderella ran an improved race and was second all the way, always holding Bright Gold safely.

TWO FOR BRANNON STABLE.

Kingfisher and Blue Paradise Winners at Latonia.

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 10.—Kingfisher, from the stable of B. J. Brannon, which has been showing improvement recently, proved to be the best over a heavy track in the running of the feature purse event here today. This son of Sea King took the winner's share of the $2,000 stake from R. A. Mason's Linden and M. Goldblatt's Matinée Idol, scoring an easy victory.

The race was at a mile and three-sixteenths, and was run in good time. Kingfisher had an advantage in the weights and was rated off the pace for the first mile, while Linden went to the front with Serbian in close attendance, but brought Kingfisher up at the turn and caught Linden, but it required some urging to keep him there during the drive through the stretch. Linden hung on well and fought it out until the last sixteenth, when the fast pace told on him and he dropped back. Kingfisher went on then to win easily, Matinée Idol was slow to get started, and was so far back of the leaders throughout most of the race that he could never get up at the finish. Lyke rode him hard through the final furlong, and took third by six lengths from Harvest King.

The victory of Kingfisher was the second of the day for Brannon. His Blue Paradise won the purse that went with the fourth event on the card. Blue Paradise showed fine speed over the six furlong route and was nicely handled. She defeated Shiela Korby by a head, the length and a half, while Sewell Combs took third. Blue Paradise went to the front and raced with Sewell Combs to the head of the stretch, where she forced her rival to give up. Korbly had come up in the meantime and was running strongly, but Blue Paradise held on gamely for a sixteenth and then drew away to win easily. Korbly took the place from Sewell Combs by three lengths. George Starr carried the high weight in the race, but was never a contender, running a dull race and tiring badly in the stretch, to finish next to last in the field of eight.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse $1,303; six furlongs. Indian Spring, 107 pounds, (Lansford,) straight $11.70, place $5.20, show $3.40, first; A. N. Weather clear; track slow.

RUN LATONIA STAKES TODAY

Mad Hatter Among Seven Starters for $50,000 Purse.

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 10.—The $50,000 Latonia Championship Stakes for three-year-olds at a mile and three quarters, which is to be run here tomorrow, has attracted a field of seven starters out of an original list of nearly 100 nominations. The original list contained the names of some of the most noted turf stars and some disappointment has been felt over the failure of most of these to be named to go to the post.

Of the seven which were named tonight, S. C. Hildreth's Mad Hatter is the only one which has gained anything of a reputation among the best of his age, and he seems to have a fine chance to carry away the winner's share. All the starters will carry 122 pounds.

The entries for the stake are: War Spirit, John O., Linden, Sway, Mad Hatter, Chasseur and Stockwell.

JAMAICA ENTRIES.

FIRST RACE.—Five furlongs; for two-year olds. St. Allan, 115 pounds; Sand Bee, 115; Fair Gain, 115; The Wagoner, 115; Mackamore, 115; Indiscretion, 112; Vice Chairman, 108; Sir Clerance, 108; Round Robin, 108; Royal Duck, 115; Armistice, 108.

SECOND RACE.—Mileand seventy yards; four-year-olds and upward. Woodtrap, 125 pounds; War Machine, 114; Albert A., 125; Peerless One, 108.

THIRD RACE.—Mile and a quarter; for three-year-olds and up

LIVELY DAY IS PROMISED ON MANY COLLEGE GRIDIRONS, WITH ALL THE BIG ELEVENS IN ACTION

FOOTBALL ELEVENS TO GET REAL TEST

COLGATE TO FACE BROWN

Fur Will Fly at Hamilton—Pittsburgh-West Virginia Game Is Also Highly Important.

This year's standing of the college football teams will be definitely affected by at least two of the games scheduled for this afternoon. While a host of widely scattered gridirons will command the attention of the thousands of fans, whose enthusiasm runs sentimentally in the direction of some particular team, the eyes of the connoisseurs and of the merely neutral lovers of the game itself will be largely focused upon two places, Hamilton and Pittsburgh. The former is to be the scene of Colgate University's first real battle of the season, answering the challenge of Brown University, while the centre of the steel district stages an equally important meeting between Glenn Warner's Pittsburgh Tigers and the West Virginia eleven.

Colgate is believed by some competent judges to be developing one of the greatest football teams in her history, yet Coach Larry Bankart and his men make no secret of the fact that they fear the big Brown aggregation and consider today's game perhaps the hardest on their schedule, in spite of its coming so early in the season. The last time that these two giants of Eastern football met, in the Fall of 1917, Brown won by a single point, taking one of the hardest games of that season on a 7-6 decision.

Colgate Looks Stronger.

On this year's showing, however, Colgate looks somewhat the stronger of the two. Last Saturday the Hamiltonians cleaned up Susquehanna University in one-sided fashion, whereas Brown had difficulty in downing Bowdoin by a single touchdown. The Providence collegians are none too confident, as several of their veterans are suffering from injuries.

As for Pittsburgh University, there has been no real chance yet to compare this year's team with Warner's great elevens of the past. Neither has West Virginia given any definite indications of her strength. But these two are natural rivals, with the memory of a 14 to 9 victory for Pittsburgh in 1917 still rankling on both sides, for West Virginia was one of the few teams to give the Panthers a close battle that year.

Local football gets its actual start this afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Columbia University faces Vermont on South Field. Fred Dawson is frankly none too optimistic as to the outlook for his charges, since they failed to score on the sailors of the battleship Arizona in a practice game last Saturday. But although heralded as an unusually strong eleven, Vermont succumbed to Syracuse last Saturday by a 27 to 0 score and may prove less dangerous than was anticipated.

New York University, playing all its games thus far out of town, clashes with Hamilton College today, at Clinton. After last week's splendid showing against Amherst, the Manhattanites may be expected to bring home a victory this afternoon.

Rutgers Tackles Lehigh.

Rutgers, which has come to be practically a metropolitan team in the estimation of New York football enthusiasts since its great exhibitions at the Polo Grounds, journeys to South Bethlehem to tackle Lehigh University in its first encounter away from home. In past years this would have produced one of the hottest little arguments among the minor colleges, but Foster Sanford has gradually raised the level of Rutgers football well beyond its old class, and Lehigh, once a worthy foe, will probably be content to make a fair showing, with not much more than the possibility of scoring on the big red team. These teams did not meet in 1917 or 1918, but on this season's record the men from New Brunswick seem distinctly superior.

The only other game of local significance is over at Hoboken, where Stevens Institute opens its season against Haverford College. These two old rivals have always been evenly matched, and the little Quaker institution invariably sends up a well-coached, fast eleven, equipped with a sparkling variety of plays. Unquestionably the game across the river will draw its full share of spectators.

The old "big four" Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Pennsylvania, all receive good early season tryouts today, the Tigers drawing perhaps the hardest assignment in Lafayette, a team which has always been inclined to make trouble for the leading universities. Harvard plays Colby and should scarcely find her strong line and backfield extended to win comfortably. Yale cannot hope for much opposition from North Carolina, since the latter team failed to make things interesting for Rutgers last week, and Pennsylvania is likely to overwhelm little Delaware if the scoring fancy strikes her powerful representatives.

Williams Will Worry Cornell.

Cornell, however, is none too sanguine over her contest with Williams today, as the New England collegians have a tendency to play their best when facing big odds. With Shiverick as their mainstay, however, the Ithacans have little to fear.

Both of the service schools are looking forward to a tough afternoon, West Point in particular having reason to worry over the visit of Syracuse to the banks of the Hudson. It is difficult to figure a victory for the Army over the husky up-State eleven, although the West Pointers can be counted upon to put up a great fight before admitting defeat. The Navy is better off, with Baltimore's university, Johns Hopkins, on its hands. This should be a good test for the Annapolis Cadets, but no real threat against their standing in football circles.

Penn State and Bucknell, Holy Cross and Bowdoin, Dartmouth and the Massachusetts Aggies, Springfield and Tufts, Union and Amherst, Ursinus and Dickinson, Washington and Jefferson and Carnegie Tech, and Wesleyan and Rhode Island State are some of the other football pairings of more than ordinary interest today. In the West, Minnesota meets Nebraska, with Notre Dame drawn against the Great Lakes team, Oberlin facing Ohio Wesleyan, and Wisconsin playing Marquette.

WEST VIRGINIA IS READY.

Football Team Prepared to Make a Sturdy Battle Against Pitt.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 10.—"This is the best October football team I have ever seen," said head coach Tubby McIntyre today, making a final talk to the West Virginia eleven before it boarded the train for Pittsburgh, where it will play Warner's eleven. McIntyre played here ten years ago on three of the best teams West Virginia ever had and opposed Folwell and Hollenback's Penn team and others equally good. He has had nine years of coaching experience, also, so his word means something.

Twenty-five players, headed by Captain Rodgers, boarded a late train today for Pittsburgh and the West Virginia team will probably line up tomorrow with Captain Rodgers at full back, King and Lentz at half backs; Lewis, quarter back; Yeager and Mills, ends; Harrick and Archer, tackles; Ice and Shay, guards, and the All-American selection, Bailey, at centre.

COLUMBIA BEGINS TODAY.

Vermont Is the Opponent in Opening Game on South Field.

College football in New York for the season of 1919 will begin this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the first game on Columbia's schedule, against the strong eleven from Vermont. Eleventh hour changes in the lineup were indicated last night in the list of Columbians who would start the game. Only Kennedy, Tower, Kienninger, Weinstein, and Captain Canapary are veterans of former Blue and White elevens.

Quigley, who reported for his first practice only ten days ago, will be at quarterback. In the rest of the backfield two new players, Thornton, who came to Columbia from Dartmouth, and Moszczinski, will make their first appearance. Captain Frank Canapary will be the other member of the backfield. In the line Devine, who has been out for only a week, will take care of right tackle. He played two years at Cornell College, Iowa, before coming to Columbia. On account of his experience Dawson will play him today, in an effort to stiffen his green line. Another late shift was that of Kienninger from centre, where he played last year, to guard, with Forsyth, formerly an end, as his running mate. Hinch will fill in at centre.

The practice yesterday on South Field was devoted to a final polishing of the defense. The basket and ends had a short workout at tackling, and later the 'Varsity ran through a signal drill.

Two sets of backs will probably be used by Columbia. Canapary, Moszczinski, and Thornton will start the game, and on the side lines will be Charlie Shaw, the track captain; Eccles, Applebaum and Wesley, all of whom have been on the 'Varsity this year at one practice or another. Shaw probably will alternate with Quigley at quarterback.

The Vermont lineup will be the same as that used by the mountaineers against Syracuse last week when the Orange team was held to one touchdown in the first three periods.

The probable lineup will be:

Columbia.	Position.	Vermont.
Kennedy	L. E.	Barrows
Tower	L. T.	Schmitt
Forsyth	L. G.	Dyer
Kienninger	R. G.	Harrington
Devine	R. T.	Purcell
Weinstein	R. E.	Tomasi
Quigley	Q. B.	Garrity
Canapary	L. H. B.	Broct
Thornton	R. H. B.	Connelley
Moszczinski	F. B.	Sullivan

Ted Withington to Coach.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Oct. 11.—Ted Withington, former Harvard football star and All American centre, has been named coach of the Williams freshman eleven for the season. He has started work with a squad of thirty-five men, including a number of former prep school stars. Withington is at Williams in connection with Y. M. C. A. work. In addition to coaching the freshmen, he also assists Coach Brooks with the first team.

THREE CHANGES IN LINEUP OF TIGERS

Morgan, Garrity, and Wilmer Expected to Start in Today's Game with Lafayette.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 10.—While the makeup of the team that will take the field tomorrow against Lafayette will be a matter of conjecture until the final signal drill before the game, indications based on this afternoon's workout point to at least three changes in the lineup that started against Trinity last Saturday.

Morgan was again at right guard in place of Rothchild in today's practice, which consisted of signal drill only for the first and second teams. In the back field Garrity was at right half, in McPhee's place, and Wilmer, instead of Opie, was in at full back.

Coach Roper and his aids had the teams running through the plays for two hours. The line of the 'varsity remained practically intact throughout the afternoon, but frequent back-field substitutions showed that no quartet has yet been found that is satisfactory. Sweet and Opie were in the play at full back for long periods and it is practically certain that these men, together with Murrey, McPhee, Knox, and Destefano, will be tried out behind the line.

The team's repertoire consists of simple line plays so far and today's practice was devoted to perfecting the men in them. Coach Ballin kept a watchful eye on his forwards in an effort to get them to charge together. Lack of cohesion in this department, together with inefficient interference, contributed to a great extent in keeping down last Saturday's score. All back field men were drilled in making and following interference this afternoon in an attempt to present a stronger attack tomorrow against the Eastern collegians than that which went into action against the New Englanders.

CORNELL WANTS REVENGE.

Eleven Hopes to Retrieve 1917 Defeat in Today's Williams Game.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Cornell and Williams will meet here tomorrow, resuming the football relations broken off by the war. Although the Ithacans remember that the last time Williams played here, in 1917, her team surprised the Red eleven and won by a 14 to 10 score, a long run by Boynton doing the trick, no apprehension of a similar result tomorrow is felt in the Cornell camp. Nevertheless, the coaches have told the men that they must play much better football against the Purple than they did in the opening game last Saturday.

The team rested today after a strenuous week, the only activity being a signal drill. With the exception of left end, where Wilson will start instead of Reavis, the lineup will be the same as in the Oberlin game, unless Rush makes a last-minute shift. Shuler may call the signals tomorrow instead of Shiverick.

The Cornell line-up will include Colvin and Wilson, ends; Taylor and Sutton, tackles; Pendleton and Miller, guards; Horrell or Trowbridge, centre; Shiverick, quarter; Davies and Mayer, half backs, and Shuler, full back.

ARMY MEETS SYRACUSE.

McQuarrie, West Point's Star Back, Not Likely to Play.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The final touches were imparted by the coaches today to the Army eleven which faces Syracuse here on the gridiron tomorrow. There was a long period of practice but, it is said, the Army mentors fearing to drive the men hard on the eve of what promised to be the first real contest for the Cadets. The up-staters are reported to be strong and are expected to stage a hardy battle with the soldiers.

The Cadets are anxious to win and will fight hard in spite of the fact that several of their best men are on the injured list. McQuarrie, the Army's star back, is unlikely to play, as he has been out for two days because of an injury. The Soldiers are weakened without a doubt by his enforced absence. Warren, a comparatively unknown backfield man, will probably start in McQuarrie's place. Listed is also a doubtful of playing and if the coaches decide not to use him Dodd will probably fill the place at full back.

Syracuse has not played here since 1912 when the orange eleven was beaten by the Army, 28 to 7. The collegians will come here early tomorrow morning and the game will start at 3 o'clock.

The Army line-up will probably be as follows:

NAVY ON EDGE FOR GAME.

Football Team in Light Preparation for Game with Johns Hopkins.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 10.—The Navy had its last practice this afternoon before the game against Johns Hopkins tomorrow. It is probable that a large string of second team men will be used against the Baltimoreans. Hopkins, although an old-time rival of the Navys, is not in a position to present a defense or offense that will cause the future Admirals any trouble.

Taylor, the "plebe," will undoubtedly be used for a part of the game tomorrow in order to give a real test of his playing ability. Graves has sufficiently recovered and will start with the regular lineup. Dobie had his three first teams all running through signals under Ensigns Ingram, Butler, and Scaffe. It is intended to start the first string men in the game tomorrow, but substitutions will be numerous, as it is not Dobie's aim to run up a very large score without giving all his players a taste of the pigskin.

N. Y. U. READY FOR GAME.

Players on Edge for Clash with Hamilton Eleven Today.

New York University's football team reached Utica last night after traveling all afternoon. It stayed in that city over night and will go on to Clinton this morning for its game this afternoon with Hamilton College.

The team is in fine condition. The shifting of Mooney from end to half back has greatly strengthened the Violet's attack. Walters, who until recently, has been ineligible, will take his place at end. The other end position, vacated by the injury to Thompson, will be taken care of by Parkhurst.

With these few exceptions, the team will be the same as the one that played against Amherst last Saturday. Parkhurst and Walters will play the ends, Storey and Williams will take care of the tackles, Guiney and Adams, the latter weighing but 145 pounds, will be the guards, and Baker will be the pivot. Captain Cann will run the team, Mooney and Weinheimer will play the halves, and Horrigan will be at full.

EXPECTS AERIAL ATTACK.

Harvard Football Team Is Ready for Colby's Forward Passes.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 10.—In spite of having so many players on the temporarily injured list the Harvard coaches are going to be able to present a strong front for tomorrow's game with Colby. The Maine collegians rolled up 99 points against an Army team last week, and Harvard will go into its engagement expecting a lot of open play.

The eleven that will take the field is in good physical shape and the makeup at the ends and at quarter back suggests that the Crimson will try to do a little open football itself.

Felton, who has been filling Captain Bill Murray's place at quarter back all week, was replaced by Humphrey of the freshmen team of two years ago, and the latter, who is a great open-field runner, as well as a clever passer and kicker, will have his first chance to engineer the regular outfit. Humphrey will have Casey and Horween in the backfield with him, and either Gratwick or Hamilton at left half. Gratwick is one of the backs, whose all-round play has improved greatly during the last two weeks, and, if he replaces Hamilton, it will be because of equal ability to carry the ball and more efficient interference and power in helping to open holes.

On the rush line Ryan will be at the left wing and Desmond on the other side. Both men handle passes extremely well. Hubbard will be started at left tackle, where he was considered the regular man up to the time he stopped playing two weeks ago. At centre Phibbin may be able to get in for a time, but Havemeyer will start and probably will remain most of the game. Clark, Brown, and Sedgwick at guards and right tackle have survived the hard work of the week and should play better football against Bates than in either of the earlier games.

Captain Murray was busy this afternoon and wants to play. His back seems all right, but Fisher will not hear of his getting into rough football before next week, when it is now hoped he will be able to take charge of his team for the Brown game. The workout today was one of the hardest of the season for the players, although there was no scrimmage against either freshmen or scrubs. The first and second 'Varsity lined up against each other and went through all the regular football motions except hard tackling.

Hadley can play tackle tomorrow if needed, and by the first of the week Burnham, leading left half candidate, probably will be in shape again.

COLGATE IS OPTIMISTIC.

Bankart Has Developed Good Aerial Plays for Brown Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Football practice today was light in anticipation of the game with Brown tomorrow. Coach Bankart was gratified after practice and showed optimism on the team's chances with Brown. He gave out the following lineup:

Webster, Colgate's star half back, who has been injured will not start. Practice today consisted chiefly of signaling and a fifteen-minute scrimmage. The second eleven was fooled again and again. Bankart's system of play will prove baffling to Brown tomorrow, especially the tricks he has up his sleeve with forward passes. It is understood he will depend upon an overhead game to bring Brown to her knees, as Brown is known to be weak in combating such a game.

BROWN READY FOR COLGATE

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 10.—The Brown football squad numbering twenty-seven men left here tonight for Hamilton, N. Y., where the eleven will play Colgate tomorrow. Practice today consisted of signal work only, the coaches sending the men through the formations that will be used.

SCHAEFER TWICE WINNER.

Defeats Cutler Both Afternoon and Evening in 18.2 Billiard Matches.

Young Jake Schaefer defeated Albert Cutler in two 18.2 balkline billiard matches at Maurice Daly's Academy yesterday afternoon and last night. In the afternoon he won by a score of 300 to 268 and in the evening the final count was 300 to 65. Schaefer had high runs of 88 and 53, while Cutler's best runs were 51 and 35. The afternoon was productive of some very fine billiards. Not only was it close throughout, but it was featured by good playing. For a time it appeared Cutler might defeat his young opponent, but Schaefer took the lead about the middle of the game and managed to hold it to the end.

In the evening Schaefer was in excellent form. He averaged 21 and at no time was Cutler dangerous. An impressive feature about Schaefer's work was the way he nursed the ivories. He had them under control at all times. Schaefer and Cutler will play again this afternoon and tonight.

YALE ELEVEN LOOKS FOR AN EASY GAME

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 10.—Yale anticipated a game tomorrow with the University of North Carolina eleven which will by no means test its strength. The Russ line which has fought in every daily scrimmage of the week has been selected, but a pony backfield will be used. Of the backs, Chester La Roche alone has been in Yale intercollegiate football previous to this year. Jack French, who has starred as Jim Braden's understudy this week, will tomorrow essay the full back role in competition. Braden has not been worked this week in accordance with the policy of Head Coach Sharpe not to drive veterans hard, and will witness the match from the sidelines, ready for a rescue call. French was the steadiest of the Eli freshman backs two years ago.

Donald Welles, who gained more ground by rushing than any other Eli back against Springfield last Saturday, was named tonight for the left half back berth, while Aldrich, the former Fall River high school player, who has been fighting Paul Crane for the other half back place was picked for the other back. Captain Tim Callahan tomorrow will play his first game since he was with Cupid Black's Newport navy eleven two seasons ago.

The practice of the 'Varsity today was limited to the tackling dummy and to a signal drill against the scrubs. The second Varsity followed the first eleven around the gridiron and the coaches frequently stopped the dummy play to explain formation and to correct errors. A short scrimmage practice between two of the substitute teams took place, in which Herbert Kempton, quarter back of the second, made the only run of note. There was no scoring. Comerford, end three years ago, and Jack Owsley, head coach of Tom Shevlin's eleven, joined the visiting coaches.

Yale.	Position.	North Carolina.
Reinhardt	L. E.	Cochrane
Hamill	L. T.	Pritchard

COLUMBIA ROWING BEGINS.

Jim Rice Boats Seven Freshmen Crews on the Harlem River.

Fall rowing practice at Columbia was formally begun yesterday when more than 60 freshmen candidates reported to Coach Jim Rice at the Union Boat Club on the Harlem. Seven boatloads of youngsters were sent out on the river under the guidance of Rice and Captain Bob O'Loughlin of the 'Varsity, both of whom fell to with a vengeance and wielded oars themselves. Varsity coxswains took charge of two barges, and Fred Plaisted, who coached the Blue and White crews last year, also lent a hand.

Only the fundamentals of oarsmanship were attempted yesterday and although it was their first taste of real rowing, except for a short workout on Thursday, the freshmen showed promising ability. Heavy barges with fixed seats were used.

The Fall practice on the Harlem will continue until at least Dec. 15, Rice announced. The 'Varsity candidates will be nounced. The 'Varsity candidates will be cause of the large number of both freshmen and 'Varsity candidates it will be necessary to use the boathouse and barges in shifts, four crews going out at a time. This method will continue until bad weather interferes.

Rice was elated yesterday over the showing of the first year men. It is the largest squad that has ever reported to him since he took over the destinies of Columbia rowing, and its average weight will be well over 160 pounds. Ninety-five yearlings have signed the crew list, the difference between this figure and the number who actually reported being explained by the fact that many of the men are playing freshman football at present. They will report at the end of the season, in the middle of November, and will still be able to get in a month's workout on the Harlem.

A Fall regatta is being arranged by the crew authorities, in which crews from different schools and classes will compete. 'Varsity oarsmen now in the Law School are forming an eight to pit against the 'Varsity crew that Captain O'Loughlin, Leys and other veteran oarsmen will comprise. There are sixteen former 'Varsity rowers in the Law School this year, some of whom will be eligible for intercollegiate rowing.

MOTOR CYCLE RACES TODAY.

Prominent Riders Will Try to Wrest Title from Lieut. Chapple.

The national championship motorcycle race meet, with a pretentious field of riders, will be held this afternoon at the Sheepshead Bay Speedway. No less than seventy-five pilots are entered in the eight titular events.

Lieutenant Arthur Chapple, the world's champion, will be on hand to defend his crown against one of the greatest arrays of young riders the perilous game has brought out. Chief among them is Gene Walker, who in practice last week turned the mile in 0:30 1-5, at the rate of nearly two miles a minute. Walker recently won the national championships at one, five and twenty-five miles.

Others who will attempt to displace Chapple are Leslie Parkhurst, the 1916 international champion; Otto Walker, the record holder for 100 miles, who duplicated Parkhurst's feat in 1917; Percy Coleman, the undefeated Australian who holds the world's mile record of 0:35 2-5; Mike Costello, the Italian champion; Maldwin Jones, who this season has won forty-seven first places out of fifty-four starts; Ralph Hepburn, the 200-mile champion; Ted Carroll, the 24-hour record holder, and Jimmy French, the 51-year-old veteran of the game.

The feature event will be at 100 miles, but the two-mile championship will bring out the greatest field of short distance riders ever gathered for a title meet. In addition to the title competitions there will be a ten-mile motor pace exhibition in which Arthur Vanderstuyft, the European champion, will try to lower the world's record.

The meet is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock. In the event of rain the championships will be held Monday afternoon, (Columbus Day.)

The riders who will compete in the titular race follow:

BAN ON FOOTBALL LIFTED AT COLUMBIA

Graduates, in Meeting, Also Learn of Dr. Butler's Plan for a Stadium.

Beginning with next Fall Columbia is to cast aside its confining football restrictions and engage in the gridiron sport on an unlimited scale. This important announcement was made last evening at a general mass meeting of Columbia graduates at the Columbia University Club in West Forty-third Street, at which the subject of the football policy, the matter of the proposed stadium on the banks of the Hudson River, and other athletic topics were put before representative alumni for discussion.

Frank D. Fackenthal, Secretary of the university, made the statement about the abolition of the football ban to the graduates, who received the news with as much surprise as elation. President Nicholas Murray Butler had asked the University Committee on Student Organizations, about a week ago, to inquire into the football policy and not only had the committee reported as favoring the lifting of the ban on football, but Dr. Butler had approved the recommendations. The sole remaining step, a matter of formality, will be to place the situation before the University Council, composed of faculty representatives, for final approbation. The council will have a special meeting within a week.

Under the new conditions, Columbia can again meet on the gridiron the "big five"—Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell and Pennsylvania—for the first time since 1905, when football was originally abolished on Morningside Heights. When the game was returned provisionally to the students in 1915, it was to continue under strict limitations for five years, during which time the college elevens mentioned could not be met. This Fall is the fifth and last year under the ban. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion of the graduates last night, however, that Columbia's undergraduate student body was too small to develop teams strong enough to meet Yale, Harvard or Princeton, but that the ancient gridiron rivals, Penn and Cornell, should be included on next year's schedule.

Nicholas Murray Butler, President of the university, formally took up the football question on Oct. 3 in a letter to Frank D. Fackenthal, Secretary of the university and Chairman of the University Committee on Student Organizations, and the culmination of the correspondence was revealed last night in the announcement that the committee had recommended the resumption of unrestricted football, and that Dr. Butler had approved this move. His letter was in part as follows: "The trial period of five years will come to an end at the close of the present football season. In view of the admirable record that has been made during these five years, I now ask that your committee take steps to have the situation as it exists today carefully studied with a view of meeting in the largest possible way the wishes and hopes of the students and alumni in regard to intercollegiate football and Columbia's participation therein."

Dr. Butler's letter continued in part as follows:

"The next step is to organize an effective movement to carry through to speedy completion our long delayed plans for the Hudson River Stadium."

Greenleaf Wins at Billiards.

Playing the same consistent pocket billiards that has distinguished his work recently, Ralph Greenleaf defeated Ed Smith at the Morningside Academy last night by a score of 125 to 30. Greenleaf had a high run of 28, while Smith's best effort netted him 16. Greenleaf was in excellent stroke and his execution was as near perfection as it possibly could be. This afternoon he will play William Morris and tonight will tackle George Clark, formerly New York State champion.

35,000 JEWS KILLED IN SAVAGE POGROMS

A Carnival of Butchery Reported by the Zionist Organization of America.

MASSACRES IN UKRAINE

Helpless Population Murdered Wholesale by Petlura's Troops and Bolsheviki Alike.

The following statement was issued last night by the Zionist Organization of America, 55 Fifth Avenue:

"Authentic reports have reached this country of a series of massacres which have raged in the Ukraine since last November, which have resulted in the slaughter of 30,000 Jews. Whole communities have been wiped out by the soldiery of General Petlura, the 'anti-Bolshevist crusader,' and General Grigorieff, whose officers in many cases belong to the Black Hundred, as well as countless bands. The Bolshevist troops have also committed many pogroms, but their military commanders took rigorous measures against them and many hundreds of soldiers who had taken part in the excesses. But the military authorities had to yield in the end to the anti-semitic feeling to the extent of refraining from sending the Jewish commission to the front.

"Three main periods of the pogroms can be distinguished. The first period was during the victorious campaigns of Petlura against the Hetman, November to March, 1918, which includes particularly the terrible pogroms of Zhitomir and Ovrytch. The second period was from February to April, 1919, when the Petlura troops were on the retreat before the Bolsheviki, and countless bands arose. Particularly disastrous was the two days' massacre at Proskuroff, February 14 and 15, of which Colonel Simosenki was the organizer. It has been absolutely established and registered that 1,700 Jews were murdered on this occasion. In many cases entire families were completely wiped out.

"When the Central Relief Committee learned of the pogroms, it sent a commissioner with 100,000 rubles to Proskuroff to assist the survivors, but the commissioner often did not know to whom he should give the money, as there were no survivors at all.

"At Fitlschin, near Proskuroff, 400 Jews were killed. An especially terrible affair was the holding up of a steamer on the Dnieper, in the vicinity of Mendchikorie, near Kief, when 103 Jews were seized on board and drowned. Over sixty corpses were recovered.

"The worst period has been raging since April of this year. The troops of Grigorieff upon capturing Tscherkassi put to death 300 persons there. Equally terrible were the excesses at Elizabethgrad where about 2 000 were killed. At Trostientietz there was a Bolshevist garrison, and when the peasants rose against the Bolshevists authority the Christian section of the garrison went over to their side and disarmed their Jewish comrades. Thereupon, all the Jewish inhabitants of the little town—down to those who were 12 years of age—were locked into a communal building and kept in prison there for two days, and after prolonged deliberations were murdered. More than 400 persons were then slain.

"The Jewish National Secretariat has drawn up an exact record of all the pogroms from the end of November, 1918, down to May 28, 1919. Pogroms and bloody excesses are recorded to have taken place in 127 places. With regard to another forty or fifty places it cannot be stated definitely what dimensions the excesses assumed, as the Secretariat is unable to get into communication with them. The total number of Jews who are said to have been killed in these pogroms is from 30,000 to 35 000. A long list of names of those murdered is in the hands of the National Secretariat.

"The figures given is quite reliable, and probably even falls short of the actual truth.

"The Jews tried to organize a self-defense, but this was not permitted by the Bolshevits, who urged the Jews to join the Red Army, if they wished to defend Jewish lives. The Pogroms were everywhere marked by the same horrible features, a bestial murder lust and an incredible passion for destruction.

"Under the Bolshevist régime nothing has been left of national autonomy, and the numerous Jewish institutions, not only the communities and the local autonomous bodies, but also purely charitable organizations, have been dissolved. The Pogrom Committee was not tolerated, although it contained Socialist members.

"But the Bolsheviki did all in their power to suppress the pogroms and to support the survivors. No collections of any kind were permitted, not even for pogrom victims. The Jewish parties have been completely disbanded. All the Jewish newspapers have been suppressed with the exception of the Communist Flag. Schools where Hebrew is the medium of instruction are prohibited, but the Yiddish language is encouraged.

"The Zionist organization is described and treated by the Bolsheviki as counter-revolutionary, but it has hitherto been impossible to suppress it. As political activity is now out of the question, all energy is concentrated upon Palestine work. The registration of would-be emigrants has been taken in hand, and more than severity Achuzoth and numerous co-operative transmigration companies have been formed. The Zionist central office at Kief is still in existence. The General Ukrainian Zionist Conference, convened for June, had to be postponed on account of the pogrom and the difficulties of travel. The eagerness to emigrate is exceedingly great, and it is only with the utmost difficulty that those anxious to leave the country can be withheld from a precipitate exodus. The Jewish National Secretariat, elected by the National Assembly, continues its activity, although under prohibition, and it has endeavored to preserve the communal institutions."

EMPLOYERS DEMAND THE OPEN SHOP

Both John Spargo of the group representing the public and Frederick P. Fish of the employers' section said they would like to have the benefit of advice from outside sources. Secretary of Labor Wilson suggested copying the ideas in triplicate and letting the Chairman of each group have them.

To this Samuel Gompers agreed, but he added:

"I decline to rest under the insinuation that I am desirous of excluding expression by the general public. One of the very things for which my associates and I have contended is for open sessions, so that the world, by inquiry, might understand what we are trying to do and how we are going about it. I do not know whether the entire press of the country strongly reflects the sentiments of one or the other group in this conference. You look at this morning's Washington Post, and you will find the most unfair attack on the attitude of the labor group in this conference and it is made to appear that it is a contest between Americanism and radicalism."

Mr. McNab replied that he had not intended to suggest that Mr. Gompers wished to obstruct suggestions from outside.

Six members of the Committee on the High Cost of Living were named, including Charles Edward Russell, Henry S. Dennison of Framingham, Mass., and O. E. Bradfute of Xenia, Ohio, for the public, and R. H. Aishton, Ernest T. Trigg, and C. S. Barrett for the employers. Samuel Gompers announced that one of three selected to represent labor could not serve, and so the labor members would be announced later.

In presenting the twelve principles from the employers, Harry A. Wheeler, Chairman of that group, said:

"The document was originally prepared by that section of the employers' group named by the National Industrial Conference Board, and referred by the group to a committee composed of the various elements of the group, and we advised in some particulars. Therefore it comes as the conference in that form, the authorship, consequently, being the original authorship of the representatives of the Industrial Conference Board, with such changes as they accepted readily from the committee of the group."

Employers' Principles in Full.

The declaration of the employers' principles, as read by Mr. Wheeler, follows:

"1—Sound industrial development must have as its foundation productive efficiency, and high productive efficiency requires not only energy, loyalty, and intelligence on the part of management and men, but sincere co-operation in the employment relation based upon mutual confidence and sympathy.

This is true of all producing industries, large and small, of the farming industry as well as the manufacturing. While there are differences between the different branches of industry which call for special application as to underlying principles, these principles are the same in all.

"Without efficiency in production, that is to say without a large production economically produced, there will be no fund for the payment of adequate compensation for labor, management and capital, and high cost of living will inevitably continue. Moreover, without such efficiency it will be impossible for American industry successfully to compete in foreign markets or with foreign competition in this country. The larger and more effective the production the greater will be the return to all engaged in the industry and the lower the cost of living.

"The requisite efficiency in production cannot be secured unless there is effective co-operation between employer and employe, such as is only possible where, with a full understanding of each other's point of view, management and men meet upon a common ground of principle and in a spirit of co-operation based upon good understanding and a recognition of what is fair and right between the two. Then only can there be that harmony which will insure the prosperity of those engaged in industry and of all the people.

"With full recognition of the vital importance of these conditions and with due realization of the great responsibility resting upon management to secure their proper application in industrial affairs we submit the following principles which we regard as fundamentally sound in the interest of industry, of those employed or concerned in industry, and of the people as a whole.

"—Production.—The industrial organization as a productive agency is an association of management, capital, and labor, voluntarily established for economic production through co-operative effort, in which management as manager is entrusted to co-ordinate and direct capital and labor for the joint benefit of all parties concerned, and in the interest of the consumer and of the community. No employment relation can be satisfactory or can fulfill its functions for the common good which does not encourage and require management and men to recognize a joint as well as an individual obligation to improve and increase the quantity and quality of production to as great an extent as possible consistent with the health and well-being of the workers.

"There should be no intentional restriction of productive effort or output by either the employer or the employe to create an artificial scarcity of the product or of labor, in order to increase prices or wages; nor should there be any waste in the productive capacity of industry, through the employment of unnecessary labor or inefficient management.

"It is the duty of management on the farms and in industry and commerce as far as possible to procure the capital necessary for the increased production that is required, and of both management and labor to co-operate to promote the use of capital in the most efficient fashion.

"2—The establishment as a productive unit. Recognizing the co-operative relationship between management and men essential to productive efficiency as a prerequisite for national and individual well being, the establishment rather than the industry as a whole or any branch of it should, as far as practicable, be considered as the unit of production and of mutual interest on the part of employer and employe. Here, by experimentation and adaptation should be worked out and set up satisfactory means for co-operative relations in the operation of the establishment with due regard to local factors.

"Each establishment should develop contact and opportunity for interchange of view between management and men, through individual or collective dealing or a combination of both, or by some other effective method, always predicated on both sides on honesty of purpose, fairness of attitude, and due recognition of the joint interest and obligation in the common enterprise in which they are engaged.

Conditions of Work.

"Mere machinery is not enough for this purpose. There must also be sympathy and good will, with earnest intent that whatever the means employed, they must be effective.

"3—Conditions of work. It is the duty of management to make certain that the conditions under which work is carried on are as safe and as satisfactory to the workers as the nature of the business reasonably permits. Every effort should be made to maintain steady employment of the workers both on their account and to increase efficiency. Each establishment should study carefully the causes of unemployment and individually and in co-operation with other establishments in the same and other industries should endeavor to determine and to maintain conditions and business methods which will result in the greatest possible stability in the employment relation.

"4—Wages. While the law of supply and demand must inevitably play a large part in determining the wages in any industry or any establishment at any particular time, other conditions must be taken into account such as the efficiency of the workers and the wage standard of the industry in the locality. The wage should be so adjusted as to promote the maximum incentive consistent with health and well-being and the full exercise of individual skill and effort. Moreover, the business in each establishment and generally in industry should be so conducted that the worker should receive a wage sufficient to maintain him and his family at a standard of living that should be satisfactory to a right-minded man in view of the prevailing cost of living, which should fairly recognize the quantity and quality of his productive effort and the value and length of his service, and reflect a participation on his part in the prosperity of the enterprise to which he is devoting his energy.

"Many plans are now under consideration for adding to the fixed wage of the worker, such, for example, as bonus payments, profit sharing, and stock ownership. All such plans should be carefully studied by each establishment. It may well be that in many instances the employer and the employe could work out an arrangement of such a character to their mutual advantage.

"In order that the worker may in his own and the general interest develop his full earning capacity and command his maximum wage, it should be a primary concern of management to assist him to secure employment suited to his ability, to furnish him incentive and opportunity for improvement, to provide proper safeguards for his health and safety, and to aid him to increase the value of his productive effort.

"Where women are doing work equal with that of men under the same conditions, they should receive the same rates of pay as men and should be accorded the same opportunities for training and advancement.

Work Schedules and Disputes.

"5. Hours of Work.—Hours of work schedules should be fixed at the point consistent with the health of the worker and his right to an adequate period of leisure for rest, recreation, home life, and self-development. To the extent that the work schedule is shortened beyond this point the worker as well as the community must inevitably pay in the form of a reduced standard of living.

"The standard of the work schedule should be the week, varying as the peculiar requirements of individual industries may demand. Overtime work should, as far as possible, be avoided, and one day of rest in seven should be provided.

"6—Settlement of Disputes.—Each establishment should provide adequate means for the discussion of all questions and the just and prompt settlement of all disputes that arise between management and men in the course of industrial operation, but there should be no improper limitation or impairment of the exercise by management of its essential function of judgment and direction.

"7. Right to Associate.—All men have the right to associate voluntarily for the accomplishment of lawful purposes by lawful means. The association of men, whether of employers, employes, or others, for collective action or dealing, confers no authority and involves no right of compulsion over those who do not desire to act or deal with them as an association. The arbitrary use of such collective power to coerce or control others without their consent is an infringement of personal liberty and a menace to the institutions of a free people.

"8. Responsibility of Associations.—The public safety requires that there shall be no exercise of power without corresponding responsibility. Every association, whether of employers or employes, must be equally subject to public authority and legally answerable for its own conduct or that of its agents.

"9. Freedom of Contract.—With the right to associate recognized, the fundamental principles of individual freedom demand that every person must be free to engage in any lawful occupation or enter into any lawful contract as an employer or an employe, and be secure in the continuity and rewards of his effort.

"The only qualification to which such liberty of contract is subject lies in the power of the State, within limits imposed by the Constitution, to regulate in the public interest, for example, for the promotion of health, safety, and morals.

The Closed and Open Shop.

"10. The Open Shop.—The principles of individual liberty and freedom of contract upon which our investigations are fundamentally based require that there should be no interference with the open shop—that is, the shop in which membership or non-membership in any association is not made a condition of employment. While fair argument and persuasion are permissible, coercive methods aimed at turning the open shop into a 'closed union' or 'closed non-union shop' should not be tolerated.

"There should be no denial of the right of an employer and his workers voluntarily to agree that their relation shall be that of the closed union shop or the closed non-union shop.

"But the right of the employer and his men to continue their relations on the principle of the 'open shop' should not be denied or questioned. No employer should be required to deal with men or groups of men who are not his employes or chosen by and from among them.

"Under the organization of the 'open shop' there is not the same opportunity for outside interference on the part of other interests to prevent close and harmonious relations between employer and employe. Their efforts to continue or secure such harmonious relationship are not complicated to the same extent by intervention of an outside interest which may have aspirations and plans of its own to promote which may not necessarily consistent with good relations in the shop.

"11. The right to strike or lockout. In the statement of the principle that should govern as to the right to strike or lockout, a sharp distinction should be drawn between the employment relations in the field of (a) of the private industry, (b) of the public utility service, and (c) of Government employment, Federal, State or municipal. In all three there are common rights and obligations but, in so far as the right to strike or lockout is concerned, the nature of the Government service and public utility operations requires that they should be considered from a somewhat different point of view than private industry.

"In private industry the strike or the lockout is to be deplored, but the right to strike or lockout should not be denied as an ultimate resort after all possible means of adjustment have been exhausted. Both employers and employes should recognize the seriousness of such action and should be held to a high responsibility for the same.

"The statement that the right to strike or lockout should not be denied does not cover the matter of the sympathetic strike or lockout, where, for mere purposes of coercion, there is a combination deliberately inflicting injury upon parties against whom the assailants have no grievance, for the purpose of accomplishing an ulterior result. The sympathetic strike is indefensible, anti-social and immoral. The same may be said of the blacklist, the boycott, and also the sympathetic lockout.

"In public utility service the public interest and welfare must be the paramount and controlling consideration. Modern social life demands the uninterrupted and unimpaired operation of such service, upon which individuals and communities are so dependent as the human life on the uninterrupted circulation of the blood. The State should therefore impose such regulations as will assure continuous operation, at the same time providing adequate means for the prompt hearing and adjustment of complaints and disputes.

"In Government employment the orderly and continuous administration of governmental activities is imperative. A strike of Government employes is an attempt to prevent the operation of Government until the demands of such employes are granted, and cannot be tolerated. No public servant can obey two masters. He cannot divide his allegiance between the Government which he serves and a private organization which, under any circumstances, might obligate him to suspend his duties, or agrees to assist him morally or financially if he does. Social self-defense demands that no combination to prevent the operation of Government be permitted. The right of Government employes to be heard and to secure just redress should be amply safeguarded.

"12. Training.—Practical plans should be inaugurated in industry and outside of it for the training and upgrading of industrial workers, their proper placement in industry, the adoption and adaptation of apprenticeship systems, the extension of vocational education and such other adjustments of our educational system to the needs of industry as will prepare the worker for more effective and profitable service to society and to himself.

"The foregoing is limited to a statement of principles. Only casual reference has been made to methods by which such principles may be carried into effect. The problems are so serious and difficult that such methods must be worked out by the individual establishments in conjunction with their employes and by industry as a whole."

Mr. Lorer is the resolution submitted by Mr. Lorer:

"Resolved, That the Congress be requested to appoint a committee to consider the information collected and reports made by the various Government departments and agencies, with a view to their preparation and co-ordination, so that reasonably exact information may be had of the population, occupied and unoccupied, male and female, and their several activities, so far as they may be classified; the home income and the income received from foreign investments and the several sources of the same; the wages, salaries, and profits of the principal industries and their aggregate; the surplus and the necessary deductions therefrom—depreciation; taxes, local, State, and Federal; contributions to charities, current and endowed; royalties, interest, rent, advertising, sales expenses, &c., the savings necessary for the progress of an increasing population and the spendable income of management and capital; and

"Resolved, That as the decennial census is to be taken in 1920, it is of the first importance that advantage be taken of this early opportunity to secure data that will aid in the prompt determination of facts illuminative of the industrial situation."

Alleging that there can be no industrial peace or any permanent reduction in the high cost of living until the principles of the program of the Farmers' National Council for Economic Reconstruction is adopted by the conference, the Farmers' Council today made this declaration of principles:

"1. Government ownership and development of the natural resources of the country now being privately developed with prodigious wastefulness.

"2. Government ownership and democratic operation of the entire transportation system of the country's railroad systems, pipe lines, and the merchant marine.

"3. The prompt enactment into legislation of the Federal Trade Commission's recommendations regarding the meat packing industry.

"4. A revision of our money and credit system to make credit as available and as cheap to farmers as to any other legitimate and responsible industry.

"5. The rapid retirement of the indebtedness incurred for the conduct of the war by heavy taxation of incomes, war profits, estates and natural resources in and on land held for speculation.

"DRY" ENFORCEMENT BILL GOES TO WILSON

House Approves the Conference Report by 321 to 70—Search Provision Stands.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Enactment of the Prohibition Enforcement bill was completed today by Congress with the House adopting the conference report, already agreed to by the Senate, and sending the measure to the President for approval.

Before the approval of the report by a vote of 321 to 70, a vain effort was made to send it back to conference, with instructions to eliminate a section permitting State authorities to issue search warrants.

Complete Congressional approval of the bill means that the days of 2.75 per cent. beer are numbered. The bill becomes effective as soon as signed by President Wilson, or within ten days, should his illness prevent him from acting on it. Simultaneously with the President's signature the wartime enforcement section becomes effective. This section, as well as the constitutional enforcement portion, prohibits manufacture or sale of any liquor containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol.

Anti-prohibition members of the House made their fight on the motion of Representative Igoe, (Dem., Mo.,) who protested against "State officers enforcing a Federal law" through their authority to issue search warrants, and complained that a similar provision had been defeated in the House.

Representative Webb of North Carolina said that the House disapproval of the provision was due to the false impression that State officials would have the power of arrest as well as search. The House voted down the Igoe motion, 215 to 83.

RUMOR OF PACKERS' ESCAPE

Chicago Hears That Federal Grand Jury Has Refused to Indict Them.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Considerable interest and much speculation were aroused in the Federal Building today by the persistent report that indictments against the packers had been refused by the Federal Grand Jury. United States District Attorney Clyne is hurrying to Washington, it is believed, to report to Attorney General Palmer on the situation. In fact, a similar rumor has already reached Washington and is under discussion there.

Efforts to trace the source of the rumor at the Federal Building failed, although for several days it has been predicted that no indictments against the packers would be forthcoming.

Whether or not the trip of Mr. Clyne to Washington was for the purpose of conferring with Attorney General on the evidence against the packers could not be learned.

The Civil Service.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for unskilled laborer for men to be held at New York City to establish a register from which to make appointments to all branches in the Federal service in New York City and Brooklyn. Applications should be obtained at Room 310, Custom House, New York and filed at that place not later than the close of business on Oct. 25. Applicants must be citizens of the United States and not less than 20 years nor more than 50 years of age, except that age limits are waived in cases of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors or marines. An Act of Congress approved July 11, 1919, provides: "That hereafter in making appointments to clerical and other positions in the executive branch of the Government in the District of Columbia or elsewhere preference shall be given to honorably discharged soldiers, sailors, and marines." An applicant entitled to the benefit of this act should submit with his application his original discharge, a photostat or certified copy thereof, or the official record of his service. It will be returned after inspection. Applications from men less than 5 feet 6 inches in height, without shoes, and less than 150 pounds in weight in ordinary clothing will be cancelled. Unskilled laborers are paid from $720 to $1,000 per annum.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Warm weather continued during Friday throughout the East and South States, while much cooler weather has overspread the upper Lake region, the upper Mississippi Valley, and the Southern Plains States. Temperature is rising again in the Northwest. Freezing temperature prevailed Friday morning in the upper Mississippi Valley, the North Plains States, and the Rocky Mountain and Plateau region, the lowest temperature reported was eight degrees above zero at Cheyenne, Wyo. During the last twenty-four hours there were showers in the Atlantic States north of Virginia and in the Ohio and upper Mississippi Valleys, the region of the Great Lakes, and the West Gulf States.

The disturbance that was over Lake Superior Thursday night has moved to the St. Lawrence Valley and diminished in intensity. Pressure remains relatively low in the Rio Grande Valley and it is falling in the Northwest.

The outlook is for considerably cooler Saturday and Sunday in the Middle Atlantic and New England States, the lower Lake region, and the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the East Gulf States. Cooler weather is also probable Sunday in the South Atlantic States, except the Florida Peninsula. Showers are probable Saturday in the Middle Atlantic and New England States, Tennessee and West Virginia, and Saturday and Sunday in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States. In the region of the Great Lakes the weather will be generally fair Saturday and Sunday.

Winds Off Atlantic Coast.—North of Sandy Hook, Sandy Hook to Hatteras, Fresh southwest and west winds and showery weather; East Gulf Coast, moderate east and southeast winds, partly cloudy weather, probably occasional showers; West Gulf States, fresh northeast and east winds, showery weather.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND SATURDAY.

Southern New England, Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey.—Cloudy and cooler, probably showers Saturday; Sunday partly cloudy and much cooler.

Northern New England.—Partly cloudy and much cooler Saturday, preceded by showers in the morning; Sunday fair and cool.

Western Pennsylvania, Western New York.—Partly cloudy and much cooler Saturday; Sunday partly cloudy and cool.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

ENRIGHT UPHOLDS MORALE OF POLICE

Quotes Figures to Show That Criticisms of the Department Are Unfounded.

ASSAILS CITIZENS UNION

Asserts That Organization Has Fallen Into the Hands of "Cheap Politicians."

Police Commissioner Enright yesterday replied to the criticism of the Citizens Union that policemen were being reinstated illegally and that the ranks of the police force were demoralized. Commissioner Enright gave a detailed account of crime in the city in the last two years and charged that the Citizens Union was trying to break down the morale and discipline of the force. Mayor Hylan took a hand in the controversy by instructing the Police Commissioner to "pay no attention to the Citizens Union."

The Commissioner's report was in the form of a letter to the Mayor and in it he cited figures to show that there had not only been a decrease in the number of major crimes reported, but a proportionate increase in the number of arrests made for the crimes committed.

Prefacing his figures, the Commissioner in his letter said:

> The Citizens' Union is at it again. They now say the department is demoralized, that crime is rampant, and that men dismissed from this department have been improperly and illegally reinstated. As usual, they are careless about the truth. During the year 1919 there was a heavy decrease in crime, including the four most serious felonies, namely homicide, felonious assault, robbery, and burglary, as compared with 1917, the last year of the previous administration.

This is the table the Commissioner submitted:

	1918. Reptd. Ar'sts.	1917. Reptd. Ar'sts.
Homicide	221 256	280
Felonious assault	2,554 3,483	2,599 4,283
Robbery	849 1,143	864 1,279
Total	10,836 7,126	13,141 8,792

The total figures for the same class of crimes for the first eight months of 1919, as compared with the first eight months of 1917, is entirely to the credit of this administration. Not only has there been a decrease, but a larger number of arrests have been made in proportion to the number of crimes, but this record, in the opinion of the Citizens' Union, seems to constitute efficiency in 1917 and inefficiency and demoralization in 1919:

	First Eight Months of 1919. Reptd.	First Eight Months of 1917. Reptd.	Arrests.	Arrests.	Per cent. of advance.
Homicide	166	233	154	186
Felonious assault	1,741	2,569	1,971	3,302
Robbery	817	1,193	632	766
Burgary	5,174	2,139	6,845	1,785
Total	7,898	6,134	9,570	5,039

Calls Attacks Malicious.

In view of these facts the Citizens' Union and a number of newspapers in this city have for some time been carrying on a propaganda in a desperate effort to destroy confidence in this department and break down the morale of the force. These malicious and unjust attacks upon this department at a time when, with a much depleted force, the department is straining every nerve to meet the extraordinary conditions connected with and succeeding the world war, are almost criminal, especially [illegible] brought to headquarters charges which, if true, would, as testified under oath that they were incited to commit crime in this city because of these greatly exaggerated statements, which had led them to believe that crime could be perpetrated in this city with little fear of detection and arrest.

The Commissioner pointed out that in a period of two and a half years during the previous administration a total of thirty-five men who had been dismissed from the department had been reinstated, while the present administration had reinstated only thirty men under the same law and rulings.

"All of the applications for reinstatement presented to this administration," he said, "were considered by the Executive Board, and upon their recommendation a rehearing was granted or denied. When a rehearing was granted the case was heard by one of the trial Commissioners, both of whom were lawyers of standing in this city and are familiar with the law and rulings of the Corporation Counsel governing these cases.

"There was a time in this city when the Citizens' Union was a force for good and their criticisms were non-partisan, constructive, and unbiased, but it is evident that this organization has fallen into the hands of a group of cheap politicians whose criticisms and observations are entirely unfair, untruthful, and destructive."

Mayor Assails Union.

In his reply to Commissioner Enright the Mayor said, in part:

> As I told you some time ago, pay no attention to the Citizens' Union, as it is composed of three men—William J. Schieffelin, who is a so-called reformer, and who is connected with Schieffelin & Co., wholesale dealers in drugs, which company's record in part can be found in the Federal court; Wallstein, a lawyer, who was formerly Commissioner of Accounts and who did nothing for the people while on the payroll of the city, and A. M. Ardolf, Secretary, who is their official mouthpiece.
> This same Citizens Union is in favor of an increased fare for the traction interests of the city, and is criticising my Administration because I am opposed to the traction interests taking millions of dollars out of the pockets of the people.
> Neither the Citizens Union nor its traction subscribers can force this Administration to favor an increased fare.

Leonard M. Wallstein, counsel to the City Government Committee of the Citizens Union, issued a statement last night in which he said that Commissioner Enright had confirmed the absolute illegality of police reinstatements. He said the Commissioner, under the city charter requirements, was without jurisdiction to consider any of the eighteen applications which the Citizens Union had said were granted illegally.

"As to Mr. Enright's crime statistics during his own administration," said Mr. Wallstein, "they will convince no one, because they are based upon losable loose card entries made under cover of a policy which suppresses so far as possible all news of crime."

RECOMMEND $15,000,000 MORE FOR AIRPLANES

Senators Hear Army's Plans for Routes to Panama, Alaska, and Asia.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Senate Military Committee voted unanimously today to recommend an additional appropriation of $15,000,000 for Army aircraft construction so that plans of the Air Service to establish routes to Panama, Alaska and even to Asia may be carried out.

Action by the committee followed the appearance of Secretary Baker and Brig. Gen. Mitchell of the Air Service to explain the army's plans.

General Mitchell said a three-day flight to Alaska across Canada would be attempted this Winter. If cold weather flying proved successful, he added, a regular route to Alaska would be established to be followed probably by a route to Asia, with only a 21-mile water span to be crossed. The Panama route, he said, would be via Florida and Cuba and both routes should be developed, he added, for military reasons.

Congress voted $25,000,000 for aviation in the army bill. Secretary Baker asked that the additional $15,000,000 be appropriated in the pending deficiency bill. With a total of $40,000,000, General Mitchell said, it is proposed to build 200 pursuit Liberty motored planes, 200 Martin bombers and 200 experimental pursuit planes.

A new device known as the "turbo-booster" is being perfected, the committee was told, with which altitudes of 40,000 or 50,000 feet can be reached.

Construction for the American army of Handley-Page and Caproni machines had been abandoned, General Mitchell said, and those bought in England will not be completed. He added that 2,500 Liberty motors had been allotted to England under the armistice agreement and that England insisted on delivery.

YESTERDAY'S FUR SALE.

Pelts of Skunk and Varieties of Cats Among the Offerings.

Skunk, "America's leading fur," had everything its own way at the fur sale here yesterday. The fine demand for these skins on both sides of the Atlantic, coupled with the high quality of the collection—which contained a large percentage of fine pelts—not only was responsible for active bidding on the part of buyers, but resulted in prices that, as a whole, were regarded as unusually high. The best skunk brought $9 per skin, and, while this was not a record figure, it was indicative of the general upward trend of prices. Many of the skins bought here yesterday were said to be for export to European countries. The prices got for them, as well as those obtained for skunk bought for domestic consumption, averaged 25 per cent. higher than was paid at the April sale here.

Yesterday's selling really got under way with the offering of ringtail cat. This fur is used to considerable extent in the dyed-fox trade as a substitute for kolinsky in the trimming of women's outer garments in the more popular-priced varieties, and is often seen in the form of collars and cuffs on coats and suits. Nearly 10,000 house cats were disposed of at prices that fetched as high as $1.50 for fine big black and blue-black skins. All of the prime skins were taken by a single buyer. This fur has for some time been cut up into sets, both in this country and abroad, and sold to the poorer people. Because of the devastation and hard times resulting from the war it is expected that its use in this way on the other side will be larger this Winter than has ever been the case before. As against this it was asserted that there might be a falling off here in the call for this type of fur set because of the increased buying power of many workers who formerly bought them for their women folk or children. Unofficial records have it that the $1.50 price paid for black cat here yesterday was the highest yet got at a sale in this city.

Civet cat, which sold up to $1.06 for the best skins, registered the highest advance over April of any of the articles sold yesterday, with an average rise of 35 per cent. For several lots of these skins bidding was as active as for some of the more expensive furs.

	Low price.	High price.	Per cent. of advance.
Ringtail cat	40c	$3.15	..
Civet cat	10c	1.06	35

Sundries, including twenty-two varieties of furs in quantities ranging from thirty-one mountain lions to 19,000 barunduki, were also sold yesterday at prices that were said by buyers to average high. So much time was taken up in disposing of them, however, that it was impossible in the time allotted to finish the day's selling schedule. Because of this today's morning session will start at 9:30 sharp, instead of 10 o'clock, with the cross fox and bear collections that were put over from yesterday.

Today will be the "big" day of the sale, not only in that the largest number of pelts to be offered on any single day will be put on the block, but because of the wide interest displayed in the collections of natural and black muskrats to be sold. There is no question but that the rush to get these pelts will be the "high spot" of the entire sale. Other offerings on the final day will include hair seals, badgers, ponies, red foxes, fitches, and squirrels.

ROCHAMBEAU IS LATE.

Steamer Docked Yesterday After Delay Because of Congested Piers.

After being held down the Bay for eighteen hours on account of the congestion of freight at the French Line pier, the steamship Rochambeau docked yesterday at the foot of West Fifteenth Street, with 398 cabin and 373 steerage passengers from Havre. All of the baggage had to be carried by hand to the lower deck of the pier because the upper part of this pier was packed with westbound freight and the elevator men had joined the strikers.

Among the passengers on the Rochambeau was a commission from the Ecole Polytechnique headed by General Cirmille, who had come to present to the Military Academy at West Point the replica of a statue which stands in the grounds of their own institution in Paris. After stopping for a few days in this city at the Hotel Vanderbilt, the commissioners will go to West Point and witness the unveiling of the statue on Oct. 21. Other members of the commission were Albert Gatine, of the French Treasury, Edouard Roume, formerly Governor General of Indo-China, four officers and four cadets of the Ecole Polytechnique, and others. They were met at the pier by Lieut-Col. Lull, Chief of Staff of the United States Military Academy.

To Fill West Point, Annapolis Places

Congressman F. H. La Guardia, who makes his appointments to West Point and Annapolis through competitive examinations, has two vacancies to fill in the army and navy schools. An examination for these vacancies will be held Oct. 18, in the Custom House, conducted by the United States Civil Service Commissioner. Applicants must be actual residents of the Fourteenth Congressional District, and those who have not received admitaance cards should apply to Congressman La Guardia, Hotel Imperial, Room 128.

SENATE DEMANDS REPORT ON MINOR

Asks Baker Now to Furnish "Forthwith" Particulars in War Correspondent's Case.

BOLSHEVIKI HERE ASSAILED

Senator King Wants Government Service Purged of Extremists and Martens Deported.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Senate, having failed to get any response to the resolution adopted ten weeks ago requesting Secretary Baker to report whether Robert A. Minor, who went into the military zone in France as a war correspondent and was arrested by the American military authorities "for circulating seditious publications and propaganda," and the reasons for his discharge from custody, adopted today a second resolution directing Mr. Baker to "report forthwith" on the case.

The original resolution, passed by the Senate on July 3, asked why Minor was arrested and the reasons for not going ahead with the trial in France when the military authorities had assembled their witnesses and were ready to proceed.

The adoption of the present resolution was marked by debate in which Senator Poindexter of Washington, Republican, and Senator King of Utah, Democrat, denounced the appointment of men of radical and alleged Bolshevist tendencies to positions in the Government.

"I want to call the attention of the Senator from Utah," said Senator Poindexter, "to the fact that this man Robert Minor, referred to in the resolution, who was arrested in France for attempting to arouse sedition in the American Army, and preaching communistic propaganda to American soldiers in France, has not ceased his activities.

"He has returned to the United States, and is creating a situation that is somewhat parallel to the situation that resulted from the action of the Government of the United States in intervening in behalf of Leon Trotzky. Trotzky was a well-known revolutionist in the United States. He left the United States en route to Russia. He was arrested by the Canadian authorities because they regarded his voyage to Russia during the war, knowing his views and activities, as a menace. He was detained a considerable time by the Canadian authorities. The Government of the United States intervened in Trotzky's behalf and by bringing its influence to bear upon the Canadian Government, succeeded in having his passports accepted.

"He went to Russia, and the result is well known. He was one of the principal factors in bringing about the establishment in Russia of that régime which has led to Russia's destruction.

"So it is with Minor, who by some authority, evidently above General Pershing, was released from the custody of the court-martial of the American Expeditionary Force, set free and allowed to return to America to continue his revolutionary activities here, with what consequences the future remains to tell."

Senator Poindexter read to the Senate extracts from an article in The Topeka Daily Capital, including a statement that President Wilson intervened in the Minor case.

"I do not vouch for the statement in regard to the President's intervention," he explained. "I only read what is stated in the newspaper, although it is perfectly evident that his release was from some high authority."

Senator King said he expressed just as strong condemnation of the conduct of some of the executive agencies of the Government as did the Senator from Washington "for surrounding themselves with, or permitting themselves to be with, in their departments, radical extremists whose aim is to destroy our form of government." He continued:

"There have been too many men like Bullitt and Minor, who have crept into some departments and agencies and bureaus and activities of the Government during the past two years. They ought to be purged out, and it ought to be known that the authorities of his Government do not tolerate propaganda of that character.

"The Senator just called attention to Mr. Minor. After he was released, as was stated by the Senator, from his imprisonment in France, he came back to the United States, and took part, participated in a meeting at New York. The newspaper descriptions indicated that it was a good deal of a riot, and he and Dudley Field Malone, who at one time masqueraded as a Democrat, addressed the gathering and Mr. Minor, in that meeting eulogized the Russian Soviet form of government, and preached the same anarchy and destruction which he advocated in the meeting to which the Senator from Washington has just called our attention.

"I wish the Department of Labor and Executive authorities of the Government would do likewise here in the United States Mr. Martens, the so-called Soviet 'ambassador' representative, and others belonging to other nations who are here industriously seeking to overthrow our form of Government. I have called the attention of the Department of Labor, in a written communication, as well as of the Attorney General, in a written communication, to the activities of Mr. Martens and to others who are in the United States, in violation of law. They are anarchists. They are seeking the destruction of our Government by force and violence, and therefore come within the terms of the statute and they ought to be deported.

"Certainly, if the Department of Labor and other Executive of the Government will do their duty and enforce the law, they will drive from our midst this pestiferous and poisonous gang that are going throughout the land spreading anarchy, preaching violence and seeking the destruction of our form of Government."

Senator McCumber of North Dakota, suggested that if "any of these had been deported, the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations would have been deprived of some of their star witnesses that were called against the League of Nations."

HOME WEEK FOR JERSEY.

Gov. Runyon Advocates Building and Loan Association Campaign.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 10.—Stating that the week of Oct. 11-18 had been set aside by State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance Frank H. Smith for a campaign to increase the membership in Building and Loan Associations, so that the housing problem may be relieved and the instinct of thrift be instilled, Governor Runyon today issued a proclamation designating that week as "Building and Loan Week."

The situation now existing, the proclamation pointed out, is one that calls for unusual and patriotic measures to aid in solving difficulties so that the spirit of unrest shall be stilled through the medium of happy homes. It urged that adequate plans be made so the people of New Jersey may become acquainted with the opportunities presented by the building and loan plan, and attention was called to the fact that the associations are safeguarded by State laws. The proclamation asked that the benefits and advantages of these organizations be set forth by canvassing in theatres, pulpits and other public gatherings, and said in conclusion: "Happiness exists in homes that are owned. Unrest, discontent and Bolshevism have no chance here. The State as a unit should rally to this campaign."

COMMODITIES PRICES.

The Drop in Some Foodstuffs Was a Feature This Week.

Prices generally showed a downward trend in the local commodities markets during the week, according to Dun's list. This tendency was especially marked in the foodstuffs, where the declines outnumbered the advances by a little more than two to one. There were some small increases in the dairy products, but they were more than offset by declines in other directions, notably in provisions. In the general list a total of only forty-nine changes was shown this week, of which twenty-eight were declines. Last week, when there were fifty-five revisions, twenty-nine declines were listed.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities in this city this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

Spring patent flour did not change in the local market for provisions this week, but there was a drop of 15 cents a barrel in the price of Winter "straights." Bacon declined still further under the depressing influence of the selling of additional quantities of army meat, but hams were unchanged. In the major provisions market at Chicago not an advance was shown. Live beef, live sheep and short ribs did not change, while declines were shown in live hogs, Middle Western lard and mess pork.

The local dairy products list showed a slight rise in the best butter, but the under grades did not change. No revisions were seen in cheese prices. Fancy nearby eggs moved up another cent a dozen, but a decline since this time last year cut the margin favoring the 1919 price to 10 cents a dozen. The best Western eggs lost a part of their sharp advance of last week, having dropped 2 cents a dozen. Neither the fresh nor the dried fruit list showed a change, but in the vegetables choice medium and choice pea beans were lower. The biggest change in the vegetables was a drop of 50 cents a barrel in potatoes. They still cost three times what they did a year ago at this time, however. No changes took place in spices or teas during the week, but the basic Brazilian coffees were higher.

The changes in the grains consisted of an advance in malting barley and declines in corn, oats and timothy hay. In the metals the only revisions, in spite of the steel strike, were a rise in spelter and a decline in tin. Both the hide and the leather lists were bare of changes, and it is said to look now as if the crest of the price wave had been reached. With the tanners' buying season close at hand, hides prices have got to go one way or the other soon if they are going to change at all.

One of the features of the changes in the combined list for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs, and oils was the general weakness in the oils. Among the declines shown in them were a sharp break in raw linseed oil for the second successive week. Further sharp breaks in resin and turpentine marked the week in the naval stores. The tobacco list returned to a parity participated in a meeting at New York. The newspaper descriptions indicated that it was a good deal of a riot, and he and Dudley Field Malone, who at one time masqueraded as a Democrat, addressed the gathering and Mr. Minor, in that meeting eulogized the Russian Soviet form of government, and preached the same anarchy and destruction which he advocated in the meeting to which the Senator from Washington has just called our attention.

Veilings as Gifts.

The manufacturers of veilings have started a campaign to encourage the sale of their goods as gifts during the holiday season. Retailers will be asked to feature veilings rather than put them in the background during the pre-holiday period. The idea of veilings as Christmas gifts was first started last year, and proved so successful that the manufacturers felt that concerted effort on their part this year would yield very good results. A special committee of the veiling manufacturers' association has been appointed to interest retailers in the movement.

Vending Machines for Mexico.

An order received from an exporter with clients in Southern Mexico called upon a local manufacturer of vending machines to furnish eighty in loud, flashy colors, so they might attract attention. It is also specified that the machines be made so that they stand all sorts of weather. The kind of colors desired proved interesting to the manufacturer. He mentioned also that, despite the low clerk hire in Japan, inquiries have also been received by him from concerns wishing the agency for his machine in that country.

Australian Wool Shipment.

The following statement was issued yesterday by the Manufacturers' Committee that was appointed to obtain shipments of Australian wool. "In consequence of rumors circulated in the market, the Manufacturers' Committee has made a careful investigation of the present status of the proposed shipments of Australian wool for sale in the United States. As a result they are assured that the arrangement suggested by the committee for the first 50,000 bales has actually been made and will be carried out. The wool upon arrival will be offered for sale." The rumors mentioned, it was explained yesterday, reported that Australian wools would not be received in this market.

Sheetings Again Sell Well.

Sheetings had another active day in the local gray goods market yesterday, although the really big business was limited to three or four constructions. Practically all of the business was done for delivery during the remainder of the present year, the mills being unwilling to trade past the turn into 1920 in the face of a rising market. Among the business put through in a good-sized way were sales of 37-inch 48 square four-yard sheetings at 17 cents, 36-inch five-yard goods at 14½ cents, and 36-inch 5.50s at 13¼ cents. Not a great deal was reported concerning drills. Sateens and other clothing styles repeated their activity of the previous day, and large sales of 39-inch 64-104 4.20-yard sateens were reported at 30 cents.

Dress Manufacturers to Meet.

A meeting of the members of the Associated Dress Industries of America will be held next week at the Holland House, to hear various reports made on matters of vital importance to the industry. Executive Director David N. Mosessohn will review the activities of the association since its inception, and will also tell of its future plans. These are said to include several constructive movements never before attempted by an organization in the garment industry. Among the other business will be the selection of a Nominating Committee to submit names of candidates for office in the association during the coming year. It included the committee reports to be made will be one dealing with the proposed Fordney 1 per cent. sales tax.

Questionnaire on Retail Costs.

The National Retail Dry Goods Association has sent out a questionnaire to members asking for data on costs in certain departments. This action was taken at the instance of the committee of retail store owners who have been called upon by the Department of Justice to furnish information regarding costs. The questionnaire will be completed by Oct. 20, and those not called by those answering to make known the names of their firms. This co-operation with the Government department, it was explained, is in line with the desire of the department stores of the country to go more than half way in helping the Federal officials in their investigation of conditions affecting the cost of living.

Dyestuff Licensing Discussed.

At the invitation of the American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers, representatives from eighteen different trade organizations in the textile, paper, and pulp and needle trades met yesterday at the Hotel Astor to discuss the licensing provisions of pending dyestuffs legislation. No action was taken at the meeting, as it was expressly stated in the letter calling the conference that it was merely intended as an exchange of views pro and con on dyestuff legislation. The feeling exists among some of the leading textile men that a sane, thoughtful discussion of the subject would be welcome, as a good many of the original opinions were not based on a full knowledge of what Congress is being asked to do to protect the domestic dye industry.

Gray Goods Buyers Active.

Buyers of gray goods let little grass grow under their feet in the local market yesterday, particularly those who had an eye on the rising prices for printcloths. For 1919 deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s buyers freely paid 17½ cents, and there were unconfirmed rumors of some sales of these goods having been made at the same price for shipment up to April 1. Sales of 38½-inch 60-48s were made for delivery from spot up to April next at 15 cents, but the nearby goods moved at that figure only early in the day. Later sellers were asking 15¼ cents for these positions. Twenty-two cents was paid for 39-inch 68-72s for delivery to the end of this year, while for shipment through the first quarter of next year they brought a half cent less. The same story was true of 39-inch 72-76s at 23 and 22½ cents, respectively. Mills were said to be offering 39-inch 80 squares at 27½ cents for shipment to April without takers.

Many Paid Ahead of Time.

Yesterday was the "big day" in dry goods jobbing circles for the payment of accounts incurred by retailers in the purchasing of Fall merchandise, but so much of the money due for this reason had been paid to the bigger wholesalers ahead of time in the shape of anticipated payments that the day lost quite a little of the significance it ordinarily would have had. Almost all of the larger retailers are said to have anticipated their bills and derived the benefit that this action brings. A number of the more progressive small merchants did so as well, but the payments made during the day by those who did not anticipate ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Total payments for the day in the case of one of the best-known houses exceeded those for April 10 by a large margin, reflecting the increased buying done for Fall as compared with last Spring, despite the high prices prevailing for all lines of dry goods. Business for next Spring, it was said, already gives promise of exceeding this Fall's.

Just What Is a Balkan Turban?

An out-of-town woman buyer of millinery dropped into the office of the Retail Millinery Association of America the other day and asked just what a Balkan turban was. In order to be absolutely sure of all details, a representative of the association got in touch with two authorities on the matter. The first said that it is a draped turban made of silk or cotton fabrics and so draped as to make it possible at a glance to distinguish from the number and nature of the twists just what the rank of the wearer is. The colors used in them, it was said, are red and black, either singly or in combination. Under no circumstances is green used, the representative of the association was told, as that is the sacred color of the Balkans. Authority No. 2 asserted that this type of turban is usually made of fur, and is wider at the top than at the bottom. This authority also said that the article should not be called a turban, but a fez. And so, as the famous showman said in relation to Daniel and the lions, "You pays your money and you takes your choice."

Vast Capital in Texas Oil

Figures furnished by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce as to the use of outside capital in the Texas oil fields are interesting. In less than 20 months the oil fields of North Central and West Texas have attracted vast amounts of capital from all parts of the world.

Within that time more than $1,000,000,000 has been expended in that section for leases alone; 1,800 wells are producing in the district, or are under process of drilling, representing a daily production of 180,000 barrels.

Oil worth $150,000,000 a year is being taken from these fields, which is 70 per cent. more than all the gold produced in the United States and Alaska combined.

Broad Stock List Records a Further Advance of Industrial Issues.

The process of bidding a selected few industrial stocks to new high records was resumed again yesterday, but at the same time the less favored issues displayed a great deal of strength. The market acted as though the wave of realizing sales of Thursday had fairly well rounded out the immediate desire of traders to turn paper profits into cash, and that new buying for the rise appeared yesterday morning. Certainly, prices throughout the session reflected a demand which was persistently in excess of offerings, and took little account of the holiday next Monday. Automobile and oil stocks performed in the spectacular fashion which has marked them for the last three months, but the steel and allied issues stood out as the more solid leaders of the day. Call money lent at 8 per cent. Offerings of time money were reported on a firmer basis than for some time past, the supply obtainable at 6 per cent. being restricted.

The Steel Corporation's report on bookings as of the end of September showed an increase of orders during the month about one-third as large as the August expansion. This was a natural result of the strike, for the corporation's management is understood to have declined to accept contracts on a large scale for some little time prior to the labor demonstration, preferring to see how mill operations would be affected. Then, too, some of the plants were able to produce and ship a substantial tonnage of materials despite the strike, and this tended to cut into accumulated orders. It was doubtful yesterday whether the report, showing an increase of only 175,535 tons in the bookings, received much consideration in stock market quarters, for the Street is looking so intently for the end of the strike that other matters are considered secondary. The recent speculative movement in the steel shares has accompanied estimates dealing with the problematical tonnage of orders which have been backed up since Sept. 15, and are expected to be placed by domestic and foreign consumers as soon as the way is clear. The dispatches from Washington in respect to the Industrial Conference showed in suggestions made by capital and labor groups that the steel strike was being kept clearly in the minds of the delegates, and promises to color to a marked degree such recommendations as are finally made. The principles enunciated by the "capital group" in support of the preservation of open shop practice in industry were studied yesterday as carefully as the demands of labor men had been previously, and the feeling was evident in Wall Street conversation that the atmosphere would be clearer when the central committee had rendered judgment on the suggestions made.

Sterling exchange advanced the better part of a cent to the pound. The other exchanges were sluggish with unimportant changes of quotations. The Bank of France disclosed in its weekly statement another large increase of currency, the gain over the week before being nearly $95,000,000. Coincident with this expansion was reported an increase of $60,000,000 in advances to the Government, which absorbed nearly two-thirds of the bank note increase. The balance, in large part, was believed in financial circles here to have been used the same way as previous omissions, namely, to replace German currency in Alsace-Lorraine and in Northern France where the German armies were.

TO PUT NAVY FOOD ON SALE NEXT WEEK

LARD GOES UP 2 CENTS

Community Markets, Inc., to Open Today at Third Avenue and 120th Street.

Jonathan C. Day, Commissioner of Markets, announced yesterday that he had arranged for the distribution of the first consignment of surplus navy food in the city. The navy supplies will be placed on sale the first part of next week. According to Commissioner Day, there will be canned beans, corn, evaporated milk, and salmon, all of which will retail at prices much below prevailing market quotations.

Another business venture that it is hoped will make for cheaper food is the Community Markets, Inc., which will open today in the building at Third Avenue and 120th Street. The markets will have for sale a quantity of army food, including bacon at 28 cents a pound, as well as evaporated fruits. Dr. Day said yesterday he would be present at the opening of the market to judge how the people regarded the matter.

In giving out the fair price list, Federal Food Administrator Arthur Williams issued the following statement concerning items on it:

"On the grocery list as compared with last week three items show an increase. The principal increase is in the price of domestic lima beans, which is 1¾ cents a pound, and lard, which has increased 2 cents a pound. As the increase in lima beans brings the price to about 18 cents a pound, and other beans are available at 10 cents and 12 cents a pound, the committee has decided to remove this item from the list for the present. The committee understands that other lima beans will soon be available in this market, when, if the price is satisfactory, the item will be restored to the Fair Price List.

"The reason for the increase in lard is not clear, as pork and pork products are falling in price. The committee, however, carries the item with the agreed upon margin of 6 cents a pound, making the retail price 36½ to 37 cents, but would advise the public that a great many New York stores are selling lard today at prices ranging from 28 cents to 33 cents a pound.

"Seven items on the list show decreases aggregating 2.83 cents. Were it not for the change in the lard price, nearly all of this figure would represent a net saving in the cost of groceries to the public.

"In the meats, the wholesale price of beef is reported stationary, and lamb has reacted to the wholesale prices of about three weeks ago. In view of the meat investigation now in progress, these earlier prices have continued to form the basis of the committee's meat schedule. Ham this week shows a reduction of 1 cent a pound, the other items remaining unchanged. Heretofore, the committee has been quoting only on sliced bacon, in preparing which there is considerable waste. Where customers purchase bacon without slicing, with the agreement of the master butchers, the differential has been reduced from 13 cents to 8 cents a pound, which is fully reflected in the retail price.

"The committee adds to the list this week army bacon, which is now available to the retail meat stores so long as the supply lasts at 30 cents a pound wholesale; the retail dealers are to receive a margin of 5 cents a pound where purchased in unbroken tins, and of 8 cents a pound where the tin is broken."

Congressman La Guardia, the Republican candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, met a committee of women from the Bronx yesterday and discussed the high cost of living. The Congressman promised to take up the matter of terminal markets according to the plans outlined by Dr. Day, and, if elected, said he would do his utmost to get some action on the matter.

STRIKE CHECKS GAIN IN STEEL ORDERS

But Steel Corporation Is Discouraging Placing of Orders Owing to Labor Disquiet.

The United States Steel Corporation yesterday reported the unfilled orders on its books on Sept. 30 as 6,284,638 tons, or a gain of 175,535 tons over the unfilled tonnage at the end of August when the orders amounted to 6,109,103 tons. The gain is not nearly as large as that which took place in the several preceding months, when the average was about 550,000 tons. This, however, was due to the steel strike, which it is asserted, caused the mills to discourage the placing of orders for the time being. On the other hand the gain is much better than was predicted in Wall Street where there usually is a pretty close approximation of what the tonnage figures will be.

The present unfilled tonnage is sufficient for five months of capacity operations by the Steel Corporation. Furthermore, it is the highest total of unfilled orders reported since January of this year when there was still a goodly sprinkling of war contracts which had not been eliminated from the order books. The fact that orders were discouraged has undoubtedly placed a backlog of orders pending, which will be placed as soon as the labor situation in the steel industry has returned to normal. This it is believed will mean that the gain which would normally have been made this month will find placement in the figures which are to come in the two succeeding months of this year. The demand for certain lines of steel continues to be urgent even though orders have been temporarily held up.

The unfilled tonnage now stands less than 2,000,000 tons below the figures at the close of last November. The peak of unfilled tonnage was reached in April, 1917, when the orders amounted to 12,183,083, or the highest in the history of the corporation.

The record of unfilled tonnage by months over the last three years is shown in the following table:

February	6,010,787	9,588,453	11,576,497
March	5,430,572	9,056,404	11,711,644
April	4,800,685	8,741,882	12,183,083
May	4,282,810	8,387,691	11,886,591
June	5,802,355	8,018,880	11,287,787
July	5,573,561	8,883,801	10,844,104
August	6,109,103	8,759,042	10,407,059
September	6,284,638	8,297,905	9,883,37
October	.....	8,357,209	9,600,675
November	.....	8,191,563	8,899,705
December	.....	7,979,152	9,381,718

The unfilled tonnage figures declined steadily from January of this year until June, when a big gain was recorded. Since then the increase has been at the rate of better than 500,000 tons a month up to the September figures.

OFFER FOR TOBACCO SHARES

A. T. Securities Corporation Mails Proposition to Stockholders.

The recently formed A. T. Securities Corporation yesterday mailed an offer to holders of the common stock of the American Tobacco Company which provides for the exchange of four shares of A. T. Corporation for one share of American Tobacco. This offer will be in force from Oct. 15 to Nov. 14, inclusive. Arrangements have been made whereby holders of American Tobacco common shares can deposit the same with the Guaranty Trust Company and receive in exchange the temporary certificates of the A. T. Corporation on the basis of four for one.

The A. T. Securities Corporation elected the following officers yesterday: President—George A. Harder; Vice President—Angier B. Duke; Treasurer—Robert A. Norriss. The Directors are George A. Harder, Angier B. Duke, G. M. P. Murphy, Harold Stanley, John B. Cobb, and Thomas Yuille. The last two are former Vice Presidents of the American Tobacco Company.

PEASANT REVOLT IN SICILY.

4,000 Rebels Rout Troops and Seize Riesi—Seven Persons Killed.

ROME, Oct. 10.—Reports from Sicily today state that the town of Riesi, in the sulphur mining district, has been seized by rebellious peasants. Four thousand of the peasants, engaged in an attempt to take possession of land, fought with troops sent against them, seven persons being killed and many others wounded.

The troops and the town authorities, it is added, were compelled to retire, leaving Riesi in the possession of the rebels.

CANADA TO TAKE OVER GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Ottawa Journal Says Smithers, After 18 Months of Negotiations, Has Consented to Arbitrate.

OTTAWA, Oct. 10.—The Canadian Government expects to have control of the Grank Trunk Railway system both in Canada and the United States within a few weeks, according to The Ottawa Journal.

The system will be turned over to the Canadian National Railway Corporation for operation, the newspaper asserts. This corporation is now operating the Intercolonial Railway, Prince Edward Island Railway, Canadian Northern Railway, National Transcontinental Railway, and the Government's Mercantile Marine.

The Journal says it understands that a statement in connection with the entire Grand Trunk situation will be given to Parliament in a day or two. After eighteen months of negotiations, during which the Grand Trunk Directors are said to have held out for higher terms, Sir Alfred Smithers, Chairman of the Grand Trunk Board, has consented to arbitrate.

The newspaper declares that the Cabinet is in full agreement in regard to the terms which are to form the basis of arbitration, and that the board will consist of three persons, one to be appointed by the Government, one by the Grand Trunk, while the third will be chosen by the Chief Justice of Canada, the Chief Justice of Ontario, and the Senior Judge of the Exchequer Court.

SUGGESTS FRANCE BUY GOODS IN GERMANY

Raoul Peret Tells of Difficult Financial Situation the Country Faces.

PARIS, Oct. 10, (Associated Press.)—Immediate resumption of trade to the utmost and the development of business relations with Germany are the logical policy of France, said Raoul Peret, former Minister of Commerce, and now Vice-President of the Chamber of Deputies and the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the lower house of Parliament, to The Associated Press today.

"I will go further," M. Peret added, "and say that it would be good policy for the French Government to take up the buying in Germany of all raw materials and manufactured articles needed here, so that we can finish or sell them to consumers."

M. Peret said he was not quite sure as to the feasibility of the latter plan, but declared he was positive the only relief in sight for the exchange situation was to buy less from countries where France already is in debt and take the maximum amount from those countries in which France is an enormous creditor.

"France is in a very difficult situation," M. Peret continued. "I am not a pessimist, because I know the resourcefulness of our people, but I am unable to be an optimist when, in preparing our budget, I find our obligations are going to be in the neighborhood of 25,000,000,000 francs annually, with 10,000,000,000 francs in resources in sight and only vague prospects for collecting the 8,000,000,000 francs annually which represents what Germany owes us for reparations and pensions.

"The Peace Conference was at fault for not fixing the sums to be paid by Germany on stated dates. In principle the Government is bound to pay for the restoration of Northern France and for pensions, but when or how no one knows."

TRIAL BUDGET GIVES SCHOOLS $87,051,081

DOUBLE AMOUNT OF 1919

Action Will Afford Opportunity for Public Discussion and Examination by Board of Estimate.

Because it received the request of the Board of Education for more than $87,000,000 to run the department in 1920 on Oct. 4 instead of Sept. 1, too late to inquire into the various items, the Finance and Budget Committee of the Board of Estimate yesterday decided to allow the full amount to go into the tentative budget so that it could be discussed in public by the Estimate Board. The amount the school board asked for is more than double the amount it received for 1919, and it is likely that the increased amount will be decidedly cut when the final budget figures are prepared. Regarding the Board of Education's request the Budget Committee said:

"This estimate, under the requirements of the education law, should have been submitted on Sept. 1, 1919. The time elapsing after the receipt of the itemized estimate has not been sufficient for full examination and consideration of these items by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and they are therefore included in this tentative budget at the amounts requested to afford an opportunity for public discussion and further examination and revision by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

"The amount that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment is mandatorily required to appropriate for educational purposes at the rate of 4.9 mills on the assessed valuation of real and personal property in the City of New York is estimated at $43,074,604.11. The total requested by the Board of Education is $87,051,061.26, or an excess of $43,976,457.15."

The Budget Committee decided to incorporate in the tentative budget for next year $1,100,000 for the New York Public Library, which includes the maintenance of the free circulating library branches in Manhattan, Bronx, and Richmond. This is approximately $20,000 more than was requested by the library Trustees on Aug. 1. The additional amount is to provide a margin sufficient to meet the increases in the salaries of library employes, thus bringing their percentage increase up to that of other city employes.

The committee also included $300,000 for the support of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, on the same basis as for the Public Library. This is the full amount requested by the trustees. It allowed for the American Museum of Natural History the sum of $295,140, which is approximately $20,000 more than was requested by the employes. The committee voted $230,000 for the New York Zoological Garden in the Bronx on the same basis, which is approximately the same amount as that requested. For the aquarium at the Battery, the committee voted $55,000, the total amount requested.

For the Brooklyn Public Library $660,000 was requested and $675,000 was voted by the committee, owing to increased salaries in accordance with the rule adopted for the civilian employes of the city. For the Central Institute of the Brooklyn Museum of Arts and Sciences, $130,000 was voted by the committee. The Children's Museum in Brooklyn was allowed $18,500, and the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, $65,600.

The committee also included $290,000 for the Queens Public Library and $7,097 for the Staten Island Museum of Arts and Sciences, the amount requested. The committee incorporated a new item of $1,000,000 for the prosecution of the Jamaica Bay improvement.

TO TEST PROHIBITION LAW.

Big Kentucky Company Files Suit Against the Government.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 10.—Suit to test the constitutionality of the wartime prohibition law was filed in the Federal District Court here today by Levy Mayer of Chicago and Marshall Bullitt of Louisville.

The Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Company, one of the largest concerns of the kind in the country, was made plaintiff, and Elwood Hamilton, Collector of Internal Revenue for Kentucky, was named defendant.

The petition alleges that the law is unconstitutional because it violates the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, in that it confiscates property without just compensation.

The property in question, according to the pleadings, involves 65,000,000 gallons of whisky in bonded warehouses in Kentucky valued at approximately $75,000,000.

FROST SCARE GIVES COTTON NEW GAINS

Colder Weather Over the Belt Starts Market on Strong Upward Climb.

CLOSES UP 30 TO 55 POINTS

Liverpool Reports Indicate Revival of Trade Activity—Spot Market Brisk.

A new frost scare, based on reports of colder weather in the Western part of the belt and Weather Bureau predictions for freezing temperatures last night, sent yesterday's cotton market up again, and resulted in the recovery of all the losses sustained on the previous day, although the market did not quite reach the record high figures scored on the bulge on Thursday morning. At the top yesterday the market was up 60 to 71 points over the preceding day's closing levels, and at the end of business it was 30 to 43 points up for December to May, and about 55 points up for October, which has suddenly developed more strength than the more distant options.

The advent of cold weather this year has proved much more potent as a bullish influence than is generally the case at this time of year. This is because of the backwardness of the crop, and the relatively small size of the last Government estimate.

With a crop of less than 11,000,000 bales at the last counting, and with the crop two to three weeks backward, frost at this time might easily cause an even further reduction in the visible supply for next year, and the trade apparently is counting on something of this sort to send prices even higher than they are at present.

Added to the frost scare yesterday there was some good trade buying, but this was not the factor in advancing prices that the Wall Street and other speculative buying was. In Thursday's trading there was a good deal of profit-taking. Yesterday many of those who had taken profits on the long side on the day before bought back their contracts, and this buying, more than anything else, sent the market upward with a rush.

Reports from Liverpool continued to indicate a decided revival in trade activity there. The spot market there was brisk, and the yarn and cloth markets were firm and reasonably active. Spot buying at Liverpool continued on a good scale, and futures, after a more or less uncertain opening, closed the day at advances ranging from 7 to 14 points.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Business property was the feature of yesterday's realty market, one of the largest transactions being the purchase by Carl Fischer, manufacturer of musical instruments, of a site in Cooper Square for a one-million-dollar building for his own occupancy.

The purchase, which was made from the Woodbury Langdon estate and the Woodbury Langdon Company, and involves 56 to 62 Cooper Square, two two-story buildings with stores, and two four-story buildings with stores, the four properties occupying a site with a frontage of about 112 feet, with southerly and northerly lines measuring 98.5 and 79.9 feet, respectively. The sale was negotiated by J. H. Mayers and William M. Cruikshank's Sons.

The buyer now occupies the six buildings to the south of the site just sold. He owns 52 and 54, and holds under lease 44 to 50 Cooper Square.

Operators Buy and Sell Midtown Lofts.

The Grand Rapids Furniture Company sold to Frederick Brown, operator, the twelve-story loft building 34-36 West Thirty-second Street, and for J. Cavanagh the four-story flat at 45.8 by 98.9, located just east of Broadway and adjoining the Arena Building. The building is valued at $450,000. The sellers will vacate the property next January. Byrne & Bowman and Julian T. Saxe were the brokers in the transaction.

Another deal in the midtown loft zone was closed yesterday by Samuel Barkan, who purchased from Max N. Natanson, the twelve-story fireproof structure, on plot 53 by 92, at 6 and 8 West Eighteenth Street. The building yields an annual rental of $38,000 and was held at $350,000. The transaction was negotiated by Bernard London. Mr. Barkin purchased on Thursday from the same owner the twelve-story loft at 50 to 54 West Seventeenth Street.

A Unique East Side Private Dwelling Development.

A group of investors headed by Edward Shepard Hewitt, architect, is the buyer of the twelve private houses in one plot in the block bounded by Sixty-fifth Street, Sixty-sixth Street, Lexington and Third Avenues, 157 to 167 East Sixty-fifth Street, and 154 to 164 East Sixty-sixth Street, sold by the Gerry estate.

Nine of these houses are three-story and basement high-stoop dwellings, on lots 18.6 by 100.5, and the remaining three are on lots 18.9 by 100.5.

It is the intention of the buyers to remodel the houses, throw the rear yards into an open court, and build an Italian garden with fountain, pools, &c. Both the rears and the fronts of the twelve houses will be rebuilt.

The plot is favorably situated for this development, as the balance of the block toward Lexington Avenue is covered with the St. Vincent Ferrer Catholic Church, which recently erected a handsome new structure on the Sixty-sixth Street half of the block from plans of Bertram G. Goodhue. The balance of the block to Third Avenue remains in the hands of the Gerrys, and is under ground leases for several years to come.

There has been considerable activity in this immediate neighborhood recently, centring around Sixty-third, Sixty-fourth, and Sixty-fifth Streets. Frederick J. Sterner, the architect, recently purchased and resold five houses in Sixty-third Street, and has been instrumental in improving the charatter of these blocks greatly in the last few years. The demand for small private houses, owing to the scarcity of apartments, continues unlimited.

$525,000 Heights Apartment Changes Hands.

Philip Meyrowitz bought from G. Getsky a six-story apartment on a plot 173.9 by 140.5 feet at the southeast corner of 181st Street and Fort Washington Avenue, known as 454 to 462 Fort Washington Avenue. The property rents for about $70,000, and was held at $525,000. The New York Life holds a mortgage on the building of $350,000 at 5½ per cent.

Franklin Street Loft Trade.

Charles F. Noyes Company has sold for B. Arthur Aycrigg the Aycrigg estate, the Hegemans, and in all seventeen owners, 87 Franklin Street, a five-story loft building on lot 23.7 by 100, between Broadway and Church Street. The property was purchased by Thomas F. Curran, and it is understood that Mr. Curran, or a company that he represents, will make extensive improvements and occupy the entire building.

Dwelling Sales.

Charles Fredericks sold for Simon S. Friedberg to Mrs. M. B. S. Uda the dwelling on a plot 100 by 100 feet at 369 West 120th Street, Morningside Park Section.

The Lloyd Winthrop Company sold for Mrs. A. C. Roberts to the Darfell Realty Company a dwelling twenty by 100 feet at 49 West Eighty-fourth Street. The buyers have resold to a client for occupancy.

Jacob Freund sold the dwelling on a plot 19.9 by 100.8 feet at 49 East Ninety-first Street.

William R. Ware sold to John J. and Bridget Finn for Benjamin F. Romaine the two four-story dwellings 32 by 100.11 feet at 65 and 67 West Ninety-seventh Street.

Apartment House Deals.

Charles S. Kohler, Inc., has sold for Maurice Goodman to the Retzker Realty Company, Michael Retzker, president, 530 West 180th Street, southeast corner of Audubon Avenue, a five-story apartment on plot 54 by 95 renting for over $14,000, and held at $110,000.

Charles Wynne resold to Henry B. Godfrey, 228 East Seventy-fifth Street, a five-story apartment on a lot 22 by 100. Harry Sugerman was the broker.

B. W. Smith, Inc., sold for Leopold Weiss to an investor, a six-story apartment on a plot 40 by 100 feet at 155 and 157 West 145th Street, held at $48,500.

Edward W. Browning bought from William M. Sperry the five-story apartment on a plot 25 by 100.11 feet at 4 West Ninety-ninth Street. Adolph Weiss & Son were the brokers.

David H. Van Damm bought from H. E. Gennerich the Tacoma, a six-story apartment on a plot 100 by 100 feet at 1,364 to 1,370 St. Nicholas Avenue. The property rents for $25,000 and was held at $250,000.

Tenement Transactions.

Geo. N. Bruno & Company sold for the estate of Francis R. Appleton, 202 East 104th Street, a four-story tenement house.

David Lion resold the five-story flat at 110 West 134th Street on a lot 28 by 100, to a client of Charles A. Knowles.

The Bronx Market.

Alexander Selkin and Carl Jaffe sold for Samuel Lehra a five-story apartment on a plot 5.82 by 112 feet at 1,632 University Avenue, showing a rental of $15,000.

William H. Meklich, Inc., sold for the E. R. Realty Company, to Annie Katz, a six-story apartment on a lot 39 by 100 feet at 1104 Findlay Avenue, near 166th Street.

G. Bensa sold to A. Mandel, through Bartels Maxman, the five-story apartment at 2,154 Crotona Avenue. The same brokers sold for J. Canebury a two-family house on Clinton Avenue, south of 182d Street, and for J. Cavanagh the four-story flat at 2,081 Vyse Avenue.

Samuel H. Martin sold for the Central Union Trust Company of Albany to the Pittham Realty and Holding Corporation and resold to James Hopkin a dwelling at 1,214 Nelson Avenue.

Ernest N. Adler sold for Ernestine C. Gardner to Otto Michio a dwelling on a plot 16S by 58 feet at 51 Prospect Place.

The United Land Development Company, Inc., purchased from the 137th Street Corporation, a parcel 100 by 100 feet on Wilder Avenue, between Edenwald Avenue and Kingsbridge Road; also 50 by 100 feet on Murdock Avenue, between Edenwald and Randall Avenues; and a lot on Edson Street, between Edenwald and Randall Avenues.

Tax Payer at foot of Elevated Station

WOULDN'T YOU LIKE
To do what Mr. D. P. P. did at a Traffic Centre?
In 1896 he invested $20,000 in this taxpayer—$6,000 in cash, $14,000 on Mortgage.
This property pays an income of $12,000 today on the $6,000 originally invested.

TRAFFIC CENTRES
Have you thought of the value of property at traffic centres?
For instance, 34th St. and Broadway, 42nd St. and Broadway, 59th St. and Broadway, 72nd St. and Broadway.
Lots are worth at these centres, $100,000 to $400,000 each
Use a little vision, imagination and foresight.
Let us see what 242nd Street and Broadway is today.
At this point 242nd Street (Spuyten Duyvil Parkway) runs into Broadway, draining all the west and southwest of this section.
Here 246th Street runs into Broadway, draining all the west and northwest. The population goes to this point to get to the Subway.
Here all Yonkers traffic transfers from trolley cars to the Subway. They would shop here if there were stores to shop in.
Here all traffic to and from Van Cortlandt Park goes to the Subway station. Van Cortlandt is the greatest athletic playground of the City today.
Here all auto traffic to Yonkers and all points north must pass or take a longer route.
Here all traffic converges on Broadway from the north and northeast to go south and west.
WHAT WILL THIS POINT BE IN THE FUTURE?
IT MUST OF NECESSITY BE ONE OF THE GREATEST TRAFFIC AND SHIPPING CENTRES, AND PROPERTY VALUES AND RENTS WILL BE IN TIME AS GREAT AS THEY ARE IN OTHER CENTRES.

249 LOTS on Broadway will be sold between 242d St. and 256th St. and Intersecting Streets, Opposite Van Cortlandt Park, together with 24 buildings
At an absolute AUCTION SALE of the Van Cortlandt Property
Tuesday, October 14th at 12 o'clock

The New York Times:

We were pleased with results obtained from our advertisement in The New York Times Help Wanted column.

More than fifty replies were received, but that is secondary in view of the fact that most of the answers were of the very finest calibre.

We added a very desirable young man to our organization, and shall always be pleased to recommend The Times to our friends.

GIRL CREATES STIR AT ANARCHIST TRIAL

Mollie Steimer, Convicted Under Espionage Act, Remains Seated at Court's Entrance.

MARTYR POSE A FAILURE

Justice Weeks Refuses Contempt Citation, but Orders Her Excluded —Three Witnesses Examined.

The trial of Gust Alonen and Carl Piavio, charged with criminal anarchy in connection with articles in their Finnish magazine, The Class Struggle, was continued yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Bartow S. Weeks, with the examination of Archibald E. Stevenson, counsel for the Lusk Committee, which is investigating radical activities; Meta Rumel, who translated the articles into English for the committee, and Emil Kaarna, the printer of the magazine. Immediately after a five-minute recess taken during the morning, the proceedings were enlivened by the action of Mollie Steimer, the young Russian girl, who is now out on $10,000 bail pending appeal from her conviction in the Federal District Court for violation of the Espionage act. As Justice Weeks entered the court, she refused to follow the usual custom of rising, and then refused to give her name to the Court. The Judge said he would not hold her in contempt, thereby giving her an opportunity to martyr herself, but that she would be excluded from the courtroom in the future.

At the morning session, after a brief continuation of the direct examination by Assistant District Attorney Alexander I. Rorke, Mr. Stevenson was cross-examined by Captain Swinburne Hale, of counsel for the defense. At the conclusion of the testimony, Captain Hale said that his purpose was to show that Mr. Stevenson was "irresponsible and untrustworthy. The defense then attempted to show that in translating from the Finnish, Miss Rumel had been inaccurate to the extent of using the strongest English equivalent where there was a choice of milder terms. The direct examination of Kaarna was not finished when adjournment was taken until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, but Mr. Rorke brought out the fact that the defendants had visited Kaarna only a week ago last Sunday with the expressed purpose of obtaining proofs of the last number of their magazine, which had never gone to press, but that they had freely discussed the pending trial in the knowledge that Kaarna would be one of the witnesses.

When Justice Weeks returned to court after a recess during the morning, every one in the court room promptly arose, except Mollie Steimer. The Court attendants beckoned to her, but she remained seated. When the Judge noted the incident, he had the Court officer bring the girl before him. To his repeated requests for her name, she made no reply, so finally the Judge ordered her taken to an ante-room until the end of the morning session, when he would take action. Just before 1 o'clock Mollie was again arraigned, and this time she was as stolid and uncommunicative as immediately after her offense. However, in the meantime, Justice Weeks had learned her identity, and in addressing her, said:

"I am informed that you are one of the most pronounced abhorrers of this Government, have been convicted under the Espionage act, and are now out under bail. You shall not be successful in an effort to pose as a martyr. I will let you go, although you deserve to be cited for contempt. You will not be allowed to enter this Court again except as a prisoner." The Judge then instructed the Court attendants to take the names and addresses of all those who in the future entered the Court as spectators and auditors.

On Sept. 18, Mollie Steimer was arraigned in the Tombs Court before Magistrate Robert C. Ten Eyck, charged with disorderly conduct for distributing alleged anarchistic literature at Canal and Centre Streets. She was arrested, after, it is alleged, she had thrown circulars from the roof of a building in Canal Street, denouncing the National Security League's "Constitution Day" exercises. She was arrested as she left the building. The case is still pending.

The cross examination of Mr. Stevenson began soon after court opened in the morning, with questions designed to place on record the activities of the witness in connection with the Union League Club, the Overman Committee, and the Lusk Committee. Mr. Stevenson admitted that members of the Union League Club, "had seen influential members of the Legislature," with a view to having the measure creating the Lusk Committee passed. When Captain Hale asked him whether he had attempted to avoid publicity in connection with his activities on this Committee, he said he had, "as counsel." He admitted that he had prepared a list of suspected persons for the Overman Committee, and that the list had been headed with the name of Jane Addams and ended with the name of Lillian Wald. Captain Hale then pointed out that they had both been the founders of settlement houses and supporters of charities, and that Lillian Wald had been appointed by President Wilson as representative for the public on the industrial conference going on in Washington.

After asking the preliminary questions as to Kaarna's business and his relations to the defendants in connection with the printing of their magazine, Mr. Rorke questioned him at length upon the circumstances leading up to the publication of the first number. Captain Hale repeatedly objected to this line of questioning as being incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial, but was overruled. The District Attorney finally led up to the point where Kaarna told of the visit which Alonen and Piavio made at his home at 110 West Eighty-second Street, a week ago last Sunday. Kaarna said that the men had come for proofs, but that they had discussed the case freely.

"I said to Piavio," the witness testified, "'What if the jury asks me if you were in my house?' Piavio said he supposed I would have to tell them, but if anybody else asked about it, it would not be necessary to say anything."

"Did you arrange to say that Alonen and Piavio had come only for proofs?" questioned Mr. Rorke.

"No, certainly not!" was the emphatic answer.

Miss Rumel was cross-examined by Captain Hale on the text of her translation of the articles which form the basis of the charge of criminal anarchy. She admitted that the Finnish words comprising the title of one, "The Activity of the Rioting Masses," she had in the body of the story rendered simply as "mob action." In the sentence, "To hell with the peaceful teaching of revolution," the counsel for the defense contended that the Finnish word which had been rendered as "teaching" should have been translated as, "doctrine." In most of these cases a Finnish-English dictionary was brought into play, and it was shown that a variety of renderings was permissible.

Col. Miller Jarred on Auto Ride.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Oct. 10.—Colonel Archie Miller, Commandant of Hazelhurst Field, is resting in bed today, following a slight pain in his spine as a result of being jarred when his automobile struct a rut in the road last night. A physician from the Medical Corps stated there was nothing the matter with the Colonel, but the latter decided to rest up. As a matter of precaution, four X-ray photographs were taken of the spine.

GEM SELLER ADMITS $60,000 JEWEL THEFT

Man Confesses Stealing from Malcolm Whitman's Country Home, While Servant There.

ARRESTED IN MAIDEN LANE

Detective Saw Him Offering Stones at Suspiciously Low Prices— Police Silent About Robbery.

Another $60,000 gem theft, which had been kept quiet by the police for three weeks, was revealed yesterday by the arrest of a man who was put under surveillance by detectives because he was offering jewels to Maiden Lane dealers at figures far under their actual value. He had in his possession several valuable pieces of jewelry, $1,000 in cash, and a bank book showing that he had $2,500 deposited in a Bowery savings institution.

After the man had been taken to Police Headquarters he confessed to Inspector John J. Cray that he had stolen about $60,000 worth of gems from the home of Malcolm D. Whitman at Lawrence, L. I. His own story of the details of the theft corresponded with a report made to Police Headquarters by Mr. Whitman about Sept. 19, soon after the jewels disappeared. The jewels in his possession also fitted the descriptions furnished by members of the Whitman family.

Mr. Whitman was called to Police Headquarters late yesterday afternoon and identified the jewels. He also identified the prisoner as a man whom he had hired as an assistant to the butler only a few days before the disappearance of the jewels, and who quit work shortly before the loss was discovered. The man had told Mr. Whitman when he hired him that an employment agency in Madison Avenue that his name was Alexander Roman, but he told Inspector Cray yesterday that his real name was John Reider and that he had lived at 335 Forty-fifth Street, Brooklyn, since he had given up the life of a sailor.

In the collection were several gems given to Mrs. Whitman by her aunt, Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, when she was married in San Francisco in July, 1912. Before her marriage Mrs. Whitman was Jennie A. Crocker, daughter of the late Charles F. Crocker, of San Francisco, and said then to have been the heiress of $10,000,000.

Reider told Inspector Cray that he had been working at the Whitman home only a few days as assistant to the butler when he was instructed to clean the windows in some of the bedrooms upstairs. While he was doing this, he said, his attention was attracted by a large jewelry case on a dressing table in one of the rooms. He said he was fascinated by the beauty of the case, and stood admiring it for several minutes. When he tried to work again, he said, he was unable to make any progress because his thoughts dwelt continually upon the beauty of the jewel case.

Unable to work, Reider said he turned his attention again to the jewel case and finally decided to take one peep under the lid. He said the glitter of the gems excited him, and he thrust the case into his pocket and went downstairs. There he told the butler that he did not like the place any more, he said, and that he thought he would leave at once. Several hours later members of the family discovered that the jewels had disappeared.

One of the large pieces of jewelry reported missing by Mr. Whitman was a rope pearl necklace, decorated with diamonds and other jewels, and valued at about $40,000. This necklace originally had sixty-three gems, but only seven of them were recovered yesterday. Several diamond rings and bracelets, a jeweled mesh bag, some pins, and several unmounted stones also were recovered, and Mr. Whitman said that they represented a "substantial amount" of the collection.

Mr. Whitman has an office at 25 Madison Avenue and his town house is at 1 East Eighty-ninth Street.

The arrest of three men by police of the East Fifty-first Street Station revealed yesterday that burglars had broken into the home of Mrs. Seth Low, widow of the former Mayor, at 320 Park Avenue, about Oct. 1. No loss was reported to the police. Three men were held in $1,000 bail each on the charge of having been implicated. They described themselves as James Carney of 431 East Eighty-third Street, James Duffy of 223 East Seventieth Street, and Martin Murray of 507 East Eighty-seventh Street.

Several other robberies and burglaries were reported yesterday. L. Barzaghi, President of the Maresi Confectionery Company, reported that burglars had stolen $2,000 worth of silverware from his home at 130 West Seventy-seventh Street. The loss was discovered by members of the family when they returned from a vacation. He said that the burglars had packed up about $10,000 worth of other goods, ready to be taken away from the house.

TWO SMOTHERED IN CELLAR.

Workmen Killed When Walls of Dance Hall's Foundation Collapse.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 10.—Two Italian laborers were smothered to death in the collapse of a cellar in Quien's Old Dance Hall, Elizabeth Avenue and Liberty Square, Elizabeth, this afternoon. Another laborer, Salvatore Montenols, 28 years old, of 541 Third Avenue, was seriously injured and taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital. The dead men have not yet been identified.

The men were digging around an old wine cellar trying to keep it intact, when it caved in and buried them. Workmen are digging in the cellar, searching for more bodies. The building was formerly used as a dance hall, and a ratskeller, to which the wine cellar was attached, was in the basement of the building.

Overpayments on Income Taxes

"To pay a tax lawfully imposed is a patriotic duty—to resist one not clearly imposed is equally a patriotic duty."

Surrogate's Court, Saratoga County. September 5, 1919.

MANY taxpayers, due to a lack of knowledge of the intricate and obscure points of the regulations, have interpreted the requirements too liberally.

In such cases, a review of the returns filed and of the taxes paid may reveal substantial overpayments.
